THE TEXT IS LIGHT IN THE BOOK

A

DESCRIPTIVE LIST

OF

NOVELS AND TALES

DEALING WITH

LIFE IN GERMANY.

COMPILED BY
W: M. GRISWOLD.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.: W: M. GRISWOLD, PUBLISHER. 1892. We hope teachers will not fail to recognize the work W. M. Griswold is doing in his classified bibliography. He sends us a Descriptive List of Novels and Tales dealing with Life in France (Cambridge, Mass., 1892, 8vo, pp. 94. $1.00), which is of immediate practical use to the teacher of French history as well as of French literature.

[From the "Central Christian Advocate."]

Mr. Griswold has done an excellent work, which will be appreciated by all librarians, and by many people of cultivated taste who wish to get on the track of the best French fiction, or at least to secure some guidance and information in regard to its qualities and characteristics. His former "lists" have dealt with American City and Country Lifewith Life in England, etc... Life in city and country, peasant life and soldier life, the reckless and adventurous career of the free and easy student in Paris, and the rude rustic among the mountains,—all these phases of French life pass in review in the books which Mr. Griswold has here catalogued. A guide like this would be invaluable to a student of French literature, telling as well what to avoid, as what to secure and read.

[From the "Boston Commonwealth," 13 Aug., 1892.]

If all libraries wer generously equipped with these Lists, the long-suffering curator of books would find more pleasure in life. The compilation and selection ar made with rare skill. The poor book drops into deserved oblivion, while the worthy but neglected and forgotten good book is restored to the eye of the world.

Some not too busy people make note of the name of a novel recommended by a trustworthy critic, but when the time for use comes the note seldom is at hand, and, if ready, generally give the mere title and no idea of the contents. But here is a series of brochures that contain excerpts from the fairest critical notices, often from several sources, and one is enabled to form a sort of judgment of choice without actually glancing at the book itself. Of course, those dealing with foreign lands must for the greater part be translations, since with few exceptions the most truthful and vivid characterizations come from the compatriot who has summered and wintered his fellows. Few people realize the patience, skill, and labor involved in such an undertaking as the publication of these successiv lists, but those who do should urge upon others the use of so valuable a means of education and pleasure. As a series of 'condensed novels' they ar interesting, too.

GERMAN NOVELS.

The object of this list is to direct readers, such as would enjoy the kind of books here described, to a number of novels, easily accessible, but which, in many cases, hav been forgotten within a year or two after publication. That the existence of works of fiction is remembered so short a time is a pity, since, for every new book of merit, there ar, in most libraries, a hundred as good or better, unknown to the majority of readers. It is hoped that the publication of this and similar lists will lessen, in some measure, the disposition to read an inferior NEW book when superior OLD books, equally fresh to most readers, ar at hand. It may be observed that the compiler has tried to include only such works as ar well-written, interesting, and free from sensationalism, sentimentality, and pretense. BUT in a few cases, books hav been noticed on account of the reputation of their authors, or their great popularity, rather than their merit.

The selected "notices" ar generally abridged.

This list will be followed by others describing RUSSIAN, NORWEGIAN, SPANISH, — HUMOROUS, ECCENTRIC and FANCIFUL novels and tales.

AARON'S ROD, or the Jewess, in Southern Lit. Messenger, Sept. 1846.

2323

ADÉ [by ESMÉ STUART: London, The S. P. C. K., 1882.] "is the tale of an unlöved husband and a forsaken löver, of duty faithfully discharged and of virtue rewarded in the end." [Athenaum. 2324

AERONAUT, by A. STIFTER, in Illus.

Mag. of Art, Feb., 1853.

AFTERGLOW [Dresden] = No.

AFTERGLOW [Dresden] = No. 405.

AGAINST THE STREAM, by E. Eckstein, in Masterpieces of German Fiction. 2326

ALL IN VAIN, by R. LINDAU, in Masterpieces of German Fiction. 2327
ALOYS, by B. AUERBACH: Holt, 1877. 2328

ALPINE FAY (The). [by "E. WER-NER," i. e., E., Bürstenbinder: Lippincott, 1889.] "Two pretty motherless girls. cousins, divide the interest. The father of one is a wealthy man and the president of a great railway; that of the other a baron, and possessor of an ancestral mansion among the mountains, which the railroad president is trying to get for his railway. The struggle to retain his home kils the old baron, and he dies cursing the originator of the road. Added to this curse is a legend of the 'Alpine Fay' connected with a peak which is verified in the story just as the baron's curse seems to carry out its evil work. The theft of an invention, the final punishment of the thief, several love affairs, and many charming scenes from domestic life make up the story." [Pub. Weekly.] It "is agreeable.
. Readers who do not relish the ultra emotionalism of the German novel may yet find in the strong and effectiv local coloring of this book a good excuse for giving it their attention." [American.

—, SAME ("A Heavy Reckoning.")
—, SAME ("The Fairy of the Alps.")
See No. 729.
2329

AMAZON (The) [by FRANZ DINGELSTEDT (†, 1881): Putnam, 1868.] "deals cleverly with artistic and theatrical life under the glare of the footlights." [Nation. 2330

ANNA HAMMER [by HUBERTUS TEMME: Harper, 1852] "give a vivid picture of the interior of german life, and is filled with passages of exciting interest." [Harper's. 2331

ARISTOCRATIC WORLD (The)
by Fanny (Lewald) Stahr: in Masterpicoes of German Fiction. 2332
ASBEIN, by "Ossip Schubin," Worthington, 1890. See No. 2345.

AT A HIGH PRICE [by "E. Werner," i. e., E.. Bürstenbinder: Estes, 1879] "A löve affair between twö young people as strongly affected by a feud of long standing between twö elderly men, who stand in near relation and friendship to the lövers. One of the men is a physician of renown, the öther is the governor of the Province. The cause of the bitter feud is political. Gabrielle, the heroin, is the ward of the governor, whom she learns to löve, and hence is ready to sacrifice her early löver. The situation is elucidated by a tragedy." [Pub. Weekly.

-, SAME ("No Surrender") Remington, 1879, Munro, 1888.

--, SAME, ("The Price He Paid") N. Y., Street, 1891. 2333

AT ODDS, = No. 598.

AT QUARANTINE, by FANNY

(LEWALD) STARR: in The Radical, Nov., 1871. 2334

AT THE ALTAR, by WERNER, = No. 594.

AT THE COUNCILLOR'S [by "E. MARLITT," i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Lippincott [Bentley] 1876] is "a story which compares wel with the best the author has written, while it is far better than her worst. She always runs the risk of overdoing whatever she takes in hand, of exaggerating the goodness of her heroes and heroins, and the villainy of the wicked ones; but if we overlook this fault, we find her capable of interesting the reader and of giving a fair picture of german life. On this occasion she has drawn upon her experience of the turmoil which has arisen in her country since the late war, and has shon the disturbance caused by the sudden gain and sudden loss of wealth. The councillor does not belong to one of the fine old families, but he accumulates a large fortune and illustrates admirably the fate of those of his class who ar put on horsebac, by riding rapidly in the familiar direction, expediting his journey by the awful explosion of dynamite. The main interest of the book lies not in him but in the heroin, Kitty, who is young, rich, handsome, fascinating - in fact, faultless; and in the silent, uncomplaining, but able Dr. Bruck. Flora, who was for a long time engaged to Bruck, was a very mischievous young person, and is the object of the utmost virulence on the part of the author. She is aggressivly wicked; and this exaggeration is the more to be regretted because she is a wel-imagind character." [Nation.] - "We cannot say that any of the personages of the story ar very pleasing. The doctor, who is the hero, is a good example of the half-scientific, half-military prig, BEACON FIRES ["Flammenzeichnen") by "E. WERNER," i. e., E.. Burstenbinder: Bentley, 1891.] "is a German novel by a German, but it is written in good plan English. It is romantic, of course, and rather sentimental, but decidedly interesting. The struggle between father and son, which is the pith of the story, is wel conceived, and both hold the reader's sympathy. Von Falkenried, with his stern sense of disciplin, moral as wel as military, and with a kind nature hardened by a miserable marriage, is determined to make his sõn go as strait as he and his ancestors hav always gone. Hartmut, however, has his Roumanian mother's blood, and it is not of the quality which goes strait. At 17 he is induced by the divorced wife, his mother, whom he believed to be dead, to desert the military college where he is being trained, and to which is attached a sort of parole of honor not so binding as the oath of service, but distinctly understood, and also to break his promise to his father. These ar deep offenses, and they ar folloed by ten dubious years of adventurous life, in which Hartmut's poetic genius is developed at the cost of his morals and faith. How the gifted and unhappy son redeems the blited reputation by splendid service in the war with France, and reconciles his iron father, may be read, along with much more or less relevvant matter, in the pages of the book itself. Hartmut is a distinct individuality. and his story has interest. There is, of course, plenty of love-making of various sorts, and a great many weddings at the end, as German novels usually hav, and the only trouble is, that the fine fello Prince Egon has to be shot, because he also was in love with Adelheid, and she could'nt marry both him and Hartmut. [Saturday Review] - As a picture of various phases of life among the "classes" in Germany, the book can be heartily and unreservedly praised; and the humorous sub-story, which deals with the love-affairs of the easy-going young giant, Willibald von Eschenhagen, is really a good deal more enjoyable than the greater part of the rather melodramatic romance in which the Byronic hero, Hartmut Falkenried, is the leading figure. There is, however, a point in the story at which Hartmut ceases to be merely histrionic and becomes human; and from this point onward is, what the writer has meant him to be all along, the true centre of interest. His midnight interview with the stern father who has disoned him, and who refuses to condone the dishonor of the stainless name of Falkenried, is a really strong piece of work,- a tragic situation quite unspoiled by anything in the way of sentimental unreality; and hardly less impressiv is the pathetic and picturesque recital of the successful issue of the deed of daring by which the son saves the father's life." [Spectator.

—, SAME ("His Word of Honor"), N.-Y., Street & Smith, 1890 (284 p.)

—, SAME ("Northern Lights"), N.-Y., Bonner, 1890. 2339 q

a class wel knon in the Fatherland. The lady with whom he plays the game of fast and loose is 29 years old, writes, and speaks of herself as a 'rich perfumed plant;' while her grandmother and the other members of her family ar all disagreeable after their ways. Her halfsister, for whom her lover finally givs her up, an innocent and not wholy unpleasant young girl, tinctured, however, rather too deeply with Dresden culture, and the Doctor's ant, an elderly lady of the ' goody' type, who makes pancakes and talks piously, ar the only two people in the book whom we do not feel we should hate if we met them in the flesh. The descriptions ar good; tho, as is usual with descriptions of german life and scenery, they produce a somewhat depressing effect, like the stove-warmed rooms." [Athenæum.] - "This is one of the author's best stories, - a graphic picture of hi life; a vivid love-drama; a gallery of striking portraits, with a moral echo infinitly impressiv. contrast of Kitty, the heiress - a pure, innocent, sincere young girl, and the vain, arrogant, selfish Flora, her halfsister, is one of the finest effects in fiction; and the characters of the councillor and the physician ar not less effectivly opposed. The history of the betrothal of Flora and Bruck is a tragical drama, forcibly illustrating the woman's perfidy and the steadfast justice of the man. Kitty is a lovely character, who passes throu many tribulations to her due reward." [Boston "Literary World." 2335

BACHELOR OF GÖTTINGEN (The) in The Symbol, Jan., 1846. 2336.
BAILIFF'S MAID (The) [by "E. MARLITT," i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Lippincott, 1881.] is "a piece of fiction as faithful to life as to seem no fiction; a summer love-idyl, invested with nameless charm and quaintness of old-world existence; a plot of the simplest and most transparent character, yet with mysteries and surprises skilfully handled, and a technique fresh and rich . . . The scene is a beautiful secluded manor in the Thüringian forest - just the place for the new hêir of the estate, a wealthy young manufacturer from Berlin, to fall in love on occasion of his first visit; and fall in lõve he dões, most hopelessly, and much to his dismay, with the queenly and mysterious maid of the farm steward." [American. 2337

BALDINE = No. 598.

BANNED AND BLESSED = No. 600.

BAREFOOTED MAIDEN = LIT-TLE BAREFOOT.

BARON LEO VON OBERG, Boston, Loring, 1868. 2338

BARONESS BLANK, by A. Nie-Mann: Bonner, 1891. 2339

BEATRICE, by HEYSE, = No. 669. BEGINNING AND END, by HEYSE, = No. 669: also in Every Saturday, 23-30 jan., 1869. 2340

BELINDA [Dresden] = No. 420. BETROTHAL OF MR. QUINT, by H: Zschokke, in Graham's Mag., Feb.-Apr., 1844. 2341

BLACK FOREST VILLAGE STORIES. by Berthold Auer-(†, 1882.): Phil'a., F. BACH Thomas, 1858; N.Y., Leypoldt, 1869.7 "ar Præ-Raphaelite pictures of peasant life - pictures so simple and so vivid that with a little stretch of fancy we can see the figures moving in the fields or in the roads, the smoke curling from the rustic cottages, and almost hear the soft gutturals transforming themselvs into the sharp aspirates of our english speech. In each story we meet the same fresh-faced peasants, - the same homely, simple life. This is all delitful to read about, because it is so fresh and new. The perfectly unaffected manner in which these tales ar told is another of thêir charms, and the book wil hav a wholesom attraction for any reader whose taste has not been vitiated by the hily-spiced pictures current in the literature of tŏ-day." [Round Table.] -"All of them hav a wonderful air of truthfulness and naturalness and tenderness, to which undoubtedly, their popularity is due. That this should be as grêat as it is, even in forêin parts, and with readers whose experience is so unlike that of the german peasants and villagers, is good testimony to the author's excellence. In our opinion, it is in these village stories, and in his shorter, less ambitious novels, that Auerbach is at his best; he is certainly infinitly more natural, and he comes much nearer life, than he does in the long novels in which he discusses vague theories of social philosophy." [Atlantic]. - "The somewhat realistic english mind is rather repelled than attracted by Auerbach's peasants, who ar anything but genuin boors. They ar german philosophers, folloers οf Spinoza, tricked out for the nonce in peasant attire. Yet, for all these defects, the stories hav real merits, ar prettily told, and, save for the fault we hav named, ar true to nature." [Athenaum.]

The tales in this collection ar: The Gawk [a story continued in Aloys (No. 2328), The Pipe of War, Manor-House-Farmer's Vefela, Nip-cheeked Tony, Good Government, The Hostile Brothers, Ivo, Florian and Crescenz, The Lauterbacher. "How shal we dismiss the other stories, Brosie and Moni, for example. Ar we not to dwel even on the proud device of Brosie, 'I hav no equal,' which was quite true? Not a word about Ivo, who was to hav been a parish priest, and never became one; or his gentle mother, Christin, or Lorle, the village maiden whom the painter wedded, or his democratic and satirical friend, the Kohlebrater; or the shy schoolmaster from Lauterbach; or the story of Seb and Zilge and their house which was founded on sand? And Hops and Barley, and the sad disappearance of Vefele, and the adventures of Joseph in the Snow, with his witch friend, Lugard, Hecate's first cousin, and the wild Roemannin and Airle and Matthias who stole the May, ar these to be lumped in a bare catalog when they would furnish a winter's reading? But the rehersal of such names wil tel us why Auerbach is a household word among his countrymen; and why his death brot grief into German homes." Dublin See, also, GERMAN STO-Review. RIES.

- —, SAME ("Village Tales of the Black Forest,") Bogue, 1846-7, 2 v.
 - -, SAME ("Ivo"), London, 1847.
- -, SAME ("Florian and Crescenz"), London, 1853.
- —, SAME (" Professor's Lady"), Harper, 1850.
- -, SAME ("Lorley and Reinhart")

 Holt; 1877. 2342

BLOODSTONE (The) = No. 612. BLUE WONDER (The), by H: ZSCHOKKE, in The Albion, 8 july 1837. 2343

BOARDING SCHOOL GIRLS, by E. Eckstein, in Masterpieces of German Fiction. 2344

BORIS LENSKY [by "Ossir Schu-Bin," i. e., Lola Kirschner: N.-Y., Worthington, 1891.] is "a continuation of 'Asbein." The hero, who appears as a violinist, is said to be intended for Rubinstein. His selfishness and vanity ar further illustrated, and the last days of a great genius, whose powers ar waning, are depicted with a pitiful realism." [Pub. Weekly. 2345 BRAVE WOMAN (A), by "Marlitt," = No. 936.

BREACH OF CUSTOM ("Geheimniss des Geigers") by Reinhold Ortmann, N.-Y., Bonner, 1891. 2346
BREAKING OF THE DIKES, by Th. Mügge: [Schleswig] in Graham's Mag., Apr., 1856. 2346 g BREAKING OF THE STORM (The)
[by F: Spielhagen: Bentley, 1877.] is "a powerful and vivid picture of social life in Berlin during the late financial crisis." [Athenæum. 2346 k

BRIGADIER FREDERIC, by "ERCK-MANN CHATRIAN,"-No. 619. [Elsass.] BRIGITTA [by Berthold Aver-BACH: Holt, 1880.] "deals with simple peasant life and character. The heroin is the dauter of a peasant, once the oner of a farm and much forest-land, who is defrauded, ruined, and finally brôt to a premature grave by the machinations of a swindler. The burning sense of wrông which fires the old man's blood passes at his death into the nature of his dauter. She fights it with all the powers of wil and resolv, but when, years after, her enemy comes for treatment to the oculist in whose hospital she is serving as assistant, and she hears him boast of his crimes and their success, an uncontrollable fury seizes her; she tears the bandage from his eyes, tels her true name, and bids him go blind thenceforward as a judgment on his villainy. The terrible revulsion of remorse, her agony of relief when she learns that the operation was unsuccessful and in no case could her victim hav recovered his sight, the expiation she sets herself of tending her enemy and nursing him to the end of his days, her beautiful and peaceful life afterward as landlady of the Golden Lamb, ar all powerfully depicted, and make a harmonious and flawless picture, full of fresh and vigorous feeling." [Boston "Lit. World."] -- "Brigitta is a story which may be warmly commended. is in Auerbach's best style, and does not contain the discussions of the true inwardness of everything which sometimes overburden his long novels. It is a short story, very much like the Village Tales [No. 2342], by which we ar safe in presuming that this author wil be remembered by future generations. Indeed, it is to be borne in mind that Auerbach deservs credit, not merely for his delightful stories, but also with inspiring other writers with a desire to copy him. G: Sand, for instance, was led by reading these village tales to write 'La Mare au Diable' [No. 2013] and her other stories of simple peasant life. It is not given to every man to open a new path in literature, and that Auerbach has done this is something which should not be forgotten. Of late years, after abandoning the tale, he has tried more ambitious flights, which hav been less successful." [Atlantic.

BROKEN CHAINS [by "E. Werner," i. e., E.. Bürstenbinder: Osgood, 1875.] "The bonds riven ar those of matrimony. A young German, in a gushing mood, deserts his countinghouse and his too domestic wife for the life of a musical composer and the society of a passionate Italian. Reinhold is wel described, tho most english readers wil be rather repelled by his enthusiasm, and indignant at his artistic hypocrisy. Certainly, he is a selfish scamp, and the signora has more to do with his errors than the needs of his mental idiosyncrasy. His lamentations and rhapsodies ar wel contrasted with the plain sense of his brother, a merchant skipper, who comes home after a long absence just when Reinhold is on the point of escaping. His feelings ar not demonstrativ, but he is genuinly touched by his sister-in-law's distress, and makes a discovery about the color of her eyes which causes him, being a manly fello, to go throu much repressiv self disciplin. The character of Ella, whose principal fault was being too vouthful, is brôt out as wel as hardened She gains a complete by adversity. mastery over the truant Reinhold, to whom she is reconciled by force of circumstances, which need not be revealed." [Athenæum.

-, SAME ("Riven Bonds"), Remington, 1877. 2348

BUCHHOLZ FAMILY (The) [by Julius Stinde: London, Bell, 1886-7, 2 v.] "This series of letters from middle-class, typical ' Hausfrau,' who is utterly devoid of sentiment, poetry, of any feeling save jealousy, of any instinct save the maternal one, has passed into its 50th edition. . . . The truth is, that the great success of these brief sketches of middle-class people and their ways, drawn by one of themselvs, is due to the fact that they hav been recognized as perfect likenesses by the people who unconsciously sat for them. . . . More than this, Dr. Stinde has made his Wilhelmine Buchholz so vitally feminin in her pretty traits that she wil appeal to the hêart of many a woman in other ranks of society, who would, nevertheless, consider this german woman 'common.' Common she certainly is; but the way, for instance, in which she breaks off and renews her connection with the hated Bergfeldt family, is not unknon in other lands and circles. The other actors possess the same vital quality, tho they ar limited to casual exhibitions of it, in subordination to Wilhelmine. As a whole, they present a perfectly real but depressing class of the community, which is wholy wrapped up in its petty interests, which has no ambition to elevate itself in any way - which indeed, seems unconscious that there is anything hier than itself and its unintelligent ways except when some member of the circle, like Emil Bergfeldt, chances to recall the fact by marrying a little more money than it is accustomed to. Frau Bergfeldt has not an idea beyond snubbing or conciliating her dearest female friends, who ar also her natural enemies, and getting her dauters married; yet her nativ mother wit enables her to say things which ar clever and droll enuf to appeal to hily cultivated readers, if the latter wil take the small trouble of adjusting the focus to their vision." [Nation.] - The book "is amusing and readable; but if this is indeed german middle-class life and these ar the 'hausfrauen' of Berlin, one can only be thankful that he is not President Lincoln's wela Berliner. knon commendation is, however, here in order: 'For anybody who likes that sort of thing, it is just the sort of thing he would like,' - and presumably the placid Berliner likes women of this sort, for he takes especial pains to train them and compress them and trim them into just this type, and resists with horror any suggestion to make them more interesting or more reasonable." [Overland.

The second series of these sketches "differs to some extent from the first in style and method. Emphasis is laid on the kind and motherly qualities of Frau Buchholz rather than on her unconscious humor, and in the love story of her dauter Betti an attempt is made to suggest a romantic element of serious interest. . . . The author presents an admirable picture of a foppish young 'poet,' who thinks nothing good enuf for him in the writings of the great poets of the past, and is always convicting them of plagiarism. At last he is persuaded to read a poem of his on, when he is found practically to have appropriated one of Heine's lyrics." [Athenæum.] For continuation see FRAU WILHELMINE. 2349

BURGOMASTER OF BERLIN (The), in The Anglo-American, 4 Nov., 1843. 2350

BURIED GEM, by AUERBAOH, in Ladies' Repository, Nov., 1878. 2351
BUSY HANDS AND PATIENT
HEARTS. [by [C:] GUSTAV NIERITZ
(†, 1876): London, Jackson, 1863.]

"There is no mistake as to the charming style of German tales. . . . The first chapter, in which little Magda comes early in the morning to Master Tanzer, the potter, with a broken cup to be mended, is enuf to seal the character of the rest; and we promis our young friends that they wil not be content until they read of the blind boy, the hard landlord, and the merry Christmas, with all the other exciting but instructive incidents of the volume, which is one we can recommend without hesitation." [London Review.

-, SAME, transl. by Harwood, Lippincott, 1869. 2352

BY HIS OWN MIGHT [by WIL-HELMINE (B.) von HILLERN: Lippincott, 1872.] "is intended to teach the young the advantages of overcoming all obstacles in the way of good works. As a work of fiction we must say that we found it extremely dul, tho perhaps no duller than most german novels. With all respect for the Germans, it would seem as if they thot fiction wer a science, and, given a problem, 2 or 3 incarnate qualities, and some morally sound conversation, the novel must be good." [Nation.] - " The author conducts a frail, crippled lad from infancy to manhood. The tale, which has great variety in its scenes and an interest decidedly above the common run of novels, is above all a study of character. Young Alfred, the child of aristocrats, is delineated at full length in his pampered weakness, with his intelligence shooting forward into unnatural precocity, and his habits tinged with cowardice and valetudinarianism. Everything is conspiring to make him the despised, spoiled pet of the household ladies, when the discovery, just at the turning point of his youth, of a home tragedy, suddenly makes him the judge of his mother, the protector and inheritor of the family estates, and the avenger of his father. How he becomes studious and heroic, how he embraces that profession of surgery which has remodeled his on frame into symmetry, how he carries his healing science to the battle-field, and arrives at fame and royal favor, ar told with a most inventiv wealth of detail and with never-flagging spirit." [Lippinc. 2353

CASTLE [Schloss] AND TOWN. [by F. M. PEARD: Smith, [rep., Lippincott] 1882.] "It is pleasant to think that there ar people in the world who, tho commonplace, engrossed in the petty concerns and anxieties of every-day life, and not above occasional small jealousies and squabbles, possess, nevertheless, a genuin heroism which holds itself in reserv til called out by some emergency. and then manifesting itself quietly and spontaneously, as a real and essential element in thêir composition. Schloss and Town affords capital examples of such people, drawn with much quiet humor and fidelity to life, whom it is impossible for the reader to help

BY THE ELBE. [by "S. TYTLER," i. e., Henrietta Keddie: Smith, 1876.] "An english squire, his wife, and 3 dauters go to Dresden in search of opportunities for retrenchment. Dresden is so much frequented by english, that . . . the fact of having spent a vacation in that artistic but dullish capital seems to admit to a kind of Freemasonry. No doubt those who ar thus initiated wil read with interest the adventures of the Carterets: how they went to Prag and Nürnberg; how they attended 'smoking concerts,' and studied picture-galleries; finally, how the maidens, at least, of the family got married (or failed to do so) in the land of their exile." [Athenæum. 425 u liking. The whole representation of the Von Tellenbach family is delightful, with their troubles, manner of life, little jars, individual weaknesses, and strong, mutual affection; it is truthful, amusing, and yet, now and then, touch-[Spectator.] - "Within ing." modest limits it is singularly wel sustained and harmonious. Thêre is a Nürnberg episode, which, without delaying the action of the story, sets before the reader all the charm of that 'quaint old town of art and song."" 2354 ΓNation.

CASTLE HOHENWALD = No. 629.

CHARLOTTE ACKERMAN Fby O: MULLER: Phil'a, Porter, 1874.7 "is a hily romantic story, very pleasantly written, and full of the metaphysics of love. It begins with a death, and ends with the death of the heroin in the full blaze of youth, beauty, and talent, its termination being, in fact, remarkably infelicitous. . . Charlotte is very beautiful, very clever, proud, and sensitiv, encouraging none in particular of her numerous admirers. . . . The style of the novel is occasionally very good, but it is a dismal story. Virtue is not made even its on reward, nor is crime adequately punished." [Arcadian. 2355

CHILDREN OF THE WORLD (The) [by Paul Heyse: Chapman, 1882; N.-Y., Worthington, 1890.] "is a classic; the most thôtful and philosophic of all Heyse's novels. The pictures of artist life, the mysterious young girl, beautiful and alone, the tender löve-story of Leah and Edwin, all hold fast the reader's attention. Interspersed with the story ar numerous beautiful reflections and philosophic musings, together with poems, which, the inadequately rendered, possess some of the charms of their originals."

[Writer. 2356

CHRISTIAN GELLERT by B. AUER-BACH: Low, 1858, 8°. 2357 CHRISTOPHER'S FIRST JOUR-NAL, with No. 2471.

CINDERELLA OF THE BLACK FOREST (A) = No. 2455.

CLARA. [by F: W: HACKLÄNDER (1816-77): Harpers, 1856.] "The author made up his mind that there was a slave-life in Europe as wel as in America, and sets himself to work to prove this. He lays his scene among the loer classes; in the green-rooms of theatres; in the dens of thieves, and in the wholesale nurseries of children of doubtful His characters belong to the localities in which he finds them; they ar poor and wretched, and sometimes villainous. The women ar the slaves of the men; the men the slaves of thêir passions. . . As a mere character the Baron is capitally drawn; but he reminds us of the melodramatic impossibilities of Sue. The author of 'Clara' is indeed a sort of german Sue, and 'Clara' itself is a german 'Mysteries of Paris.' They ar purer, however, than their french originals. The movement of the story is complicated and brisk; you ar deeply interested, even in its improbabilities. We should judge it to be a fair picture of slave-life in Europe; at any rate, it is an absorbing one, and the work of a skilful hand." [Albion.

— SAME ("European Slave Life"), Tinsley, 1880. 2358 CLOCKMAKER (The) = EDEL-WEISS.

CELIA, by "A: MELS," i. e., Martin Cohn: Boston, Littell, 1869. 2359 CLOISTER WENDHAUSEN [by "W. Heimburg," i. e., Bertha Behrens: Chicago, Rand, 1890.] "is an old-fashioned löve-tale, separated from our busy life by several centuries, altho it is presumably written of the present time. It is a story of women and for women, dealing more with emotions than actions, and ending in happiness and wedding bels. The characters ar either saints or fiends, in the good old style of fiction; and the book can be warranted to please the most romantic schoolgirl." [Critic.

-, SAME ("Magdalen's Fortune") N.-Y., Worthington, 1889.

CONVICTS AND THEIR CHIL-DREN (The) by B. AUERBACH: Holt, 1877. 2360

COQUETTE (The), in N. Y. Mirror, 12-19 Sept., 1840. 2361

COUNT ERNEST'S HOME, by P. HEYSE: in Tales from the German; also in Part IV. of Good Stories, Ticknor, 1868.

COUNT SILVIUS = No. 655.

COUNTESS ANNA, by A. Wellmer in Canadian Month., Nov., 1874. 2363 COUNTESS ERIKA'S APPREN-TICESHIP Tby "Ossip Schubin," i.e., Lola Kirschner: Lippincott, 18927 "describes the manners of aristocratic society in Berlin. No one under a countess figures in her pages, and princesses gro on every bush. There ar, of course, a few artists whêrewith to stoc the princesses' bêar-gardens, but even they ar all 'vons.' With few exceptions, the characters ar a wicked and adulterous generation, and the story consists of the list of their misdemeanors, either detailed or hinted. The supreme struggles of the small fry to associate with the great, of the great to keep themselvs supplied with scandals, subjectiv and objectiv, ar equalled only by those of the writer to sho an arm-inarm intimacy with human nature, and more particularly with the aristocracy. The whirling of the scene from Berlin to Bayreuth and to Venice changes only the sky and not the mind. The Grand Canal, 'Parsifal,' the Thiergarten, ar simply pegs on which to hang the same clever but shallo feats of pen, the same display of knoingness. There is an air of cheerful alacrity about the vices of Ossip Schubin's world which is wanting to its reluctant and perfunctory virtues. Wit and the wish to be caustic ar not absent, and in a superficial sense the story is entertaining." [Nation. 2364]

COUNTESS GISELA (The) [by ' E. MARLITT," i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Macmillan, 1870.] "carries the reader to the end without any flagging of interest. . . . At the beginning a dark story of crime and death is told, and many names ar introduced. . . . This want of distinctness at the outset throes a mist over the rest of the story, and makes it like a picture the outlines of which ar blurred. The countess herself is charming; the gradual groth of her noble nature, in spite of the systematic deceit and heartlessness with which she is trained, is very interesting." [Athenæum.

COUNTESS OF ST. ALBAN (The). ["Namenlose Geschichten" by F: W: HACKLÄNDER (†, 1877): London, 1854.] "Description is the author's best He relates humorous inciquality. dents in a manner both festiv and easy; and can rise into eloquence and pathos, without offending the modesty of Nature. The outward aspects of stil-life at home or abroad, old places, lonely forests, busy streets, the glitter of boudoirs and saloons, the squalor of the rogue's asylum, the starvling tailor's garret, or the home of decent industry. ar each in turn exhibited by him in lively and appropriate pictures. In passages apt for sober color he can glide unaffectedly into a pensiv tone, both elegant and winning; and he never violates decorum by tirades unsuited to the character of his subject; or out of proportion with the event which he is relating." [Athenæum. 2366

COUNTRY HOUSE ON THE RHINE (The). [by Berthold Auer-BACH (†, 1882): Bentley, 1870.] "The plot turns on the attempt of a man who has been a slave-dealer in America to become a german noble. He changes his name, buys a villa on the Rhein, gets into society, procures more than one friend at court, and is then found out. . . . ' Das Landhaus am Rhein,' 'Auf der Hohe' [No. 881]' and 'Waldfried' [No. 2538] ar tedious, diffuse, didactic romances, filled with a sentimental falsetto of which Auerbach's earlier works had shon some indication, but which here assumed intolerable shrilness. The books met some success in Germany, whêre their spirit was not antagonistic: but outside the Fatherland they wer accounted failures, and tho translated into English, hav found few readers. Auerbach's fame rests. and wil continue to rest, on his village tales, and it is to these that he oes his european reputation, tho out of his nativ land he is more talked of than read." [Athenæum.] - . . "The first two books of the 'Villa' ar charming. . . . But this does not continue; wit and freshness and good sense ar swalloed in philosophical inquiry; -- love continues. The people make metaphysical love to one another. They analyze thêir sensations, and express them in technical formulary! Could anything be more . hopelessly german, or tedious, or better calculated to make the reader close the volume with a si?" [Overland.

—, SAME ("Villa on the Rhine"), Leypoldt, 1869. 2367

DAME CARE [by HERMANN SUDER-MAN: Harper, 1892] " is very dainty and with that touch of pathos and trace of mysticism so common in German tales. Meverhofer has met misfortune, and just as his third son, Paul, is born, his home falls into the hands of creditors and is sold. The story which folloes is of the after life of the little one born at such a time of distress, a child of whom it was said: 'Care stood at his cradle.' The story is sad, but it is the story of one who bore a weight of care, and who was ever thôtful of others. The nobility of the character of Paul is at its climax when he is willing to suffer imprisonment for a technical crime, committed in order to save his father from the commission of one far worse. story, despite the sadness which pervades it, ends brightly." [Boston Advertiser.] - "Let not him who begins 'Dame Care' be discouraged by its commonplace tone at the outset. . . A little story at once striking and poetic; sad with the sadness of Turgénief almost, but blooming with more of the humanities than usually flourish on Russian soil. Paul Meyerhofer hears the fairy story of Dame Care from his möther, who, however, wil never tel him the ending. He spends his life in learning it, and it is not until it is told in full on the last page that the completeness and artistic quality of the little book are wholy revealed. Thêre ar plenty of Teutonisms to be forgiven, but it wel stands a searching test for any work of art, that of retrospect." Nation. 2368

DEAD LAKE, by Heyse, = No. 669.

DEBIT AND CREDIT [by Gustav Freytag: Bentley, 1857.] "contains all the elements of popularity. It is fresh, rich in incident, vital with character, thôt, and fancy, and in all respects an uncommon, genuin, interesting book. The humor is not broad, but quiet; the irony glances out in sudden, mild irradiations, and the narrativ is one of unbroken strength and consistency. The dark characters ar brôt out amid Rembrandt shados; they appear and vanish like the demons in a mediæval allegory; thêir shapes and voices ar startling, and they impress a peculiar moral horror upon certain episodes of the romance. But the chief . . . merit of the book is its reality as a picture of manners, its broad and deep perspectiv, throing open the interior of german life, its faithful illustration of the intercourse between classes, its assortment of representativ characters." [Leader. 2369

DIANA WENTWORTH [Posen] = No. 434.

DOCTOR CLAUDIUS [Heidelberg] = No. 675.

DIARY OF POOR YOUNG GENTLEWOMAN [by M. (SCHEELE) VON NATHUSIUS (1817-57): Trübner, 1860.] "givs in autobiographic form the experiences of a wel-born damsel, whose necessities force her to be a governess in a noble family. The picture of inner german life is extremely wel delineated, and there ar touches of pathos and of quiet humor which ar pretty and original." [Albion.

—, SAME ("Louisa von Plettenhaus)," N.-Y., Francis, 1857. 2370 DR. GOETHE'S COURTSHIP. ['Der Stadtschultheiss von Frankfurt,' (1856) by O: Müller: Routledge, 1866] "In the quiet, minute german manner the author's characterizations ar admirable. He has combined most successfully a mixture of simplicity and homely wisdom in the worthy couple, their honesty and shrewdness and sincerity.

the elephantin playfulness of the worshipful mayor and the matronly dignity of his spouse, who regards him with blended aw and admiration, and has a proclivity for drawing auguries from those incidents of everyday life which popular tradition has invested with a mystic significance. . . . The story is one of those quiet, pleasing descriptions of domestic life in a place and age themselvs interesting which ar especially pleasant reading by contrast with the harroing recitals of crime and despair which form the staple of the fiction of the day." [Round Table. 2371

DOCTOR JACOB [Frankfurt] = No. 436.

DOOMED, by Heyse, = No. 669.

DOROTHY'S PICTURE [by "W. Heimburg," i. e., Bertha Behrens: Worthington, 1891] "the first of a collection of Christmas Stories, is a sweet, simple little tale of a woman who sacrifices herself for the man she löves, givs him up to another, takes care of his old mother, and does many other beautiful things which ar impossible to the average human being. The other stories ar in the same voin." [Critic. 2372

DRESDEN ROMANCE (A), by LAURA M. LANE: London, S. P. C. K., 1884. 2373

EBERHARD [by K. Clive: Tinsley, 1883] "describes very wel the life of an english pupil teacher in a small german town." [Athenæum. 2374

EDELWEISS [by Berthold Auerbach (†, 1882): Roberts, 1869.] "We think the first charm the reader wil find in this most charming book is the fact that the story seems to tel itself. From the beginning it goes alone, and one does not think of the author til the end, when perhaps one's homage is all the more devout in recognition of the genius which could produce so exquisit a fiction, and nowhere in it betray a consciousness of creation. The scene is not among courtly people: but in a little cloc-making district in the Black Forest, and the characters of the story ar the cloc-makers and their friends and kinsfolk. It is simply the story of Lenz, who makes musical clocs, and marries Annele, the worldly-minded but not bad-hearted dauter of the innkeeper, who leads him a very miserable life. . . . The glimpses of sweet, simple, refined life in the physician's family, and of the tender esteem in which all Lenz' friends and nêbors hold him, ar almost the only cheerful lights in the picture; the humorous passages, the abundant, ar for the most part only varied expressions of the gloom of the story, for it is, indeed, as the author premises, 'a sad, cruel history,' tho 'the sun of love breaks throu at last." [Atlantic.] - " Edelweiss, Little Barefoot, and Joseph in the Snow ar 3 stories which form the connecting link between the brief sketches and the novels. The last two ar simpler in form than many of the village stories [No. 2342]; they ar charming pastorals, full of deep feeling, and appealing to uncomplex emotions. Little Barefoot [No. 2455], indeed, is almost a child's story, and it is not alone the plot of the story which makes it so; thêre is something in Auerbach's delight in his simple narration which may be noticed in any one who is entertaining children with a story. Everything is made perfectly clear, there is no obscurity; the passions are far from being a tumultuous ocean, they ar, rather, a placid lake. . . . Edelweiss, on the other hand, is a more serious attempt at novel-writing; it deals with more intricate matters than the repetition of a fairy story in the 19th century, like Little Barefoot; it is really a very thoro and wel-managed study of character. The hero Lenz, a young man of delicate sensibility and loyal feeling but of a somewhat weak, lachrymose character, full of amiability and the gentle virtues but inclined to sentimentality, falls in love with Annele, a young woman about whom the reader is likely to be of two or more minds. Her fascinations ar wel presented, and the reader is very likely to be blinded in the same way that Lenz was. As the novel groes more and more tragic, until the dreadful accident which crushes all wickedness and the memory of it from them both, we ar led on with the keenest sympathy in their sad fate. Their reconciliation is beautifully told; and it is not every writer who could carry a novel to so great a hit of feeling with so sure a hand. . . . The whole book is written with admirable strength, and there is none which those who ar unfamiliar with Auerbach can be more warmly advised to read." [T: Sergeant Perry.

-, SAME (" The Clockmaker") with "JOSEPH," London, 1861. 2375 EICHHOFS (The). [by "MORITZ von Reichenbach," i. e., Valeska Bethusy-Huc: Lippincott, 1881.] "How Count Eichhof gets his 3 sons married and settled, - the matrimonial afflictions of the eldest, the spendthrift career of the second, and the tribulations of the youngest in choosing a profession, these afford the warp of the story, and the woof is composed of the plots, plans and sentiments of a fashionable néborhood." [American. 2376 EIGHT DAYS IN THE LIFE OF A PASTOR'S WIFE, by - Essing, in Ladies' Repository, Aug.-Sept., 1871. EKKEHARD No. 679. [2377 ELECTIVE AFFINITIES [by J: Wolfgang von Goethe (†, 1882):

Bohn, 1856] is "elaborate and skilful as a composition. . . . The gradual progress by which a husband's affections ar estranged from his wife, and fixed on her adopted dauter, who is made a most winning character, tho returning the passion felt for her: likewise, the wife's estrangement from the husband and preference for his friend the Captain, ar the central points of the story, wrôt with consummate tact. There is no guilt in this condition of things; it is the necessary result of those 'affinities' which operate as inevitably in the moral as in the chemical world. The husband and dauter die of grief for ungratified passion." [Southern Lit. Messenger.

2378

ELEONORE. [by "E. von Rothen-FELS," i. e., Emilie (von Loga) von Ingersleben, 1822-71: Lippincott, 1872.] "This is a very plotty novel, which recounts in an autobiografical form the adventures of a simple-hearted young lady with an artful step-mother and an intriging 'companion.' What arts these two false women used to entrap the heroin, first into a lo marriage and afterwards into a hi one in which her heart was not engaged; how her father was deluded by his beautiful wife; how the stepmother exerted herself to fascinate every man of her circle; and how they one and all deserted her colors for those of the ingenuous narrator of the tale, who is, however, steadily true throught - or, at least, with only one short interval in which she became engaged to another to an upright and unsophisticated admirer, who livs in the country and appears rather awkward in the company of those who surround her in her father's house -all these fine things ar told in a rather lively way, and ar put into readable and easy english." [Nation. 2379

ELSIE - No. 2492.

EMERENZ, by Heyse, in Cosmopolitan, Oct.-Nov...1888. 2380

ERL QUEEN (The). [by NATALY VON ESCHSTRUTH: Worthington Co., 1892] "The old-fashioned novel, which cares little for analysis and is written for the sake of the story rather than as a statement of some problem of life, may stil be found, and 'The Erl Queen' is a good type of this class. There is a certain artlessness about these stories a pleasant homeliness — that carries even the realist critic along with measurable content throu lengthy descriptiv passages, brief orations in the place of the give-and-take of dialog, and even vêils such a preposterous proceeding as the solitary midnight ramble of a child-Baroness - lightly-clad, at that - throu a clover-del, with a graceful garb of romantic illusion which half-conceals the absurdity. The obsequious deference which noble birth once demanded is another survival in these novels which concern themselvs with German nobility, and the the loly here wins his hi-born belöved, it is only after he has come into his fortune and his relative hav pardoned his father's 'mésalliance.' All the slanderers ar punished - lightly, all the lovers ar made happy, all debts ar paid, and the comfortable, mildly-exciting story is gracefully concluded." [Commonwealth. 2381

ERLACH COURT = No. 441. ESTHER'S FORTUNE [Munich] = No. 445.

EUROPEAN RELATIONS [by Tal-MAGE DALIN: Cassell, 1892] "is a pleasant little sketch. A count quarrels with his family, changes his name and comes to America. Here he marries and dies, leaving a wife and two children—a dauter nearly gron and a boy. The family go abroad in obedience to an invitation received from the head of the family who livs in the old castle in Tirol. Before the time for the visit arrives they spend weeks wandering over the mountains with two friends a man and his sister, - the man very much older than the girl whose father was his friend, but not too old to fall a complete victim to her fascinations. He looks upon himself as absurd, is persuaded the girl wil lâf at him, and lets her go tô the castle without declaring his love for her. No scruples of this kind chec the passionate declaration which her handsome, dashing cousin makes before he has knon her 3 weeks. The girl confesses that she has loved her father's old friend, but as he seemed to take only a paternal interest in her she is willing at least to consider her new lover. It happens that this con . versation is overheard by the man most concerned in it. When the young couple ar married he writes a new book - his grêatest success - which deals with the vacillation of the heart, and the absurdity of a man's not putting his love and his faith to the test. One does not trouble oneself about the improbability of the dénoument, but is content to enjoy the mountain atmosphere which pervades the book and the unusual interest which the characters inspire." [Critic. 2382 EXCHANGE NO ROBBERY = No. 688.

EYE-BLINDNESS AND SOUL-BLINDNESS, by HEYSE, = No. 707.
FAIRY OF THE ALPS = ALPINE FAY.

FALKENBURG [by Hamilton Murnax: Harper, 1852.] "is wel worth reading for its piquant delineations of character, apart from the interest of the plot, which is one of great power and intensity. The scene is laid in the picturesque regions of the Rhein." [Harper's.

(A) [by FAMILY FEUD HARDER: Lippincott. 1877.] "The action lies between a baron, his second wife and a dauter, on the one side, and a young kinsman on the other, whose earlier prospects of inheritance ar destroyed by the birth of the dauter. Otto, the disinherited, is unjustly accused of a plot against the life of his little rival, and groes up under this cloud into a somewhat gloomy character. Reconciliation, however, comes at last, and the girl becomes Mrs. Otto. book is interesting and wholesome." [Boston "Literary World." 2384 -, SAME, by J: GOTTFRIED KIN-

—, SAME, by J: GOTTFRIED KIN-KEL, in Tales from Blackwood, N. S., 21; also in (Boston) Saturday Rambler, 18-25 may, 1850. 2385

FARINA = No. 691.

FATAL PICTURE, in Ladies' Repository, Jan. 1868. 2386

FAUSTINA [by IDA (HAHN) HAHN (†, 1880): N.-Y., Carleton, 1872.] "is the story of a woman who married a man whom she did not love; learned to love another, and with him left her husband's house; and ere long, being separated from her protector, gave her heart, or what was left of it, to a third claimant. The heroin is a Countess, and all the characters ar nobles. Faustina, the heroin, is powerfully drawn, and some of the scenes in which she figures ar wonderfully effectiv. the book has little to do with life; it is a record of Faustina's meditations and speculations about love, and must be regarded as a vue of that passion from a German sentimental stand-point. As a story it is not interesting; but it is written with boldness and vigor, and sets forth in a brilliant light some of the rarest qualities of woman's nature." Boston "Literary World." FELIX LANZBERG'S EXPLATION.

FAILURE OF ELIZABETH (The) [by EMMA F .. POYNTER: Bentley, 1890.] "is a pleasing, wholesome story, and Miss Poynter's carefully drawn, distinctiv characters can never fail to arouse interest. Elizabeth belongs to that charming type of fresh, unspoilt girlhood which Miss Poynter knoes wel how to depict. Sent out alone into the world with the inexperience of 17, it is scarcely surprising that this much neglected girl with her generous impulses should fall in love with the first person who interests himself in her. Unfortunately her hero is an elderly, invalid clergyman of the worst type of vanity and sordid egotism. [Compare plot of Nos. 436 & 452 k.] We ar only glad to think that this chapter of her history is finally closed while she is stil young, and, we hope, wholesome-minded enuf to begin life anew under brighter and more worthy circumstances. Miss Poynter give a humorous description of life in a German pension, with its uncomfortable economies, and petty jealousies." [Athenæum. 449 t

FELICIA. [by Matilda [Barbara] BETHAM EDWARDS, London, 1875.] "The part of the lady who give her name to the book is subordinate to that of a morbid clergyman who has unfrocked himself on conscientious grounds and thenceforth is principally occupied with drifting into sentimental relations with various friends of the softer sex. Stickland's moody temperament seems to become more or less gloomy only under the annoying or refreshing influence of these successiv flirtations; but his cold nature givs him a most unfair advantage over the ladies, who, one and all, fall in love with him. Felicia, his earliest love, makes the mistake, when he fails to come forward as she expects, of marrying the musical dictator of a little german court, a graceless but not unamusing scoundrel, who neglects and cannot appreciate her. The german life is wel described." [Athenæum. 452 k

[by "Ossip Schubin," i. e., Lola Kirschner: N. Y., Worthington, 1892.] "At a watering-place the hero, a man under the shado of an early sin, meets beautiful Linda Harfink, the dauter of a millionaire bourgeois, who, dazzled by his rank, encourages his suit. He believes she knoes his story, and they ar married; but the secret has been kept from her by her mother, who fears the match wil be broken off. How Felix fared with his frivolous young wife, her discovery of her husband's secret, and his final expiation, ar developed in a wel-told story of dramatic interest." [Pub. Weekly.

FICKLE FORTUNE = No. 1011.

FIDDLER OF LOGAU = No. 696.

FIRE AND FLAME [by Levin Schücking (†, 1883): Appleton, 1876.]

"abounds in exciting incident, the plot is bold and wrôt with masterly audacity. . . No mere abstract could giv a just idea of it, and we dismiss the book with the remark that it is exceptionally noble in tone, keen in analysis, vivid in its sketches of character, and cultivated in style." [Boston "Lit. World." 2388 t

FIRST AND LAST BALL, by HACK-LÄNDER, in Ladies' Repository, June, 1872. 2389

FIRST TEMPTATION (The). [London, Newby, 1863.] "The story ranges within a very narro circle and introduces us to but a small number of characters: the principal persons belonging to the professorial class. The hero is a university professor and one of the greatest lights of the atheistic philosophy; a tall, handsome man who has traveled, and studied art and literature, is cold and critical; looking at all things from an esthetic point of vue, and never so satisfied as when anatomizing conduct and character. His wife Elizabeth, in whom the deepest interest of the story is centred, was the only dauter of a professor of philology, a friend of Schartel. . . . Associated with Doctor Schartel as fello-professor is the grave, earnest Fischman, whose married life is unhappy also. He, devoted to the same philosophy as his friend, has married a simple-minded little woman whom he found in a romantic way among the Alps. . . Poor Susette! She for her mountains, and her pines spouse pines for the sympathy and companionship she can not giv him. [Compare plot of No. 2458.] Then Madeline appears on the scene - a brilliant, beautiful, and intellectual woman, but also bad and unscrupulous. Schartel remonstrates with him in a very wise way about his passion for this attractiv woman, but with no further effect than a brief hesitation before he sends away the 'Swiss peasant to her mountains,' and take steps to obtain a divorce. One of the most pathetic passages in the book is that which describes the return of Susette, with her brother and child, to see whether the Schartels can do anything for her toards a reunion with her husband. The simplicity and naturalness of her story ar beautiful; and the subsequent scene, when she goes with the child to see her husband, and makes the most touching appeal to his old sympathies, is no less so." [London Review. 2390

FIRST VIOLIN [Dusseldorf] = No. 698.

FIVE ERAS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE, by H: ZSCHOKKE: in Boston Miscellany, Feb. 1842, and So. Lit. Messenger, Oct. 1845.

FLEURANGE [Heidelberg] = No. 700.

FLORIAN AND CRESCENZ, by B. AUERBACH: Low, 1858. 2391
FLOWER BASKET(The), by CHRIS-

TOPH VON SCHMID: N.-Y., P. Price, 1842. 2392

FLOWER, FRUIT AND THORN PIECES, or the marriage, death and wedding of the Poor Lawyer Siebenkäs, by JEAN PAUL F: RICHTER: (1796) Boston, Ticknor, 1859. 2393

FORBIDDEN FRUIT [by F: W: HACKLÄNDER (†, 1877): Boston, Estes, 1877.] "takes us from France to a german capital, and introduces us to a domestic circle in which a talented artist. his wife, his wife's brother, and his pupil-model ar chief personages. brother is conditional heir to a large property, the condition being his marriage within a certain period [compare plot of "In Hot Haste"]; and but two months of grace remain. He has come to obtain the helpful offices of the sister in finding the desired wife. He finds her in the pupil-model of his brother-in-law. Certain peculiar, tho innocent, relations between her and the artist provoke the bitterest jealousy of the latter's wife, greatly to the complication of the suit in question, but that is of course finally successful. The relation of the title to the book we fail to see." [Boston "Lit. World." 2394

FORESTER OF ALTENHAIN (The), London, 1852. 2395

FORESTERS (The), [by BERTHOLD AUERBACH (†, 1880): Appleton, 1880] "These characters make a picturesque and pretty group, set off by the shados and solitudes of the forest, the dash of the mountain brook, the pleasures and excitements of the chase, and the indescribable, indefinable sweetness and simplicity of german character on its rural and domestic sides. There is no badness in the book, either, beyond Schaller's, and his is the badness only of jealousy and slander and makes.

animals share its joy. . . . It is a sweet and gentle story. One touch more would hav made it a work of power." [Boston "Lit. World." 2396 FORESTER'S FAREWELL SUPPER (The), in Ladies' Companion (London), vol. 2.

FORGET-ME-NOT, by G. ZU PUT-LITZ, in Lippincott's, Jan. 1868. 2398 FORTUNE IN MISFORTUNE, in Appleton's, 4 Oct. 1870. 2399

FORTUNES AND FATE OF LITTLE SPANGLE [by Hans Hopffen, in Masterpieces of German Fiction. 2400 FORTUNES OF MISS FOLLEN [Baden] = No. 704.

FOUR PHASES OF LOVE, by HEYSE, = No. 707.

FRANCESCA DA RIMINI. [by ERNST VON WILDENBRUCH: Chicago, Laird, 1891] "Francesca livd in one of the large towns of Prussia. She attracts the attention of the new governor and soon becomes his wife. The her husband is much her senior, she admires him greatly and marriage begins happily. A young officer who secretly admires Francesca is the one to destroy their promising future. A picture of her which he paints in the character of Francesca da Rimini is the cause of a tragedy." [Publishers' Weekly. 2401

The Modern Age, Mar., 1884. 2402
FRAU DOMINA [by CLAIRE (v. Tolstov) von Glümme: Boston, Lockwood, 1877.] "ushers us into painful scenes; but the sympathies of the author and the heroin ar on the right side, nor is the guilt of a hazy description. And the usual clearness of the story does not lie in the fact that the heroin instinctivly repulses the man who has entrapped her into an Hegal marriage from the ment he is discovered, but in a certain resolute dealing with herself, which does

FRAU ANTJE, by A. MEINHARDT, in not allow her to look bac, does not permit her to break the heraldic seal which closes the letters annually sent her, nor even to look from a distance on the face of the man she loves, until death has taken his epileptic wife. Then, perhaps, she mit hav forgiven him, but the excitement is too much for her wasted frame, and her gray-haired lover is glad to fall soon after on the field of battle."

[Boston "Lit. World." 2403

FRAU VON BERNHARD'S VALET, by L. Sonticking, in Every Saturday, 6-13 apr. 1867. 2405

FRAU WILHELMINE. [by Julius STINDE: Scribner, 1888.] "The fourth 'and last' series of the adventures of the Buchholz Family resembles the previous volumes, and is wel worth reading by all who enjoy a book whose humor is, so to say, only incidentally revealed, but which, like the perfume in a dress, exhales with every motion of the wearer. But perfumes ar sometimes offensiv, and, without being unduly sensitiv, a person with a nose less robust than that of Bismarck might wel find too strong the scent of some of the suggestions in these volumes. There is little which is 'improper' in the allusions - nothing, indeed, to recall the typical french novel, in which vice is supposed to lose half its evil by lösing all its grossness. contrary, references to vice ar of the most distant kind, and ar of such a nature as to imply that it is non existent in the Landsberger-Strasse. is plenty of 'grossness'-that is, allusions to accidents of life which persons of refinement ignore or keep in the bac ground, and for the use of which, as material for exciting a smile, one would hav to go bac, in english literature, 150 years. Hence the comparison of this book, sometimes made, with Cranford [No. 1175] is most misleading. The atmosphere of 'Cranford' is of the most delicate and fastidious refinement: the air of 'The Buchholz Family' is that breathed by people who ar good-natured and wel-meaning, but thoroly coarse in grain. Frau Buchholz, in fact, in spite of her veneer of book-culture, belongs to the social level of Mr. Howells' 'Manda Greer [No. 315]. The laboring class, as represented in novels, however unfavorable thérető their life may be, possess a certain innate refinement, as dões also the grisette of the præ-Zola era. is only the middle class in Germany and England and the loer middle in this country, who appear to be entirely destitute of it." [Nation, 1887.] -- "The comfort here is, that all these dul, sordid, contracted creatures ar of one nationality. Since the Germans hav taken Stinde to their bosoms and proclaimed him the profet of thêir middle class, far be it from a foreiner to protest that they ar in any respect more attractiv than he has painted them. Anyone in doubt about the meaning of the word vulgar is commended to 'The Buchholz Family,' where it is amply and exactly defined. The vulgarity is not only in their customs, which ar disgusting, but in their thôts and feelings. Their standards ar lo, their judgments narro, their motivs mean. They hav no manners, and they, - the women especially. - talk to each other with brutal coarseness. The civilities of life ar unknon to them, the proprieties ignored, and the decencies outraged. They ar envious, spiteful, meddlesome, and mercenary, and they thank Heaven that they belong to the cultivated classes! If the Buchholz family appeared to the Germans what they ar, it is natural to suppose that the family would not hav been receivd with such favor. If Stinde thôt they wer at all offensiv, he could not so thoroly hav identified himself with thêir vulgarity. Thêrefore an outsider must accept his work for what it seems to be, a close transcript of an actual phase of life of which he is a part. If the author can remotely conceive of the impression on the foreign mind made by Frau Wilhelmine and her tribe, he must write for the purpos of exciting inveterate repugnance for the whole german nation." [Nation, 1888. 2406 FRERES (The) [Saxony] = No. 456.

FRIEDEL [by "W. O. von Horn," i. e., F: W: OERTEL, (1798-1867): N.-Y., Collins, 1856.] "is a pleasing story portraying the manners of rural life some hundred years ago. It shos the german naïveté of narrativ, and contains an excellent moral beneath its lively pictures." [Harper's. 2407

FRIEDEMANN BACH, by Albert EMIL BRACHVOGEL: (1858), Tinsley, 1875. 2407 d

FRIEND FRITZ [by EMILE ERCKmann & P: Alex. Chatrian (†, 1890): Scribner, 1877.] "is one of the britest, purest, sunniest stories we hav read for many a day. It is just charming in its way. Not that it is a great work as respects either plan or execution, except so far as there is the greatness of true art in the simplicity of the one and the beauty of the other, but that it is a fresh, tuneful, natural, and in every way delightful tale wrot of commonplace materials, yet with a consummate skil and that refinement of touch which one so quicly recognizes, but finds it so hard to define. There is the merest thread of a story. 'How comes it that Mr. Kobus, that rich man, that man of position, is going to marry a simple country girl, the dauter of his farm manager, he who for the last 15 years has refused so many fine matches?' This is a question occurring on one of its pages, to which the whole book may be set down as the answer. The charm of the work lies in the ease of the dramatic development, the life-likeness with which the characters ar drawn, the absolutely untainted sweetness of its materials, the delicacy with which sentiment and feeling ar portrayed, the amusing turns which ar given here and there to the narrativ, and the careful finish which is bestoed upon every part." " Lit. World."] - " One never wearies of the idyllic pictures of elsatian life presented in the happy and seemingly artless style of these authors. One hears all about the ancestors of Fritz, his intimate friends, his housekeeper, and finally of his farm in Meissenthal. Thêre groes a little maiden who upsets all his cunningly devised and solidly argued theories of bachelor life. the dauter of his farmer, a little thing of 16; but the jovial gourmand Fritz is slain in his turn, and indeed takes on after a wonderful fashion when he finds he is really deep in love. His terror lest she shal not hav him is as grêat as his former philosophic indifference to the fair sex. But not Fritz alone is admirably described; his friends and boon companions ar alike vividly portrayed. The whole story overruns with good-nature and good cheer." [Scribner's. 2408

FRIENDSHIP'S TEST. [Zwei Freundinnen by "W. HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens: N. Y., Ogilvie, 1889.] "Heimburg's stories ar always pleasing. Simple and pure in tone, fresh in sentiment, with enuf motiv to render the reader unwilling to pause, and with a heroim as sweet and charming as a June rose, the present book bids fair to sustain the reputation of the author's earlier works. The local color is good; the scene where Hortense tries to kill herself is affecting without being sensational, and the story ends wel. The characters ar live men and women, and the interest of the pretty tale is wel sustained." [Writer.

—, SAME ("Hortense"), Chicago, Rand, 1891, 336 pp.

-, SAME ("Lucie's Mistake"), N.-Y., Worthington, 1890.

—, SAME ("My Heart's Darling"), Munro, 1889. 2409

FROM HAND TO HAND [by "Go-LO RAIMUND," i. e., Bertha Frederich (1810-83): Lippincott, 1882.7 "It is not surprising that Mrs. Wister's heroin should murmur sorrofully, 'I am passed from hand to hand.' separated from her mother by a divorce suit which adjudged the child to her father; given by her father, when very young, to a husband of whom she knew nöthing, except that he had been her father's friend; entrusted by the bridegroom to a pastor and his wife with whom she is to remain til her education is completed; sent bac to her husband in disgrace by the indignant Frau when the secret marriage is discovered, only to find that, as she is led to believe, her husband is hers only in name; flying from him for refuge to her divorced möther, just in time to discover that her mother has repented of her sins, and in the safe seclusion of a convent is quite as indifferent to her dauter's welfare as she had been in the gay world; hastening finally to her grandmother, to be restored at last, in perfect confidence and love, to her husband's side - the young lady certainly does seem to be 'passed from hand to hand.' The story is interesting and gracefully fold, and the heroin is not passed from hand to hand in any way to imply a lac either of strength or sweetness." Critic. 2410

GEIER WALLEY = No. 1005. GELLERT, in Sabbath at Home, vol. 1. 2411

GERMAN LOVE = No. 714.

GERMAN TALES, [by Berthold AUERBACH: Roberts, 1869.] "The stories of this collection wil probably be found uninteresting by most readers. They ar, however, full of that homely wisdom which is one of Auerbach's most marked characteristics, and which forms a so singular contrast to the half-sentimental sort of transcendentalism which also distinguishes him." [Nation.] tales in this collection ar: Christian Gellert's Last Christmas (No. 2857). The Stepmother, Benigna, Rudolph and Elizabeth, Erdmutha. See, also, Black Forest Stories. 2412

GERTRUDE'S MARRIAGE. [by "W. HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens: Worthington, 1888.] "Gertrude is a proud, the sincere, young woman, with a large fortune, and is deeply in love with a worthy suitor in humbler circumstances. After they ar happily married, which it takes about half the book to accomplish, Gertrude unfortunately conceives that Frank married her for money, and that he even had the affair arranged by a matrimonial broker. So she goes away and pines for some months, and it takes the other half of the book to get her back to Frank. This is not a bad plot, and there ar some rather entertaining side characters." [American.] — Husband "settle their difficulties in the end, and leave one thankful, as usual for that perennial supply of very young people, skirting about the 'terra incognita' of the natural affections who make the production of innocent, unexciting fiction a recognized and, we hope, a paying industry." [Catholic World. GLORIA VICTIS = No. 716.

GOLD ELSIE = No. 717. GOLDEN DAYS = No. 460.

GOLDEN LION OF GRANPÈRE (The). [by Anthony Trollope (†, 1882): Tinsley, 1872.] "In the charming village of Granpère, among the Vogesen, stands the Lion d'Or, an excellent specimen of an old-fashioned inn. . . . The character of Michel Voss, the real hero of the tale, is developed with all Mr. Trollope's best skill. The gradations by which the unexpected obstinacy of his ward and son, in resisting a 'mariage de convenance' which he has decided upon for the benefit of the former, infuriates beyond all bounds the usually good-tempered gardian, and the stil subtler workings of natural affection and common sense which gradually reduce him to a better state of mind, ar traced in a way which leaves nothing to be desired. The truehearted. strong-minded girl, rather whose happiness is placed in such jeopardy, is sufficiently charming to enlist our interests in her favor, tho Master George, her löver, has too much of his father's hasty and imperious character, and is too easily induced to be hard in his estimate of Marie's conduct, to come quite up to our ideal of fidelity or tenderness. However, he is perhaps the more thoroly a man of his class for not being altogether a model of chivalry, and Marie is right in preferring him to the curled and oiled Adonis from Basel, whose successful linendrapery has seduced old Michel's affections. is a very natural process in a mind of Marie's type to estimate these worthies at their proper relativ worth; for with all her activity and external absence of sentiment, there ar sound depths in her unpretending character, and nothing vulgar or shallo. Her fondness for her gardian, even when he is wounding her most deeply (a fondness which that excellent man reciprocates with something of youthful ardor, unsuspected by him, but not absolutely unnoticed by his wife); her not unnatural indignation against her old löver, struggled against as heroically as her absolute detestation of her new one; her devotion to daily duty; her readiness, when George is proved sincere, to go forth to she knoes not what ruf fortune in the world, satisfied with that knoledge, and content to abandon, for duty's sake, any further fruition of her hopes; -all mark her as a heroin of no common mold. When we add to the conception of two wel-defined and original characters, a lifelike rendering of the subordinate parts, and occasionally, as in the naïve expedient of the panic, a vêin of humor more decided than is frequently the case with Mr. Trollope, we hav indicated the principal merits of an excellent tale." [Athenæum. 2414

GOLDMAKER'S VILLAGE, by J: H: ZSCHOKKE: Appleton, 1845; also in New England Family Mag., Aug.-Sept., 1845; also in Chambers' Miscellany, No. 2. 2415

GOOD LUCK ("Glück Auf") [by "E. WERNER," i. e., E., Bürstenbinder: Boston, Osgood, 1874.7 "is remarkably good. In delineation of character it is especially strong. A proud baron sels his dauter to a rich parvenu. young wife despises her husband, who seems to deserv her contempt. He is the son of a mine-oner who is killed by an accident, and the management of the property falls suddenly on the son who had been indolent and spiritless. The shoe of responsibility makes a new man of the latter, who displays in the critical circumstances attending a strike, the hiest qualities of manhood. His young wife begins to respect and presently to love him, - the vicissitudes of her feelings being described very skilfully. Ulrich Hartmann, a miner, who leads the strike, hating the husband and madly in love with the wife, is a strikingly original character. But the charm of the story lies in the gradual approximation of husband and wife, the slo crumbling of the barrier which separates them, under the influence of the noble qualities of each." [Boston"Lit. World."] --" However looked at as a romance, no one can deny that the story is, like its title, a 'success,' since it has the unanalysable quality of carrying the reader on with it, without for a moment getting tame or dul. Many stories mit be written embodying a far deeper insight into character, yet without one-half the interest. The incidents ar skilfully woven, the circumstances ar vivid, the sympathies of the reader ar never lost hold of, and there is no irritating shifting of the scenes and dropping of the thread to take up another. In fact, whatever the faults in the conception. Herr Werner (sic!) knoes how to narrate, and the freshness of his industrial subject, which is not overloaded with any sho of economic detail, - lends a new fascination to the story." [Spectator.

—, SAME ("Success and how he won It") transl. by C. TYRRELL, Bent-ley, 1876.

—, SAME ("She Fell in Love with her Husband") N. Y., Primrose Series, No. 91 [1892.] 2416

GRANDIDIERS (The). [by Julius Rodenberg: Low, 1881.] "The charm of this book lies in its freshness. The plot is simple, and the characters familiar. The estrangement of a father and son, from the latter's devotion to painting, the son's successful fight to secure his place in the world of art, and their ultimate reconciliation, hav been the basis of more novels than we care to specify. But it is in this very point that the writer's superiority is manifest. Dealing with emotions so general that in the hands of ordinary novelists they would be commonplace, the author engages our attention at once, and when we lay down the book, we seem to hav parted from old and dear friends. almost every character the writer's skilful hand has achieve success. natural the hero is the least satisfactory. He is shadoy. In Mr. Grandidier, the prosperous hatter, with his love for his children, his pride in his ancestry, and his almost religious respect for the Great Elector, Mr. Rodenberg has drawn what we think his most striking character. . . . And this is done not by the laborious accumulation of minute detail, but by the force of a delicate imagination, of a quiet humor, and a truthful pathos. To readers whose critical palates can appreciate the finer flavors of the literary table, we commit this novel." [Spectator. 2417 GREAT UNKNOWN (The) in

Godey's, july-aug. 1850. 2418
GREEN GATE (The) [by Ernsr Wicher: Lippincott, 1875.] "is a story of unusual interest. The erotic (sic) element in it is handled with exceptional skil, and several of the characters posses an attractiv individuality,—especially the professor, whose course one folloes with deep sympathy. Its tone is pure, and its incidental lessons wholesome." [Boston "Lit. World." 2419

GREIFENSTEIN [Freiburg] = No. 724.

GRETCHEN'S JOYS AND SOR-ROWS ["Backflschen's Leiden und Freuden"] by CLEMENTINE HELM," i. e., — () Beyrich: Boston, Williams, 1877.] "wer, for the most part, such as ar not recorded in fashionable novels. Her sorros wer in good measure the result of her not knoing the use of sponge, soap, etc., and so having to be taut them by a careful ant. When she had acquired these important rudiments of education she went into the gay world and was married. It is interesting to observ that the author, a german lady, throes the weight of her authority in favor of helping one's self to salt with a knife. It should be said in justice, however, that the only other alternativ suggested was the employment of the hand." [Nation.] "This is an unpretending little story, which, without much plot, or any subtle study of character, yet manages to interest the reader. It is a picture of home life in one of its most attractiv aspects, with the proper admixture of sentiment, without which a tale could hardly claim to hav a raison d'être." [Spectator.

-, SAME ("A Miss in her Teens"), London, Klockmann, 1878. HALLIG (The), a tale of humble life on the coast of Schleswig, by J: CHRISTOPH BIERNATZKI (†, 1850): Boston, Gould & Lincoln, 1856. 2420 p HAMMER AND ANVIL, by F: SPIELHAGEN: N.-Y., Holt, 1870. 2421 HARD HEART (A) by "Golo RAIMUND," i. e., Bertha (Heyn) Frederich (†, 1884) : Lippincott, 1884.] " is an extremely pleasant and readable story, told with simplicity of purpos and turning on questions of real heart and feeling. The character of Frau Sybilla is forcibly presented: strong, and for a time relentless, in bearing her woes and in making others suffer, she at last listens to the voice of conscience, and alters the course of things for those she can make happy. There is no doubt of the popularity of these german stories, and it lies, we believe, in their reflection of the simple elementary emotions. The men ar not dilettanti, who play with ideas until they forget the feelings which ot to lie behind them, and the women limit their range of thot to what lies within their reach. Thus their hopes and fears, loves and passions, hav an idyllic effect, which is refreshing to the reader after more elaborate efforts and asthetically-minded heroes and heroins."

[Lippincott's. 2422

HEAPS OF MONEY, [Dresden.] by Norris, = No. 463.

HEAVY RECKONING (A) = ALPINE FAY.

HEIDELBERG BROTHERHOOD (The), by Gustav Liston, in The Crayon, may-aug., 1856. 2423

HELEN YOUNG [by Paul LINDAU: Chicago, Rand, 1892.] "The scene opens in the Royal Theatre, Berlin, during the play of 'Elsa' founded on a noted murder. Prince von Lohenburg is attracted by the entrance of two ladies, and tries to learn their identity, but fails. On the next day, however, circumstances favor him, and the unknon is soon knon to him as Helen Young, and there folloes a story of mystery, love and pathos which seems real." [Publisher's Weekly. 24.24

HELOISE, by "Talvi:" Appleton, 1850. 2425

HER ONLY BROTHER [by "W. HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens: N.-Y., Crowell, 1888.] "may be somewhat spun out; but is nevertheless an excellent and entertaining story. Here we hav no disregard of the unities of time and place: on the contrary, all the sensational business is transacted in the precincts of a venerable abode on the storm-beaten shores of the Baltic. The various incidents and episodes hav their rise in the ordinary play of feeling or passion; and any further effects ar to be found only in sketches of old-fashioned manners, or descriptions of half-savage nature. The story sounds true; it is the more impressiv that it is simple. . . . We ar interested from the first in all the inhabitants of the manor-house; they enlist our sympathies by their good oldfashioned german kindliness and simplicity of manners; and we feel personally concerned in the misunderstandings which drove them to infinit trouble, by destroying their domestic harmony. The reader is permitted to hav an insight into the heroin's real character, which is denied to those who ar nearest and dearest to her. We kno her to conceal passionate emotions under an apparently phlegmatic exterior, and to rise unpretentiously to sublime hights of self-denial, while all the time she is the victim of most irritating misconceptions." [Blackwood's.] - "When her only brother was 15, little Anne Marie was laid in his arms by his mother, and at her death-bed, Klaus promisd never to leav his sister. He sternly put aside love and marriage for her sake, and when she was 19 she did the They livd in an old same for him. castle with a dear old maiden ant, whose diary furnishes the chief part of the tale. Her only brother has reached the ripe age of 35, when a little sprite, selfish, pleasure-loving, in all things the opposit of his sister, dances and sings her way into his heart. The story passes over 30 years, and the life of the only bröther is read by another generation at the cradle of another Klaus." [Publisher's Weekly.] — "Fräulein Anna Maria von Hegewitz calculates thaler and groshen, tels her knoing old ant that she means never to marry, and that neither wil her brother, who has promised always to care for her. But this, as the reader wel knoes, is as tho a green apple should swear never to turn red in the rind. He watches the melloing of the acrid juices in the fraulein's character as he might his nebors' fruit ripening over the wall. In the fullness of time, Anna Maria is married to an old friend of the family, and brother Klaus, whose brotherly affection she at first held sufficient, tho a good fello enuf, is the one from whom most of her troubles come." [Critic, 1888.] — " It contains the same descriptions of the quaint maiden ant, the country life of the nobles, and the strong family affection which we find in the numerous novels translated by Mrs. Wister. The author displays fine descriptiv powers in his rendering of country scenes and interiors, so we can almost believe we, too, hav vegetated in a Märkisch house. The 3 women in the story ar the best drawn and most interesting characters; they ar also excellent foils to each other - ant Rosamunde, anxious and affectionate; Anna Marie, strong, self-controled, and loving; Susanne, weak, childish, and pleasure-seeking. The power half-consiously wielded by a beautiful, selfish, spoilt girl in the lives of those around her is trenchantly illustrated. Perhaps she may be summed up as loving pleasure and lõve." [Critic, 1889.

-, SAME ("A Sister's Love"), Worthington, 1890. 24.26
HER SON [by "E. WERNER:" Bentley, 1887.] = ST. MICHAEL.

HERMANN [by "E. WERNER," i. e., E.. Bürstenbinder: Tinsley, 1879.] "is a powerful tale, and very readable. The story treats the bane which the sins of the fathers cast upon the children. A cloud of dark crime blights the childhood and youth of a young count, and the same crime has darkened the life of a young girl whom he loves, unconcious that the evil deed of his father has raised a fatal barrier between them. How this barrier was raised, how overcome, is the theme of the story. All ends wel; the crime is expiated, not avenged, and the lovers united." [Athenæum. 2427

HERO OF THE PEN (A) [by "E. WERNER," i.e., E.. Bürstenbinder: Low & Co., 1878.] "deals with the fortunes of the dauter of a German who, exiled to America in 1848, determind to rear his child as much of a forêiner as he could. The story is simply, naturally, and gracefully told." [Athenæum. 2428

HIGHER THAN THE CHURCH = No. 737.

HIS OFHONOR = WORD NORTHERN LIGHT.

HOHENSTEINS (The) = No. 738. HOLE IN THE SLEEVE, by H: ZSCHOKKE: in Godey's, May, 1844.

HOME SOUNDS [Heimatklang] by "E. WERNER:" Munro, 1888.

-, SAME ("The Spell of Home"), Lippincott, 1887.

HONOR by CLEMENS BRENTANO (1778-1842): London, J: Chapman, 1848.] is "a little story worthy to take rank with Auerbach's 'Village Tales.' We feel grateful to the translator for having put intŏ an english dress a charming little tale." [Westminster. 2429 k

HOUSEHOLD IDOL (The). [by MARIE BERNHARD: N. Y., Worthington, 1892.] "The story opens in Rome, after the fall of the Casa Borteni. Andrée, an artist, is hastily summoned to the death-bed of a young sculptor, who beseeches him to convey the news of his death to the beloved dauter of a Hamburg banker. In fulfilling this commission the artist loses his heart, and there folloes a romance of contradiction and unexpected action." 2429 r Publisher's Weekly.

HORTENSE = No. 2409. FRIEND-SHIPS TEST.

HOW THE BARON GOT HIM A

WIFE, by L. Schücking, in Penn Monthly, nov., 1878. 2429

HULDA [by FANNY (LEWALD) STAHR (1811-89): Lippincott, 1874.] "tels the löve of the humble pastor's dauter for the Baron Emanuel, and all the suffering which embittered that young woman's path in life. It is not a remarkable novel, but it is readable." [Nation.] "From one of the advertising pages we learn that Mrs. Wister has given to the world some nine volumes of versions of German tales. There would appear to be nothing but want of the time employed in the mere mechanical writing to prevent her from speedily increasing this number. A tolerable knoledge of German, and the ability to render that language into fair English ar all the qualities we can discern in Mrs. Wister's writings. As they ar stated to be 'after the German,' the reader would be led to believe that the idioms and style of the original text had not been closely adhered to, but that the English adaptation would flo smoothly and naturally. In this, however, he would be disappointed, as many long and involvd sentences sho that the original has been too faithfully folloed. The scene of the early portion of the book is laid on Prussian northern coast, and the time is early in the century. In the opening chapters the reader is introduced to Hulda, the heroin, who is the only child of a pastor of a village. All the inhabitants of this village ar dependents of a noble family, which occasionally occupies the castle. We ar all familiar with the nursery tales in which the poor peasant girl falls in love with a rich noble, and by her silent adoration wins his affection. . . . But in 'Hulda' we ar asked to believe that a country girl, after only

INTERNATIONAL NOVELS.

HYPERION. [by H: Wadsworth LONGFELLOW: N.-Y., Coleman, 1889.] "The hero, a young American, oppressed with grief for the loss of a friend, makes a tour to Germany. Here he passes some time with a young Baron, and then sets out for Switzerland. He falls in love there and is rejected - but the tone of his mind becomes, finally, restored, and the book leaves him on the eve of returning to his nativ land. This is the story, but the story is merely the vehicle for beautiful simile, aphorism, thôt and description." [Southern Lit. Messenger. 467 t grêat actress, and that a villain, a valet, who has been horsewhipped and kicked out of his place for his crimes and impudence, could be the grandest tragic actor in Germany. . . . 'Hulda' is concluded by the marriage of the Baron with the actress, so in a true fairy-like manner all ends happily."

[Arcadian. 2430

HUNGER-PASTOR (The) [by W: RAABE: Chapman, 1885.] "is by a writer whom Germany claims as its grêatest living humorist. His best book is generally acknoledged to be the 'Hunger Pastor,' published some 20 years ago. It is full of merit, and quite deservd the honor of translation; but in putting it into forein dress most of its humor has evaporated, being rather of the superficial nature which deals with curious mistakes of speech and quaint language than of the true pathos which remains under all disguises. The story, which folloes the career of two village boys, is wel sustained. The best portions of the novel ar the descriptions of life in the seaboard village where the protagonist is curate." [Athenæum. 2431

IMMENSEE = 747.

IN EXILE [Lippincott, 1871.] "is an agreeable and pleasantly written story. . . . The characters of Elizabeth and her husband, and that of the Prince Alexis, ar very delicately done, and in a manner not unsuggestiv of work so much better that even to hav recalled it is no small achievement. The book is very wel translated, also, and may be recommended to the class of novel-readers who like to be careful in their selections." [Nation. 2432]

IN HOT HASTE [by M.. E. Huller: Holt, 1888.] "is a wel-told, interesting tale. The haste was due to the necessity of the hero's marriage bequi for his 28th birthday, in order not to lose an inheritance. . . In the first blush of her indignation she begs permission of her now angry husband to leave him and go to her english relativs, which he grants. That they afterwards come together in reconciliation and love is due to a sudden generosity which novelists always implant in the nature of a german hero to be brot to light once and once only in the course of the story, and which usually overturns all one's preconceived idea of character."

[Critic. 2433

IN PARADISE [by Paul Heyse: Appleton, 1878.] "is a story of artist life, and takes its rather enigmatic title from a club of München artists, which has been formed by a circle of congenial spirits on the theory that it is possible even in the midst of this world to thro off the hypocrisy of society and return once more to a state of innocence-to substitute for the constraint. conventionality, and philistinism of ordinary life a social state in which each man shal act out his individuality, and reveal himself as he is. The opportunity thus afforded for depicting bohemian life is very happily used. . . . The plot of the story is ingenious and intricate without being complicated, and the interest expands and deepens to the [Appleton's Journal. 2434 IN THE COUNSELLOR'S HOUSE - No. 2335.

IN THE SCHILLINGSCOURT [by "E. MARLITT," i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Lippincott, 1879.] "has the usual elements of the german novel; the grave stern hero maintains an agreeable and lively game of fencing with the hauty ferroin, til it is finished on the last page by a happy marriage. In this instance, a complication results from the circumstance that the hero is already married to a woman selected by his father because of her wealth, but this is easily arranged by means of a divorce. It is noticeable that discussion of all sorts, from socialism to decorativart, is beginning to push its way into the regions of such pure romance as Marlitt's stories with the effect of making them more unreal and far less agreeable." [Nation.] - "The story turns upon the friendship and ultimate enmity of two néboring families, one of whom dwels in a former monastery, while the other inhabits the hostelry of the monastic building. A large part of the tale is concerned with the designing interference of priests. It is a sensational story, but the plot is skilfully constructed, and the reader's interest is never allowed to flag. The writing, too, is good, and the descriptions of scenery both graphic and attractiv. The scene is Thüringia, with its woods and streams." [Athenæum. 2435

IN THE VILLAGE SALON, by CLAIBE VON GLÜMER, in Ladies' Repostory, Oct., 1870. 2436

INGEMISCO [Bavaria] = No. 472. INITIALS [Bavaria] = No. 478. INSIGNIFICANT WOMAN (An)

INSIGNIFICANT WOMAN (An). Thy "W. Heimburg," i. e., Bertha Behrens: N. Y., Bonner, 1891.] "The insignificant woman is rather too good for human nature's daily food. She is the dauter of rich parents who hav earned money. She marries a selfish, exacting artist, who uses her property to surround himself with luxuries, and traces his lac of success to the prosiness of his wife. He finds a kindred soul in a wild baroness, and his wife puts up with untold insult at the hands of this woman. After many pages the husband groes tired of his old habits and ways and tries being good." [Publishers' Weekly.

-, SAME ("Misjudged"), Worth-ington, 1891. 2437

INTERESTING TALES [by J: H: JUNG STILLING: London, 1838.] "Althe this is not so beautiful a book as the autobiografy of Stilling, it is stil one of grêat and rare merit. The ten short tales, of which it consists, ar, with one exception, (The Way to the Throne) narrative of humble life - not the life of fantastic metaphysicians and poets, but of real homely, honest burgers, and peasants of the better class. We have read the stories of ' Conrad the Good,' 'The Emigrant,' 'Blind Leonard and his Guide,' 'The Watchman and his Dauter,' and one or two others, with singular satisfaction. There is a bonhommie about them - a simplicity and strait-forwardness which contrasts in a happy manner with the artificiality of modern stories." [Metropolitan. 2438

IT HAPPENED YESTERDAY
[by F: Marshall: New York, D.
Appleton & Co., 1891.] "is a story the scene of which is laid in Augsburg.
It is rather a clever picture of society life in that city, and is fairly interesting, but it lacks individuality. It is only a familiar picture in a new frame." [San Fran.
Chronicle. 2439

by "ADBLHEID VON AUER," i. e., C.. von Cosel: Lippincott, 1872.] "is the record of a family given up to worldly ways—to extravagance, and to all manner of pomps and vanities. The story is told in letters from a young woman who is boarding with them, and who having a very keen observation, and a fine talent for gossiping, covers many pages with descriptions of their ways of life, and the troubles it brings upon them. Naturally, this is not the sort of novel which wil please the giddy, and even steadierheaded people may find its trifle dul, but it is by no means unreadable. It is to be remembered that this is a german novel and what german novels generally ar."

[Nation. 2440]

BERTHOLD AUERBACH: IVO. [by London, Bogue, 1847.] "This charming little story completes the series of Auerbach's 'Village Tales' [No. 2342]. is the youngest son of the carpenter and desires to become a priest. In this wish he is encouraged by his parents; and when of proper age, he proceeds to the Here his mind becomes university. harassed by numerous doubts and difficulties, which result in a determination to quit the university, and to follo any other vocation than that of the priesthood even at the risk of incurring his father's lasting displeasure. This determination he puts in practice, and wanders on he cares not whither: a lucky chance conducts him to the farm of an old servant of his father's, named Naza, to whom he had been warmly attached from childhood, and who now receives him with open arms, and the tale thus concludes." Westminster. 2441

JOSEPH IN THE SNOW. [by BER-THOLD AUERBACH: London, Saunders, 1861, 3 v.; Boston, Fuller, 1867.] "Many of the best of the Village Stories [No. 23427 ar familiar to english readers, indeed our acquaintance with the Black Forest dates from the appearance of Barfüssle [No. 2455] or of Edelweiss [No. 2375]; but to our mind the crown of them is a little one - Joseph in the Snow, a bit of simple, pathetic, soultouching village-life, told so vividly and so naturally that we seem to smel the pines of that hilly land and to feel as ours the tender wo of little Joseph and his mother. We might wel spare the weak moral tone and the sentimentality of On the Heights [No. 881] or the morbid weariness of the Villa on the Rhein TNo. 2367]; but the man who led us by the hand into the innermost life of the wise and patient peasant of the woods of Baden has earned our heartiest gratitude. should think it might placate the veriest 'Jew-hater' of Berlin, when he remembers that Germany öes some of its sweetest songs to one Jew (Heine) and its very purest, sweetest, and most appealing tales of loly life to another (Auerbach)." [Boston "Lit. World."] - Joseph is a "grêat favorit abroad and at home. The plot is simple and touching, and the capital descriptions of country life and country characters make the story stil more interesting. Joseph is the illegitimate child of Martina, the dauter of a wood-turner, who is an old man of unblemished character, and has taken great pride in his dauter's good principles and promising talents. The shoc produced by the news of Joseph's birth is terrible, and David is near murdering his child. The parson, however, interferes, and brings the old man round not only to pardon but even to love his dauter and her offspring, and to be paternally solicitous for thêir welfare. The struggle between the father's love and his sense of shame is wel depicted. The parson, too, and his wife ar finely-drawn characters and splendid types of their class. Joseph's father is faithfully attached to Martina, but neither his father nor, much less, his mother wil hear of his marrying the penniless girl; thêy keep him so close a prisoner that he finds it impossible even to see her. By his parents he is betrothed to Tony, the miller's danter, and is about to be married to her against his wil. In the night preceding this unnatural wedding the complication reaches its climax. Adam is sent to make love to Tony, but. forgetting himself, talks to her of her rival and his faithful attachment to her, and at last wins his 'bride,' who is a good girl at hêart, tŏ his scheme of secretly marrying Martina." [Englishwoman's Domestic Mag. 2442

JUDITH STERN, in TALES by

KATHERINE = No. 772.

KICKLEBURYS ON THE RHINE = No. 477.

KLAUS BEWER'S WIFE [by PAUL LINDAU: Holt, 1887.] " is worth reading, if it wer only to contemplate the finished portrait of 'Katie Schone,' whom Bewer so rashly married. Katie's notion of the value of truth was crude, and, being a concert-hall singer, her propensities wer vagabond. Nevertheless, she had no desire to offend her conventional husband, or to outrage the fine society to which she unexpectedly found herself elevated. But the introduction of very respectable relativs into her house, her husband's delight in their company, and her discomfort, quite upset her equanimity, drawing her to the activ antagonism which resulted fatally to Bewer. Katie's character is so completely disclosed by her acts and words, with the smallest amount of description, that misunderstanding is impossible. The rest of the characters ar interesting and life-like, save the Americans, who ar of a kind which Americans never see." [Nation. 2443 —, SAME ("Mr. & Mrs. Bewer"), Rand. 1892.

KNIGHT OF THE BLACK FOR-EST = No. 480.

LABOR STANDS ON GOLDEN FEET [by [J:] H: [DANIEL] ZSCHOKKE: Cassell, 1871.] "illustrates artisan life in the german towns as it was many years ago. The tale is interesting as a picture of life and manners, and it is valuable as embodying the principles which ar the basis of all true and healthy civilization. It is the history of the progress of a family for 8 generations, — now, beginning with Thadeus the tinker, it groes and prospers by the exercise of honesty, piety, and good se se. The prosperity of the family is not confined to themselvs, but it works like leaven amongst the artisans of the town, til the efforts of the old 'Master Girdler,' to giv his son a good education gradually extend to forming schools and reading-rooms, and delivering lectures for the instruction and cultivation of all the workmen, — a general spread of education and the means of learning." [Atheneum.

LACE [by Paul Lindau: Appleton. 1889.] "is a good specimen of the modern german novel, - heavy, as it seems that class of fiction must inevitably be. but full of matter and of fine and conscientious workmanship. The finish and elaboration of the german novelist may wel serv as a model for his fello craftsmen in other lands. The story is too complicated and full of plot to be easy reading, but from its point of vue it is a meritorious performance. chiefly concerned with the political and hier social life of the Empire, and apart from its literary force wil be found of value by any one concerned in study of the people and institutions of Germany." [American.

LADY OF EISENACH (The), in Temple Bar, 1867, [Every Saturday, 21 Sept., 1867.] , 2446

LADY WITH THE RUBIES = No. 779.

LAKE HOUSE. [by FANNY (LEwald) Stahr (1811-89): Boston, Ticknor, 1861.] "A young German of hi aspirations fails to get any acknoledgment from his relative of his marriage to a most lovely french lady of noble family. And so, throu some interference of his father and her brother, the young wife dies, and her miserable husband becomes an exile to America, and a desolated soul for the rest of his days. The cruelty of such rigid conventionalism adds to the tragical course of events in making the narrativ intensely sad. The opening portion givs a glimpse at the early horrors of the french Revolution, but most of the incidents cluster around a retired country-seat near Hamburg. is little dialog, very little variety, and nõthing akin to american wedded trials in this touching record of what seems a real experience of bliss blasted by the inexorable pride of an old family, the needless embarrassments of a concealed love, and the exaggerated sensibility resulting from misdirected education." 2447 Christian Examiner.

LANDOLIN. [by Berthold Auerbach (†, 1882): Holt, 1878.] "The inevitable Nemesis by which crime, unatoned for, works out its punishment in the soul, even when legal penalties are vaded is the motif and moral of the book; and the tragic theme is wrôt with a dramatic force and effect which contrast impressivly with the peaceful rural scenes and the simple people amid whom the scene is laid." [Appleton's. 2448]

LAST VON RECKENBURG (The). Thy Luise von Fran, ois: transl., Boston, Cupples, 1888.] "The noble Fräulein Eberhardine is bound, by what in fairy tales is described as the mysterious laws of her being, to defend the weak and unworthy who depend upon her, no matter how great the cost to herself. Then the obligation is increased by a sense of what is due to her on rank when protection is demanded by a plebeian, one whom circumstances hav made her companion and, with certain reservations, her friend. The novel in which this heroin displays the nobility of her nature and of her order is thoroly romantic. The scene is laid in the early years of the century in a village where the Von Reckenburgs subsisted chiefly on the consciousness of their long descent and on the deference accorded it. Their feeling that a Von Reckenburg is neither degraded by poverty nor exalted by riches, that personal dishonor is as impossible to them as personal dishonesty, is so genuin and delightful that a fiery radical could scarcely withhold respectful acquiescence. The village never dreams of questioning the validity of the poverty-stricken Von Reckenburg's claim to superiority. When Dörl, the common sinner, grovels at the patrician Hardine's feet, and is lifted, comforted, and shielded from the worst consequences of her sin, there is an almost comical recognition of the immeasurable social distance between the two. The beauty of the story is that the reader accepts the situation as naturally as Dörl and the rest of the villagers, and the credit of this effect should be given to the author's unpretentious, sincere literary manner. The interest in Hardine's sorros and Dörl's sins is strong enuf to survive the artistic blunder of telling the end before the beginning." [Nation. 2449

LEFT-HANDED ELSA [by Ro. E: Francillon: Boston, Loring, 1879.] is "a quaint little tale. It is about a young artist, who wins a prize, and is nearly ruined by his success. In his obscurity, he had loved the humble maiden, Elsa; in his greatness he neglects; when he falls he finds consolation in her affection." [Boston "Lit. World." 2450

LENORE VON TOLLEN [by "W. HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens: Munro, 1890.] "is a natural, unaffected, and purely domestic story of a sort on which our german kinsmen seem to hav a patent. An unbroken thread of narrativ conducts the reader from one incident to another by wel-trodden, homely ways, and throu an atmosphere suffused with sentiment until it brings him contentedly to the most orthodox and prosperous of endings. The good ar rewarded and the evil punished, deaths happen opportunely, and people inconvenient to the villain turn up at the most convenient moment for his trembling victim." [Catholic World.] - "It is a rather tragic story of the sacrifice of a young and beautiful girl to pay the debts of a scapegrace bröther. Her mother and sister connived to sel her to a coarse, brutal husband, and separate her from the lover to whom she had given her heart. The girl's despair and her disgust for the man she marries ar very wel pictured. By a happy turn of circumstances she is finally able to thro off her yoke and marry her early love. Novels in which matrimonial mistakes ar rectified by divorce ar not always the healthfulest; but in the book before us, Lora has the reader's sympathies throuout. . . Thêre is a Teutonic simplicity about her which makes her a fascinating heroin." [Boston "Lit. World."] -Lora "is the typical german heroin of the 'Marlitt' style, 'devoured with the hate of hate, the scorn of scorn, the love of love.' She carries her little head so very hi that one feels sure the muscles of her nec must often hav ached sadly. Some of the characters ar sufficiently life-like, but the plot is weak and sentimental. [Worthington] translation is well done and is in easy, colloquial English." [American.] - " The plot is commonplace and badly worked out, the troublesom characters being either sent to America or killed off by convenient maladies. Some of the dialog, however, is brightly written; and the author has succeeded in presenting an attractiv heroin of a thoroly german type. | Athenæum.

-, SAME ("Lora" Worthington, 1882.
-, SAME ("Was she his Wife?")
London, Eden, 1891.

LIESCHEN = LIZZIE OF THE MILL.

LIFE AND DEATH, in Ladies' Repository, june-july, 1868. LINDA TRESSEL. [by Anthony TROLLOPE (†, 1882): Littell and Gay, 1868.] "Looking at these short novels candidly, taking the good with the bad and comparing them with the multitudinous host of kindred works, we find ourselvs ready to say that they contain more of the real substance of common life and more natural energy of conception than any of the clever novels now begotten on our much tried english speech. . . . Thêre ar many ways by which an effect may be reached. Scott traveled throu romantic gorges and enchanted forests, and scaled the summits of mountains crowned with feudal towers. Mr. Trollope trudges throu crowded city streets and dusty hiways, and level garden-paths. But the two roads converge and meet at a spot whêre a sweet young girl lies dying of a broken heart. It matters little whether she be called Lucy Ashton or Linda Tressel." [Nation.] - "The same strong character-painting, the same striking contrasts, and remarkable but almost painful reality which distinguished 'Nina Balatka,' ar shon with equal power in the present story, altho it affords less scope for variety than did the former. The plot is laid in Nürnberg - and while it certainly introduces us to a singularly unattractiv set of people, the exhibition of thêir peculiar modes of thinking and action, and thêir effect upon individual fortunes,

INTERNATIONAL NOVELS.

LIKES AND DISLIKES. [Oxford, Parker, 1858.] "Two-thirds of this volume ar occupied with an account of a family tour in Germany. . . . Altho the plot is the simplest conceivable being summed up in the popular phrase, who would hav thot it? - an interest is gradually created which is sustained to the last chapter. As to the continental wanderings of the Marsdens and the Digbys, they supply at once the basis of a charming domestic tale, and of a most intelligent narrativ of travel, for we seldom meet with criticism so suggestiv, or gossip so pleasant, in the diaries of ordinary tourists. . . . The book is full of grace and fascination." Leader. 486 h thêir very strange manners, and the strong claim to our sympathies which the author bespeaks for poor Linda who seems to be entirely misplaced amid the picturesque antiquities and besotted prejudices of this Bavarian city, ar decidedly interesting. . . . The conversation is particularly good, and servs gradually to develope the peculiar qualities and opinions of the speakers in a manner so natural as to bring each individual before the reader with a degree of distinctness which no mere description could produce." [Round Table. 2453

LINKED AT LAST [by FANNY E .. BUNNETT: London, King. Bunnètt's slight story derives most of its interest from the picture of pleasant life which it contains. There is much which is true and wel described in the simple routine of the Massengers' homestead at the foot of the Odenwald. The fête-days and working days, the 'aussitz' in the gardens of the 'Crown,' the rustic love-making, and the village ambitions which cross its happiness, the simple true-heartedness of Rosa, the honest worldliness of her hard mistress, the phlegm of the male Massingers, father and son, ar all sketched with an appreciativ and not unskilful pen. [Athenæum. 2454

LITTLE BAREFOOT. ["Barfüssle") by Berthold Auerbach: Boston, Fuller, 1867, 12° London, 1873, 4°.] "It is rarely that there is published anything so simple and naturally delightful in tone and so complete in finish. The common sufferings and pleasures which mark the life of a peasant orphan ar rescued from insipidity by the poetry and humanity with which they ar treated. The thriftiness, cheerfulness and wisdom of Amrei, the little heroin, ar made touching by the circumstances under which they hav to be exercised. 'Brother and sister' is one of the most charming combinations of love and confidence, clear of selfishness, but 'sister and brother' is yet more so, and never was woman's self-sacrificing care of the weak boy left alone in the world with her more innocently and naturally displayed than in the career of Amrei and Dauci." [Athenæum.] -"We hav in this story of a shoeless maiden one of those simple yet exquisit fictions which stand unrivaled in their department of romance, the faculty of producing which seems to belong to some peculiar element of the german mind. It is characterized by the rare charm of freshness, a spontaneity, and a purity which renders the perusal, like inhaling the breezes of spring, redolent of mingled perfumes from gardens, meados, and groves. It would be stinted praise to say this little volume has excellence; for it possesses the many excellences essential to a truly artistic production. In design it is appropriate throught, ever natural and truthful. A depth of guileless wisdom speaks in the tender, earnest strain of the story, the reflectiv tenor of which is relieve by the perpetual play of a sparkling fancy, and warmed by irrepressible utterances of the hiest and sweetest intuitions." [Leader.] -"'Little Barefoot,' as she should be called, is a most fascinating creation, and her story is told in an altogether charming manner. The picture is taken from the humblest life, the scene is laid in an ordinary german village, the dramatis personæ ar peasants . . . but the beauty and the glory of humanity ar here, encompassed by loliness, and yet all the more able to move our hearts. The book, without making a profession of religion, is religious, - and moral, too, without moralizing, — and withal a charming combination of the real and the ideal, of hard, grasping, mean, grinding village life, under iron conditions, and of that faith and knoledge and sweetness—the gifts of God as manifestly as the flowers and the fruits, the birds and the soft breezes — which create their on world, and that world almost a heaven, out of the most unpromising materials." [Monthly Religious Magazine.

—, SAME ("Cinderella of the Black Forest"), in SKETCHES, translated by Georgina Gordon, London, 1861. 2455 —, SAME ("Barefooted Maiden"), Low, 1857; Boston, Monroe, 1860.

LITTLE HEATHER-BLOSSOM [by Emilie von Ingersleben: Bonner, 1891.] is "a pretty and somewhat intricate romance of a little watering-place on one of the inlets of the Baltic. Erica, the heather-blossom, upon losing her mother, drifts into many strange surroundings, and eventually discovers the place which is hers by right of birth as wel as by merit and fitness." [Publisher's Weekly. 2456

LITTLE MOORLAND PRINCESS = No. 795.

LITTLE WHITE HAT (The) in Amer. Monthly Mag., aug.-oct., 1833.

LIZZIE OF THE MILL ("Lüm-"W. penmüller's Lieschen ") [by HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens: transl. by Tyrrell, Bentley, 1880.] "is a pleasant enuf little story. It tels how the hêir of a half-ruined house fel in löve with an il-tempered and treacherous cousin, who leavs him in the lurch and in great pecuniary difficulties, and how he is rescued therefrom by the usual faithful and munificent girl of the people. wicked italian grandmöther with ruthlessly aristocratic vues is the only other person deserving mention." [Athense in.

-, SAME ("Lottie of the Mill"),

Lippincott, 1882. [In this version, the first chapter is omitted.]

-, SAME ("Lieschen"), N.-Y., Tribune Co., 1882.

-, SAME ("Tale of an Old Castle"), Munro, 1889.

-, SAME ("A Maiden's Choice"), Worthington, 1891. 2457

LORA = No. 2451.

LORENZO STARK, by Engel, = No. 821.

LORLEY AND REINHARD. [by BERTHOLD AUERBACH (†, 1882): Holt, "A painter visiting a village paints as a Madonna the beautiful dauter of the keeper of the village inn. He falls in love with her, attracted no less by her unconcealed love for him than by her beauty. He takes her to town with him, a town where there is a little court, very refined, æsthetic, and very hi dried old manners. The poor girl drives him almost mad with her awkwardness, her ignorance of polished life, and her independence. [Compare plot of No. 2390.] It does not matter that in the latter respect she wins the favor of others, even of the Prince. After awhile he avoids her, and comes home drunk. She sees her position, and from what he is suffering, and she goes bac to her parents, leaving behind her an unreproachful, fond, and most touching letter of farewel. . . After awhile she dies, and he after a long time betroths himself to another woman who lõves bim, and to whose lõve he responds with such a feeling as beauty and sweetness and devotion might raise in the breast of a man whose heart is really in the grave of his dead wife. He dies before a second marriage from injuries receive in a dispute with his brother-in-Law: It wil be seen that this simple story of humble life presented temptations to treatment in the most literal and realistic way. But in Auerbach's hands it is ideal." [Galaxy.

-, SAME ("The Professor's Wife")
[No. 2498], Oxford, Parker, 1850.
This includes, however; only the first part. 2458

LOST IN THE SNOW, in (N. Y.)

Citizen, 17-24 Sept., 1870. 2459

LOST MANUSCRIPT (The) = No.

799.

LOTTIE OF THE MILL = No. 2457.

LOUISA VON PLETTENHAUS = No. 2370.

LOVE AND SILENCE, or the Family of Almstein by K. (v. G.) PICHLER, in Boston Saturday Rambler, 18 and 25 may, 1850.

—, SAME ("Silent Love") in Boston Miscellany, jan., 1842; also in Ladies? Repository, july, 1844; also in "The Passion Flower," N.-Y., Leavitt & Alden, 1859 (?).

LUCIE'S MISTAKE = No. 2409.

LUCY, or Married from Pique, by "E. JUNCKER," i. e., Else () Schmieden: Loring, 1868. 2461

LULU'S NOVEL [by ELISE POLKO: Boston, Loring, 1874.] "is a pretty story of family-life. Lulu is one of those wild-flowers of genius, who in stories but not outside, gro, without much training, into the ability to do great things. Scarcely out of childhood, she is betrothed to a grave Herr Doctor, whom she reverences more than loves, and who has very strict ideas with regard to her education and sphere. A gay and genial young officer is introduced under the right conditions to make trouble, but he, or Lulu, or both, disappoint our expectations in this respect, and she ends rather tamely with her affianced at last. She is scarcely more prominent in the story, however, than all her friends. The gentle Professor, her father, with his birds and flowers, her over-anxious mother, the romantic ant Elsbeth, with her worship of female greatness afar off.—these make a family circle whose life is like a pastoral." [Repository. 2462

MAGDALEN'S FORTUNES = No. 2360.

MAGIC OF A VOICE (The) [by MARGARET RUSSELL MACFARLANE: Cassell, 1886.] "is a charming story of german life, resembling those chosen [see No. 595] by Mrs. Wister for translation, in its bright or pathetic episodes and its clear representation of german customs and modes of thôt." [Critic.]-"The picture of life as it is led by the gentry of Mecklenburg, with their narro interests and restricted companionship, is full of local color and realistic touches. . . Given, a dark man, with close cut hair curling crisply around his open brow, with an eye like a falcon. and other manly attributes, in love with a mysterious voice; the oner of the voice, a tall, slender maid, with ash blonde hair, arms like a Psyche, aspirations in music and the gift of their expression, for principal actors, and the wild waters of the Baltic, the woods, and the rockbound shore for a romantic setting, one is somewhat exasperated at having to listen to old women gossiping over their knitting." [Nation. 2463

MAID, WIFE, OR WIDOW? [by "Mrs. Alexander," i. e, Annie (French) Hector: Chatto, 1879.] is a "pretty, pathetic, wel-modulated little romance. As a matter of fact, the story cannot be read without pleasure; and it is written with so much delicacy, as wel as correctness, that criticism is disarmed from the outset. 'Maid, Wife or Widow?' is in many respects cast in a different mold from that which produced The Wooing O't, [No. 1984] but the two novels hav their best qualities in common. Humanity at its truest and tenderest, youthful affection and faith at their purest and simplest, circumstance and detail in their most natural form - these ar the materials out of which Mrs. Alexander has woven a charming tale. The thoro ease of the narrativ is one of the best proofs of the fidelity of the pictures which it brings before our eyes; and no one wil be likely to carp at the delineation of the quiet phases of saxon rural life, set in their bacground of military bustle and excitement. The halftransparent mystery which is created by the title before one dips into the first chapter is maintained without effort to the last; we feel that there is not much to be discovered when all is over, and we ar content to lend ourselvs to the delusion until it may please the hero and heroin to unravel their silken skein. This is art of a simple kind; but it is true art for all that." [Athen. 2464

MAIDEN'S CHOICE (A) = No. 2457. MARGARETHE [by "E. Junker," i. e., Else () Schmieden: Lippincott, 1878.] "is the simplest of narrations, a much-used theme; the marriage of the only son of an aristocratic house and a young girl from a class beneath him a count with a tradesman's daughter. She is lovely in person and character; but her exacting love and childlikeness weary him, and he is about to give himself up to the influence brot to bear upon him by a magnificent but unprincipled woman of his rank, whom he had formerly admired, when his wife Margarethe learns the truth and nearly dies of the shoc. Stung with remorse and shame, he strives and waits for restoration of the love and trust he has forfeited, and which new seem to him treasures beyond price; but she, from a confiding, affectionate girl, has become at once a woman, self-possessed, reticent and unapproachable. The result of his now absorbing passion and patient waiting, and of the disciplin of his truly noble nature, is such as to gratify the reader. Another love story of great pathos runs along with the leading one—that of the Count's sister for a lover beneath her. The sketches of the honic life of a cultivated family of rank, ar very graphic, as ar the general scenes and incidents; and the characters ar so clearly drawn that we recognize their fidelity." [Boston "Lit. World." 2465

MARIA WUZ, by RICHTER, No. 821.

MARIE AND MARIA, by OTTILIE (Ronschütz) Wildermuth: in Ladies' Repository, Jan.-May, 1871. 2466 MARRIAGE TIE (The). [by "JOHANNES VAN DEWALL," i. e., A: Kühne: Remington, 1879.] "The author makes about as much as is possible of material which an english reader would deem impracticable. The heroin, a miracle of beauty and virtue, is found to hav two husbands. the author's ingenuity can account for the first divorce in a satisfactory way to love too much seems to be as fatal to the stability of the 'marriage tie' as to love too little. The tale is wel told, and rises at its climax to a hight of interest which all readers wil acknowledge." [Spectator.

MARRIED OR NOT MARRIED in Imperial Magazine, 1839, and Gift of Friendship, 1852. 2468

MARTHA = No. 2514.

MASTER BIELAND AND HIS WORKMEN. [by BERTHOLD AUERBACH, (†, 1882): Holl, 1883.] "The Philadelphia exhibition figures in its pages, but in it Auerbach returns to the same theme which was long ago the most in Edelweise" [No. 2875] cooperation in handicraft. Then it was the clocmakers', here it is the shoemakers'. There is in it that same comprehension of the significance of all the littleness of the life of a small community which was the success of his first stories, tho there is less of picturesque detail such as made us intimate with the Black Forest."

MASTER OF ETTERSBERG (The)
= No. 1011.

MASTERPIECES OF GERMAN FICTION: Milwaukee, 1885.

MATRIMONIAL AGENT OF POTSDAM (The) [by Adolf von Win-TERFELD. N.-Y., T: R. Knox, 1887.] "is called a 'humoro-social' romance. The recipe for this is a certain proportion of sentiment, a certain quantity of sententious discourses on women, love, matrimony, the spirit of the age and a large amount of horse-play. It is in this that the humor consists. A man stands on his feet; therefore a man standing on his head must be irresistibly Wives must obey their husbands; thêrefore men afraid of thêir wives ar side-splitting. In the same measure physical defects, such as stammering, can convulse the gods. This is a cheap and easy way of raising a laf. but one with which we confess we are not greatly in sympathy. Otherwise the book professes to illustrate a curious phase of German society, but one which is equally farcical," [Epoch. MAX WILD, THE MERCHANT'S SON, Edinburgh, Nimmo, 1874. 2471 MEN AND BOYS, by TH. KÖRNER, in Amer. Monthly, Apr. 1836. MINNIE'S HOLIDAY [by MATILDA BARBARA BETHAM EDWARDS: London, M. Ward, 1875.] " is a fresh and pleasant story. The scene is Vienna, and the little country cousins come from Salzburg. It is told in a lively, pleasant way, and it shos that girls in Austria and England ar much alike." [Athenaum. 2473

MISJUDGED = No. 2437.

MISS IN HER 'TEENS = No. 2420. MISTRESS OF IBICHSTEIN = No. 845.

MONEY, London, 1852. 2474 MY HEART'S DARLING = No. 2409.

NANNCHEN VON MAINZ [by Berthold Auerbach: in Appleton's Journal, 10 and 17 July, 1875.] "is much like some of the author's earlier work. It tels how a young girl of Mainz fell in love with a prussian soldier, much to the wrath of her father, and how finally they wer married. It is a clever enuf little story, and it is amusing to notice that it has, or rather had, its political meaning, in shoing how much il-feeling existed between different sections of Germany." [Atlantic. 2475]

NEW RACE (A) = No. 864.

NINA BALATKA, see No. 2453.

NOBLE NAME (A) [by CLAIRE (VON TOLSTOY) VON GLUMER: Lippin-cott, 1883.] "givs the purposes and cross-purposes of the grandchildren of the aged head of the house of Dönning-hausen, a house 'whose members,' according to his pronouncement, 'ar not in the world solely to enjoy themselvs, but to do their confounded duty as far as they can, and fulfil their responsibilities.'" [Nation. 2476]

NORA [London, Burns. 1877.] "is not an uninteresting novel; it is livelier and more attractiv than most german stories of the sentimental order, and its morality is all which can be desired,—it is, indeed, of a hier order than we ar generally fortunate enuf to find in novels of either home or forein manufacture. We should hav been pleased to make the acquaintance of the ac-

INTERNATIONAL NOVELS.

MY COUSIN MAURICE. [Low, 1872] "is a very pleasant, readable tale, written by some one who has evidently seen a good deal of the world. We are taken here and there, to India, Ireland, and Germany, and the writer is evidently at home in each land. Some of the translations of poetry ar particularly wel done." [Westminster. 501 q complished scion of a french noble house [which has espoused the cause of the Revolution] who found himself obliged to take to circus riding, and also of his charming wife and their dauter Nora." [Spectator. 2477

NORICA [Nürnberg] = No. 870. NORTHERN LIGHT ["Flammenzeichnen"] by "E. Werner," N.-Y., Bonner, 1890.

NOT FOR THE WORLD. [by D. O. T.: Newby, 1872.] "Not til we get to the last page of D. O. T.'s unpretending story do we find the connexion, a very slight one after all, between it and the title; and the enigma which the latter presents to us is the only perplexity involvd in the simple plot. Thêre is no doubt as to the general fidelity of the representation of german life and character. This is convêved throu the medium of a narrativ by an english girl, who leavs her 'villa at Brompton' to stay with some german relativs, a goodtempered, rather sluggish baron, and his vixenish but affectionate ant, who rules her docile nephew with despotic By very slo degrees, during sway. which one frequently gets completely out of patience with her hero, that gentleman makes up his mind to assert his right of independent choice in the important question of matrimony. Clara Leybach, the young lady whom he wisely prefers even to the approbation of his ant, is, in every way, charming, womanly, and natural. Unfortunately, as the dauter of a village pastor, she does not boast the patrician Von, and this defect, when coupled with some early reminiscences which ant Minuschka stil retains of other members of the Leybach family, proves sufficient to induce the hi-hearted old baroness to giv the match her stoutest opposition. Of course, after much resistance, in the course of which ant Minuschka shos herself in colors very unworthy of her better nature, a happy consummation is arrived at. There is a good deal of skil, tho no attempt at striving after effect, in the manner in which the complex but homely nature of the old lady is revealed to us; much truth in the exposition of the really loering tendency of misplaced pride, and a good deal of humor in the description of the final 'coup' on which the gallant old combatant stakes her all, and loses. The younger people, Clara, Fanny, and the baron, ar tame in comparison with her - the latter provokingly so; but thêy all hav thêir merits, and the tone of the book is lady-like and refined. Especially noticeable is the absence of coquetry in Fanny, whom most novelists would hav instantly placed in rivalry with the gentle Clara, but who, while giving us sufficient indications that her heart is not without its susceptibility, acts and thinks like a modest and a loyal english lady." [Athenæ. 2478

NOT IN THEIR SET. Thy Marie LENZEN: Boston, Lee, 1874.] " The heroin is the illegitimate child of Count Steinthal, who deceived her beautiful mother Helene, dauter of the proud Regierungsrath Lorsberg. The Count löves Helene, to whom he is betrothed, and would marry her, but weakly yields to the appeals of his father to save the tottering fortunes of thêir noble house by wedding the wealthy Fräulein von Metelen. The Regierungsrath is furious when he hears of the Count's insult to his family, altho as yet he does not kno its full extent. Helene becomes a listless invalid, and dies. Pretty little Margarethe, now two years old, is reared in the cottage of Jost, a poor basketmaker, on a barren moor, throu which, at the opening of the story, a survey is being made under direction of Mr. Berger, who is accompanied by his son. The boy at once loves Margarethe, and becomes her friend. He visits her often, brings her books, and educates her. Thêy gro up together and become lövers. Herr Berger sees the danger of thêir intimacy, for he wishes Leo to marry an hêiress for the benefit of the firm. He sends him to England to learn the trade of a merchant, and in the be-'îef that a few years' stay thêre wil thoroly cure him of his passion, promises him that if, when he shal return to Germany, he persists in marrying the girl, the paternal sanction shal not be Leo comes back a thoro withheld. Merchant, but is more anxious than ever to wed Margarethe." [Arcadian. 2479 NOVEL WITH TWO HEROES [Leipzig.] = No. 506. NUN (The), by K: SPINDLER: N.- Y., Dewitt, 1850. 2480 "O THOU, MY AUSTRIA." [by "Ossip Schubin," i.e., Lola Kirschner: Lippincott, 1890] "We ar carried throu the diary of a young girl, as lively in its way as the 'Neuvaine de Colette' [No. 2267]; we ar introduced to a sentimental irish göverness wêaring red stockings and flourishing a Gamp umbrella, and to a globe-trotting uncle whose ambition it is to be the austrian Canning, and who imports 'his clothes, his soap and his political ideas,' from England. Then folloes the pretty loveaffair of the principals Idena and her cousin Harry, interwoven and somewhat overclouded by the tiresome tragedy of a man who has married a rich parvenue to repair his fortunes and commits suicide in consequence. Clever as the story is, one's attention, toard the close, cannot resist straining in vain conjecture as to the meaning of the fittle in its relation to the book." [Critic.

ODDS AGAINST HER = No. 873.

OLD COUNTESS (The). [by BER-NARD HÖFER: Lippincott, 1870.] "If all his novels ar as good as this, we hope Bernard Hofer's name wil become a familiar one. 'The Old Countess' is a story of hi life, involving a grave family mystery and divers love affairs, which ar handled with pleasing effect. The action is lively, and each one of the characters makes a claim upon the reader's interest. Thêre is no moralizing or philosophizing in the book, not a tedious page; the author's single purpos seems to hav been to make an interesting story of natural elements, and without the aid of extravagance or sensationalism." [Boston "Lit. World." 2482 OLD MAM'SELL'S SECRET = No.

OLD MAM'SELL'S SECRET = No 877.

OLD MONASTERY (The). [by F: HACKLANDER: Bentley, 1862.] "The 'old monastery' is not a monastery after all; but a place which once was monastic, and is now inhabited by washerwomen, receivers of stolen property, etc. Of the personages whose good or evil fortunes fil the drama, the most interesting is the heroin, Maria, an orphan, the dauter of a female lamplighter in a german town and an italian peer. She is thron upon the mercy of the world, and the world, personified by a most sedate and admirable laundress. takes charge of her, and, faithful to her mother's wish, educates the child for the Her vicissitudes ar narrated with pleasant simplicity. . . . Otherwise the book is entertaining enuf. is lively, cleverly written, and in some respects, the scheme of the romance is originally conceivd." [Leader. 2483

OLD STORY OF MY FARMING DAYS (An) = No. 2509.

ON GUARD, by Auerbace, in Apple-

2481

ton's, 19 june, 1875; also in Modern 2509 t Age, jan., 1884.

ON THE HEIGHTS = No. 881.

ONE HUNDRED SHORT TALES, by Christoph von Schmid: London, 1852. 2484

OPEN DOOR (The) [by Blanche WILLIS (HOWARD) TEUFFEL: Houghton, 1889.] "as a story, is very simple. A count meets an accident in early manhood, and becomes a cripple. The lady who would probably hav married him is thenceforth the heartless woman of the world. His mother is an old frump, who lavishes all her tenderness on a lap-dog, and this lap-dog is thrust disagreeably upon one at every turn in the story. The möther has a way of taking young girls as companions, expending her foolish fondness on them, and then tiring of them and throing them aside. At last comes along the 15th of them, a pure, hispirited girl, a baroness remotely connected with the family, who refuses to be a sycophant, and marches throu the story with uncompromising sturdiness dealing out truth on every hand. Early in the novel it is clear that the crippled count wil marry her, and the reader is not deceive by the obstacles which spring up. The countess tries to marry her to an officer, but she disdains him, and he sets about seducing the baroness' maid. Here comes the one notable passage in the book: the baroness at night goes to an outcast's room, whither her silly maid has gone to meet the officer, and has there a long intellectual and sentimental struggle with the outcast and the maid, finally winning the game. But the passage is only superficially strong; it is shoy rather than genuin. Indeed, this is the term to be applied to the entire novel. The manner of the book is forced, exaggerated, with occasional brilliancy, but with the glitter of tin foil rather than of precious metal." [Atlantic.] - It "is bright and sufficiently readable, tho the interest nowhere becomes so absorbing that the volume may not easily be laid down. certain suspicion of dulness may be accounted for by the lac of actuality in the characters. The story treats of german life; but unlike Mr. Crawford's new book, which is german in its whole warp, and woof [see No. 724] 'The Open Door' is not distinctively german at all. There is no forein bacground, no local color; and as all the lively dialog is carried on in english and american slang and idiom, it is a difficult matter to catch the characteristic Teutonic tendency in any one of the characters." [American. 2485

OTTILIE = No. 855.

OTTILIE ASTER'S SILENCE ["Eine Lüge"), by IDA () Bor-ED: N.-Y., Bonner, 1891. 2485 t

OUR DOOR BELL, by "W. HEIM-BURG," in Cosmopol., dec., 1886. 2486

OUR FRÄULEIN. [by W. H. WATTS: Chapman, 1877.] "A young english lady, reduced to great difficulties by the death of her father, takes the management of the household of a certain german professor, and reduces to order the chaos in which she first finds it involvd. Her last and greatest victory is over the Professor himself, who begins with the strongest and most obstinate prejudices against England and english women in particular, and ends by laying down his arms in a most ignominious subjection. . . . The story is fairly amusing, and the writer has evidently some acquaintance with german life, tho he writes of a time now past, and indeed further away than the mere laps of time would sho, - the period of 1848. This suggests the interweaving of politics with the plot.

'Our Fräulein's' patron is a revolutionary thinker, and we hav a somewhat vague account of the Continental movement in that year of disturbance." [Spectator. 2487

OVER YONDER [by "E. MARLITT" i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Lippincott, 1869.] "is simple and charming, and short enuf to make one quite regret its brevity." [Round Table. 2488

OWL'S NEST = No. 888.

PARTNERS (Egoist), by "E. WERNER," London, Remington, 1882. 2489
PARTY OF FOUR, by E. ECESTEIN, in Appleton's, 21 Aug. 1875. 2490
PASTOR'S DAUGHTER (The) =
No. 2514. [2491]

PENDULUM OF FORTUNE, by R. LINDAU, in Lippincott's, Nov., 1876. PENNILESS GIRL (A). ["Ein Armes Mädchen" by "W. HEIMBURG," i. e., Bertha Behrens : Lippincott, 1884.] "When a german novel is at all good, it is generally very good. There is a simplicity about it, a tenderness, a warmth and radiance of feeling, a familiarity with and fondness for nature, a kindly humor, a bias toard the domestic virtues, and a vindication of truth, honor, and fidelity, which combine into an unusual charm. This story may be read with affectionate interest in the pathetic childhood and youth of Elsie, with hearty sympathy for the suit of her manly lover, Bernardi, with lively concern for her deliverance from the bonds which family pride undertakes to weav about her, and with joyful congratulations over the Providence which finally unites two deserving hearts and lives in one. . . Altogether a sweet and rewarding story is this of A Penniless Girl, full of the briter phases of german life, picturesque with castles, spears, Moravian sisters, and grim old ants, and alive with the humanities, chastened with suffering, and sanctified by self-[Boston "Lit. World."] -"We hav become so accustomed to the energetic modern heroin, eager to be a lawyer, physician, author, at least a professor, anything rather than be condemned to the stagnation of the life of a conventional young woman, that Elsie, the 'penniless girl' is refreshing to us by way of contrast. The accident of her sex cuts her off from the possibility of inheriting the family prosperity, and the 'gray set of life and apathetic end' of a governess is appointed to be her destiny. Elsie, however, loves the freedom and ease of every-day existence; she loves society, she is quickened by all a young girl's hopes of a happy marriage. How at first the life of a happy woman seems to hav been denied her, - her temptations to accept great wealth without love, - her fidelity to the promptings of her heart. -all this makes a pleasing and excellent story." [Lippincott's.

-, SAME ("A Penniless Orphan"), Munro, 1887. 2492

—, SAME ("Elsie"), Rand, 1891. PICKED UP [by H. SCHOBERT: Lippincott, 1888.] "is undeniably interesting, the for american taste it may be too sentimental and overburdened with plot. It narrates the history of a waif who proves to be the abandoned child of a noble family, and who in the end comes triumphantly to her on." [American. 2493

PICTURES OF LIFE, by A. STIFTER: London, Parlor Library, 1852.

PLUMWOMAN (The) and CHILD WITH THREE MOTHERS, by G. NIERITZ: N.-Y., Soribner, 1854. 2495
POOR MARGARET, in Democratic Review, dec., 1842, and in Tales transl. by Greene. 2496

PRIEST'S COAT (The) by A. von Bulow, in Amer. Keepsake, 1851. 2497 PRINCE OTTO = No. 901.

PRINCESS EVA, by "C. Helm," Boston, Lee, 1887. 2497 h

PROBLEMATIC CHARACTERS [by F: Spielhagen: N.-Y., Leypoldt, 1869.] is "a story of dramatic incident, of continuous interest, and displaying a humorous, as wel as keen appreciation of character. One might think that nothing less than a miracle could keep the german novelist out of that slou of mysticism and metafysics in which he usually loses himself, or, at least, becomes unintelligible: but the intervention of humor has, in this case, proved as efficacious. . . . The author seems to hav nothing to do with the immorality with which certain love passages may justly be charged. One feels that the persons to whom he is introduced ar flesh and blood - not mere heroes and heroins, shaped in a very uncommon, if not unearthly mold. There is tangibility about them, with all their virtues and vices qualities which ar continually puzzling one to determin on which side of the 'fence' to put them. The plot is elaborated skilfully and artistically, and the interest is not for a moment allowed to fag. Perhaps the final dénoûment is somewhat vague and unsatisfactory; and the whole book leaves a slightly bitter taste." [Overland.] - "The scene is laid in a prussian manor-house, the time is that immediately preceding the Revolution of 1848, whose oppressiv, electric atmosphere pervades the entire story. Every character is unnatural and stilted, and thêir language is as artificial as their Disquiet harasses all spirits, ideas. evincing itself among the aristocracy in reclessness, and among the burgers and thinkers in utopian or despairing conclusions. The heroes ar of course, problematic characters. It is significant of german life that they ar both connected with philosophy, the one as a student, the other as a professor, of Nihilism. This novel, published in 1861, was succeeded by a continuation, ' Durch Nacht Zum Licht,' which, like all continuations, is not so good as its forerunner, but which possesses the curious attraction which renders all Spielhagen's novels, when once begun, so hard to lay aside. The tenor of the books is similar - they depict the impassible barrier which exists between the aristocracy and the middle class in Germany." [Spec-2498 tator.

PROFESSOR'S WIFE (The) [by BERTHOLD AUERBACH (†, 1882): Oxford, Parker, 1850.] "is charming. The author endeavors to set off nature against conventional civilisation, and he has succeeded in presenting the world with a composition so truly poetical an.l original that it is difficult to imagine a reader whom it would not please. Auerbach has in this story got the mastery over his favorit weakness of laying too much stress upon subordinate events and sacrificing the necessary perspectiv; but has, on the contrary, grouped the incidents in a manner setting them off to the greatest advantage" [Englishwoman's Domestic Mag.] For continuation see No. 2458. 2499

PYTHIA'S PUPILS [by "EVA HARTNER," i. e., Emma von Twardowska (1845-89): Routledge, 1888.] "is a capital story about 4 german girls who had a little cooking school, with the august 'Pythia' for instructor. . . . The cookery forms, however, but a small part of the book. The daily home life of the several households is portrayed, and an insight given into pleasant interiors in a german city. Dr. Stein-

PARTNERS [by "E. WERNER," i. c., E., Bürstenbinder: Reminaton, 1892. "deals with characters and situations of which the author seems particularly fond. We hav the usual strông man, who wins his wife by sheer strength of wil in her on despite. The partners ar the brothers Sandow, of whom the elder is head of a mercantile house in America, and the younger a journalist of great brilliancy... They ar to be partners because the elder wishes his ward Jessie Clifford to marry the younger, who is to come over and take a wife and a partnership. Miss Clifford's consent is deemed a very unimportant thing by the elder Sandow, and the young lady shos a helplessness which is surprising considering that she is an American citizen with a large fortune, and is nowise disposed to be handed over in a business transaction to Mr. Gustav Sandow. The journalist, however, is not only an Admirable Crichton, but a fine fello, and has not come to America on a fortune-hunting errand. His first object is to reconcile his brother to a dauter whom he has long refused to recognize for painful family reasons. This dauter he introduces into the house as a young German in search of a place as a governess. He tels Miss Clifford that he has a deep plot to carry throu, but tels her nothing as to its details. Hence the inevitable misunderstandings and surprising situations. The plot is further complicated by the efforts of the vounger brother to dissuade the elder from mixing himself in a promising land swindle. All comes right at the proper time. The hard man surrenders as soon as his finer feelings at properly appealed to, and the virtuous younger brother makes everybody else, and himself too, happy and prosperous." [Saturday Re-2489 view.

PROUD MAISIE [by BERTHA THOMAS: Low, 1877.] "is the autobiography of a fascinating, wayward, lovable young lady, who relates in these volumes the story of her life's löve. As gay and light-hearted at the beginning of the story as the original of the ballad whose name she bêars, her ultimate fate proves more fortunate than that predicted for Scott's heroin. The plot is original in its development, for we ar transported from humdrum. respectable english surroundings to an unconstrained art-student existence in Ludwigsheim [Munich]. The heroin portrays herself with ability, her character stands out firmly, and her individuality is wel sustained. The writing of the book is excellent. It is easy and pleasant to perceive that it is the work of a cultivated person: this is shon by the references to various literatures, and the thoro acquaintance with music and art betrayed. The book abounds in touches of quaint humor as wel as in epigrammatic writing. 'Proud Maisie'is a readable, clever novel, which keeps the reader's attention fixed to its . close." [Athenseum. 519 k

QUEEN OF CURDS AND CREAM (A). [by Dorothea Gerard: Appleton, 1892] "Glockenau, an Austrian mountain village, and afterwards London, ar the scenes. In the first, Count Emil Eldringen dies, leaving his dauter Ulrica penniless and friendless; a marriage beneath his rank and a life of dissipation had so estranged the count's relative, that nothing was left to Ulrica but to work with her hands like a peasant. At Glockenau, after many vicissitudes, she earns a living for herself in a large dairy farm. Here an English cousin discovers her, a love-story of varied interests folloing. Ulrica believes herself the heir of a large fortune, and figures for a time as a fine lady of London." [Publishers' Weekly. 519 r mann, the father of Dora, gardian of Lotta, and true friend of faithful Eva and Marie, is the typical good physician, always delightful to meet. He makes the way smooth for his sensitiv wife, is the wise adviser for Lotta's nervous mother, and almost cures Marie's irascible soldier father. Some of the young people hav serious faults and make mistakes, but they ar teachable and sound at core. Thêre ar mild mysteries and pretty little romances, loves, an attempt at authorship, unselfish living, patient waiting, and final reward. Pleasingly written, vivacious, full of the incidents which might naturally happen in so many lives, kindly in spirit, commendable in its tone, it is an excellent book." Boston "Lit. World." 2500

QUEEN (A) [N. Y., Dutton, 1864.] "is a pleasant story, shoing how a little girl, who was ever dreaming she was a queen, became a queenly woman. It is very pleasant as shoing the ways of german children; and its pure lessons of kindness to all make it a gem of a book. It is written with simple, child-like feeling." [Church Monthly. 2501 QUICKSANDS = No. 909.

QUIET HOUSE (The), in Ladies'
Companion, oct.-dec. 1852. 2502
QUISISANA, by F: SPIELHAGEN:
N.-Y., Munro, 1892. 2503

QUITS, by Tautphous [Bavaria] = No. 521.

RANK AND NOBILITY, by "JEANNE MARIE," in National Era, 27 may to 19 aug. 1852.

RAYMOND'S ATONEMENT = Nos. 600, 688.

REATA = No. 914.

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S (The) [by Marie Berghard, N.Y., Worthington, 1891.] "is a very unusual and a most lövely story. A young girl, beautiful and attractiv from every point of vue, is the idol of the town. The officers of the regiment ar all in love with her, but thêv ar distanced by the rector and an artist, both of whom ar devoted to the girl. The artist wins her at last, and he and she ar perfectly happy in their betrothal, the there is something strange about the man which makes everyone distrust him and doubt his ability to make his sweetheart happy throu life. The facts of his early life come into the possession of the rector in the most curious manner, and he generously resolvs to say nothing about them. Accident, however, reveals to the artist the fact that his history is knon to his rival, and he sees that it wil be impossible for him to marry Annie with this knoledge hanging over him. He leavs without seeing her and writes her that thêre is something which he can never overcome, and that she wil not see him again. Shortly afterwards he dies. It is only a question of time then as to when the rector shal win the girl for himself. The charm of the story is in the telling, and in the deep interest which the characters, one and all, inspire. The exquisit daintiness of the girl around whom the story revolvs; the unusual charm of her elder and invalid sister with whom she livs; the beauty and harmony in the development of the rector's character; and the wonderful fascination of the artist, notwithstanding the cloud which seems from the first to envelope him, combine to produce that most uncommon thing -a really charming german novel." [Critic. 2506

RIVEN BONDS = No. 2848.

ROMANCE OF A GERMAN COURT = No. 928.

ROMANCE OF THE CANONESS (The) [by Paul Heyse: Appleton, 1887.] "is devoted to descriptions of life in those religious houses, the members of which liv in common, but without taking monastic vows. It is intelligent, even able, but heavy." [American.]—"Romantic enuf, and of course interesting; the situations ar not such as the realists would devise, and a melancholy air pervades the whole as if the narrator did not quite expect to be believed; but it is conceived with poetic thôt, and taken as a lyric of the stage is not without beauty." [Atlantic. 2507

1985

ROSE OF TANNENBURG, by CHRISTOPH VON SCHMID (1768-1854)
Phil'a, Cunningham, 1848. 2508
ROSE OF THE PARSONAGE [by Ro. GISEKE: N.-Y., Parry, 1854. 2509
SACRED VOWS = No. 594.

SACRISTAN'S HOUSEHOLD (The) [by F.. ELINOR (TIERNAN) TROLLOPE: London, Virtue, 1869.] "The fidelity to nature with which all these scenes ar sketched, the details of life which ar skilfully woven in, the picturesque bits of architecture, and the descriptions of woodland scenery which form the setting of the story, recommend it to all who hav livd in Germany. . . It is hardly a fair ground of objection to most of the characters that they ar typical rather than individual. The military men, the wildhaired professors, the stout and placid matrons, and the romantic old maids, who form the cream of Detmold society,- the small tradesmen and farmers who hold thêir social gatherings at the Pied Lamb, - ar the familiar figures of german life rather than the persons of this particular story. But if we look at the characters which hav been worked out with greater pains, and notably at the lawyer, we see that there is no lac of dramatic force or of life-like painting. . . . It is for their sakes in the first instance that we read the book with such As each of them develops new attractions, we rejoice in thinking that each is becoming more worthy of the other; and when they confess their mutual love, in a delicious scene of playful happiness, we join with them in forgetting all the other persons of the But, after all, the other persons ar not to be forgotten. The plot may be put aside, yet in the course of working it out the author brings us in contact with so much which is pleasant, the chief characters ar so perfect, the minor characters bear marks of such care and observation, that we can forgiv any of those failings at which we hav hinted, and can ask our readers to take the book merits." [Athenæum.] - "In these german stories there is always a certain freshness, coming, in the case of translations, in great part from the kind of thôt and speculation with which they ar occupied; and in the case of studies made by foreiners, from the novelty of the manners, the household customs, and the ways of looking at life which thêy describe, which generally makes them interesting. To our taste, one of the pleasantest of the latter class is the 'Sacristan's Household.' It is written with a great deal of grace and spirit, the love story is prettily told, the characters ar sketched in cleverly, and the life of a village [?] with its homely heartiness, its petty economies, and its small punctilios, is described in a way which makes the reader understand how carefully the author has studied it, and how thoroly she has enjoyed it. Then, too, thêre is no dul or irrelevant matter to be skipped; and altho the characters ar not specially remarkable for originality, nor analyzed with any great subtlety, they hav a certain vigor and vitality, and ar uniformly interesting." [Nation. ST. MICHAEL [by "E. WERNER,"

ST. MICHAEL [by "E. WERNER," i. e., E. Bürstenbinder: Lippincott, 1887.] is "a strong, enjoyable story of northern Germany, with a hero of the sort which old-fashioned novelreaders have a partiality for, - one who has been defrauded of his rights in his youth, but rises superior to poverty and il usage and comes to a noble manhood, brave, honorable, and true; asserts himself, and wins the girl he loves. What better hero could one ask than the conquering Michael Rodenberg? Hans, the artist, is as good in his way, while the old genealogist, Gerlinda, who repeats genealogy like a parrot, is delightful; and the scenes where Hans gets the advantage of his father, and where the two fathers ar made to accept the situation, ar capital bits of light and wholesome comedy." [Boston "Lit. World."] -" The story is interesting, the plot consistent and wel developed, the dialog natural, and the characterization distinctly good. Hauty, intolerant, domineering, but not hard-hearted Count Steinrück and his unacknoledged grandson, Michael Rodenberg, ar the protagonists representing intolerable pride and passionate determination conflicting in an eager life drama. The author has sot to delineate the power of consanguinity --- how il-treatment, indifference, neglect, absence, and a hundred other ils of life ar incapable of arresting the manifestation of the characteristics of a dominant race. By slo degrees Michael Rodenberg forces his way in the world, under the very eyes of his antagonistic grandfather; and in the end he comes to his on again (and another's also) and marries his beautiful consin. A skilful plot has been woven for the evolution of this motiv." [Acad-

—, SAME ("Her Son"), Beniley, 1887. 2511 SCHIOSS AND TOWN = 888 No.

SCHLOSS AND TOWN = see No. 2864.

THE BLACK SCULPTOR OF FOREST (The) by Souvestre, in Southern Lit. Mes., Dec., 1854. 2512 SECOND WIFE (The) [by "E. MARLITT," i. e., Eugenie John (†, 1887): Lippincott, 1874; Bentley, 1875.] "is a bright, spirited novel, much more interesting than most German works of fiction, which indeed ar generally distasteful to us, with thêir mixture of silly sentiment and commonness of life and manners, and their resemblance to the lordly-baron and faithful-retainer school which vanished long ago. this instance, tho there are a regning duchess and a 'hof-Marschal,' tho titled people abound, and the flavor of Pumpernickel is everywhêre, stil thêre is a strong human interest in the story, and at least one striking character, that of Frau Löhn. The Second Wife is introduced in the position of a victim, but she makes her exit with flying colors, having conquered her enemies, routed her rival, and won the true love and respect of her husband with a woman's noblest weapons, love, patience, gentleness, and self-sacrifice; his motiv for marrying her is so unworthy that Baron Mainau inspires us with anything but esteem and interest. A scene in which the baron presents his wife to the duchess, -- who has a pleasing conviction that he is about to desert the baroness for her sake, - and utterly disconcerts the royal coquette by the announcement that the contemplated journey is to be made 'à deux' - is very effectiv. The translator [Wood] has done her part admirably; her rendering of the story has no hitches, no blunders, no rawness in it." [Spectator.] - "We hav all the old characters with which the 'Old Mam'selle's Secret' [No. 877] and the author's succeeding tales hav familiarized us. There is the wel-knon hero, gloomy, sardonic, on cousin to the Stranger, with a tinge of commonplace, not to say vulgar, scepticism. Like the professor in the 'Old Mam'selle' and the subsequent heroes, he continually poses with bitter smiles and folded arms. He includges in alternate infinities and worlds of scorn. His passion is revealed by a quite unnecessary intensification of his usual exceedingly bad manners, and his kindness finds expression, according to the time-honored tradition of this family of creations, in increased rudeness and brusqueness. And in spite of his lofty character and spirit, he often finds it necessary, in keeping with the dramatic habits of his kind, to lurk in convenient spots for the purpos of over-hearing private conversations. The heroin is not less like her predecessors, nor less unlike any proper flesh-and-blood heroin. She is one of those personages greatly affected by the purveyors to the Bowery stage, with supernatural clearness of vision for misty plots and deeply-hidden depths of subtle villany, united to the most extraordinary stupidity as to what is going on under her nose. . . If the author, however much passing the limits of probability, had given us a number of noble, ideal characters, much might be forgiven the staginess and unreality of her portraiture. But these characters, Raoul von Mainau, Liana, and the rest, ar not noble, and ar very unlövely. sentiments, when they hav not the false ring of those of a man who is perpetually calculating thêir effect, ar absurd, vulgar, and tiresom, and thêir actions, instead of being inspiriting, ar, for the most part, il-bred or positivly brutal." See also No. 936. [Arcadian. SALTMINER OF HALLSTADT, by A: SILBERSTEIN: in Ladies' Repository, apr. 1870. 2514 AND HARVEST SEED TIME

["Ut mine Strombid") by REUTER (†, 1874): Boston, Littell & "Mr. Reuter tels his Co., 1871.] story with his pipe in his mouth, and his slippers on, his feet on the fender, and the fog outside. The business of life is over, and there is no need for hurry. . . . To those who hav leisure to enjoy it, we can promis a quiet treat of an uncommon kind; they shal be made free of half-a-dozen households, and breathe an air of homeliness and simplicity which shal for the moment carry them out of the tawdry civilisation in which we liv. . . . But no one must imagin this is a story all honeysweet of pleasant parsonages and blooming girls, - far from it. There is enuf of sorro, and suffering, and sin." [Spectator.

—, SAME (An Old Story of my Farming Days), Low, 1879. 2516

SEVERA [by "E. HARTNER," i. e., Twardowska, 1845-89: Emma von Lippincott, 1881.] The story is of "a man deserted by his betrothed, living to see her again, with her child, Severa, by her side; and waiting for Severa to gro up to take the place which the mõther was to hav had, but which in a moment of infatuation she had abandoned. Such an experience is one of suffering, and the colors in this relation of it ar grave and subdued." [Boston "Lit. World." 2517

SHE FELL IN LOVE WITH HER HUSBAND = No. 2416.

SHORT STORIES, by "W. HRIMBURG:"N.Y., Worthington, 1890. 2518SILENT LOVE = No. 2459.

SISTER'S LOVE (A) = No. 2426.

SKELETON IN THE HOUSE (The) [by F: Spielhagen: N. Y., Harlan, 1881.] "is scarcely more than a sketch, but it is admirably told. . . . Every stroke tels, and one hardly knoes which to like best: a plot ingeniously contrived to rivet the reader's attention yet giv him a hearty laf at the end, or the portraiture of character, which is exceedingly clever, and full of hints for the wise. The moral of the story is that husbands may dare to confess anything 'down to the dot on the i,' to a wife who loves them; but let them beware of her learning what they hav to confess from the lips of anyone clse!"

SMOKE, by Turgénier = No. 948 {Baden}.

SOUGHT AND FOUND. [by "Golo RAIMUND," i. e., Bertha (Heyn) Frederich (†, 188): N.-Y., Funk, 1888.7 "A young German returns to his nativ land from America, wealthy, of course, and in the ruins of his hotel, burned on the night of his arrival, finds the charred leaves of a girl's diary. The diary causes him to wish to find its author. for it is a charming record of a fine character, amid grievous disappointments and misfortunes. He seeks his relative, and the rest of the narrativ is taken up with the strife between the rival claims of a pretty but designing cousin and a maiden not fair to see but of much modest merit. Modest merit wins, and of course proves to be the unknon writer of the diary, and the story ends with virtue triumphant. enuf for a framework, but sufficient to carry much of the simple and pleasing narrativ often found in german tales." |[Overland. 2520

SPELL OF HOME - No. 2429.

SPRING FLOODS, by Turganter, = No. 952.

STORY FOR CHRISTMAS (A) in Graham's Mag., Jan., 1852. 2521. STORY OF A CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER by "W. HEMBURG!"
N. Y., Munro, 1889.

-, SAME ("A pastor's Daughter"), N. Y., Worthington, 1890.

—, SAME ("Martha"), N.-Y., Street, 1891. 2522

STORY OF A GENIUS, by "Ossip Schubin," in Modern Age, Mar.-Apr., 1884. 2523

STORY OF A MILLIONAIRE (The). [by "L. Mühlbach," i. e., Clara (Müller) Mundt (†, 188): Appleton, 1872.] "Mrs. Mühlbach, having come to the end of her historical novels. which threw a dark vail of romance over the dry records of history, has written a social novel. Its merit is about that of the works of Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, Mrs. Holmes, etc., in this country; so we may suppose it wil be one of the most popular works of the year. In Germany Mrs. Mühlbach holds about the same position as a writer that these ladies do here." Nation. 2521

STRANGE FOLK. [by HERMANN OELSCHALAGER: Longman, 1872.] "A pleasant dreaminess pervades "Strange Folk.' Authors, actresses, and monks ar its chief characters. We alternately exchange the stage for the cloister, and step from the greenroom to the greenwood. Dr. Anselmus is an author who suffers from extreme nervousness. The least noise prevents him from writing. He flies from home with his niece to a little town in Franken. He finds a house there beautifully situated. Everything is charming. His book progresses. He feels the inspiration of the scenery. Summer comes. The grass in the menios changes from its varying shades of green to its last purple tints. From that moment there is no more rest for the doctor. From morn til night sounds the sternal sharpening of the soythes. He files from his new quarters to the Convent of the Fifteen Saints. His niece, disguised as a student, accompanies him as secretary. Here the real story begins. Of the characters, that of the Doctor is, perhaps, the best drawn. Marion is more interesting and less vulgar than most actresses ar. Dr. Breitman is one of those odious hangers-on to be found at every theatre, who sponge upon every one alike. We fancy however that Dora's unconventional habits may prove some bar to the popularity of the story." [Westminster.] - "The story is hily amusing. . . For a time, uncle and niece liv quietly enuf in the monastery, and the romance of the 13th century goes on apace. Dr. Anselmus discovers a set of old chessmen, which must date from the time of the Crusades, while Dora becomes acquainted with a novice, who tels her the history of his early life, and makes an impression on her heart. Before very long, Dr. Anselmus is roused from his pleasant dream by discovering that the novice and his niece ar in love, and that the antiquity of the treasured set of chessmen is a One morning the novice delusion. calmly walks out of the monastery in the doctor's clothes, as the only way of bidding farewel to the place without causing an open scandal. The Doctor is furious at this unauthorized use of his garments, and at the relations which hav sprung up between the two young people, but in time he relents, and they [Athenæum.] Compare ar happy." 2522 plot of No. 2576. STRANGE HEART (A) by Heyse, in Cosmopolitan, Apr., 1886. 2523

STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE
(The). [by "Robert Byr," i. e., Robert v. Bayer: Chicago(?), McKinney, 1874.] "Translations of recent german novels ar chiefly of importance as shoing how hard put to it for entertainment the reading public is. Almost without exception they ar dul with a deadly dulness, considered as stories, and to that they add the dulness of the lofty platitudes and long winded abstractions which somehow hav such a charm for the teutonic mind. . . . The book is a thing to be delivered from, but many good souls wil devoutly go throu it, and fancy they ar being amused and ar besides that listening to numerous pregnant truths." [Nation. 2525

SUCCESS = No. 2416.

SUPERFLUITIES OF LIFE, by L: TIECK: in Blackwood's, Feb., 1845. [So. Lit. Mes., Oct. 1845.] 2526

SWALLOWS OF ST. JÜRGENS, by Th. Storm, in Canadian Monthly, oct., 1872. 2527

TALE OF AN OLD CASTLE (A) = No. 2457.

TALES, by TH. KÖRNER, London, 1845. 2528

TALES by PAUL HEYSE [Appleton, 1876.] contains Count Ernest's Home, The Dead Lake [also No. 669], The Fury (L'Arrabiata), Judith Stern. 2529

TALES FROM THE GERMAN: London, Emily Faithful, 1863. 2530

TALES FROM THE GERMAN [by MUSÆUS, SCHILLER, KLEIST, IMMER-MANN, HOFFMANN, AND VAN DER VELDE]
Chapman, 1844, see FANCIFUL NO VELS.

TEACHER OF THE VIOLIN (A) = No. 975.

TEMPTED OF THE DEVIL, by A: Becker: London, A. Gardner, 1888.

THEKLA [Vienna] = No. 980.

THROUGH NIGHT TO LIGHT, [by F: Spielhagen: N.-Y., Holt, 1869.] See No. 2498. 2533

TOO RICH. [by ADOLF STRECK-FUSS; Lippincott, 1878.] "For ingenuity and complication, and for the ease

INTERNATIONAL NOVELS.

THREE SISTERS. [Low, 1884.] "Any one who cares to follo the fortunes of 3 brave Irish girls who ar forced to support themselvs in a South German 'Residenz' can not fail to be amused. The Miss Denbighs hav a perfect genius for making the best of most things, and extracting the fun out of everything. But besides the fun there ar glimpses of genuin pathos, and Darry's fate touches the reader very nearly . . . That the author knoes german town life wel, and is alive to the opportunities it presents for humorous description is obvious. The book is, moreover, wel written, and some of the anecdotes ar wel told." [Athenseum. 541 p

TREHERNE'S TEMPTATION. [by ALARIC CARR. Smith, 1883] The author has "set himself a very difficult task, and has performed it with skil and power. The story is full of interest from beginning to end - the plot unusually good and thoroly developed. It would be unfair to the reader even to hint at the unravelment of this romantic novel. One of the chief charms of the book is the description of easy Continental life; whether in Paris, or at Baden-Baden, the author is always equally at home, and evidently fond of his subject. The characters ar remarkably wel drawn, and distinctly defined the Vicomte a most polished and perfect specimen of a French noble. His very weaknesses ar charming. Our sympathies ar always with him, and with his nation because of him. The German element in the book is not the least agreeable feature of it. The very servants and dogs add their quota to the enjoyment to be derived from this most agreeable novel. We must not omit to notice that there is a great deal of interesting talk about music." [Westminster. 545 h with which its intricate knots ar untied by the natural development of the story, its plot would do honor to the masters of fiction, while the style has that transparent simplicity and singular brilliancy which with some french and german writers seem so natural a quality. The story opens in a capital, but is speedily transferred to a village in Tirol. Out of the chief parties to it, 3 pairs of lovers ar curiously evolvd, 2 of the 3 gentlemen being army officers. The first passages ar in the tone of a delightful light comedy, in which an old Uncle Balthasar is a most enlivening figure; but the action speedily takes on a graver character, and in the dismal ruins of Castle Reifenstein sweeps by the verge of a tragedy. The narrativ is compact; the people ar all of an interesting sort, even to the rascal Bertram and the silly Nanette; and while there ar one or two glimpses of social impurity, the book is free as a whole from any taint. Its ingenuity wil baffle the best guessing as to the issue and the freshness of its materials and beauty of their treatment wil awaken new sensations of pleasure even in the satiated novel-reader." [Boston "Lit. World." 2534

TOWN STORIES, by Max Ring, London, 1853. 2535

TRAGIC COMEDIANS — No. 985. TREE IN THE ODENWALD (A) by O: Roquette, in Appleton's, dec., 1880. 2536

TRUDEL'S BALL, by Hans Hopfen, in Masterpieces of German Fiction, 70 p.
TRUE DAUGHTER OF HARTEN-STEIN. [by E. Vely: N.-Y., Bonner, 1892.] "The Castle of Hartenstein, in the Harz Mountains, was entailed; and as circumstances prevented Count Hartenstein from making provision for his önly dauter, on his sudden death Herthaleaves home. Her story after this is one of romance, revelation, adventure and heroism." [Pub. Weekly. 2538

TWIXT WIFE AND FATHER-LAND [Tirol] = No. 546.

TWO BROTHERS (The) [Eine Familie aus der ersten Gesellschaft) by MATHILDE (BECKMANN) RAVEN: Bentley, 1850.] "wil be welcome to the many who enjoyed 'The Initials' [No. 473]. Like that book, it contains a faithful picture of german domestic life. This time, moreover, it is a nativ who has 'played the painter.' . . . Here the general animus is graver and bitterer - the tragedy is longer drawn. In both stories, the love of appearance and establishment is shon as uppermost in a german woman's mind, to a degree which wil shoc all who hav given her a blank credit for simplicity; but in 'The Two Brothers,' the foible is mingled with, and crossed by, class and caste prejudices of a force and a folly which justify the sharpest satire because they bring on the saddest consequences. . . . So much for the moralists, and for the more superficial reader this tale will be found to possess deep interest and welcome freshness. The characters ar capitally marked. We hav never met a better study of fine frivolity than in the person of the noble Mrs. Hattesold. Poor Amelia, her victim, - and Steinheim her son-in-law, chosen, but not choosing, - ar delicately and clearly drawn, without exaggeration. The good people, of course, ar more strained in their proceedings, and less palatable to 2539 us." [Athenseum.

TWO DAUGHTERS OF ONE RACE No. 993.

TWO DAYS IN THE COUNTRY, in Leaflets of Memory, 1848. 2540
TWO SISTERS, by HEYSE, in Ladies' Repository, july-aug., 1871. 2541
TWOFOLD LIFE (A) [byW.. (BIRCE)

UP THE RHINE [by T: Hood: London, 1840; N.-Y., Putnam. 1852] is "one of the pleasantest of Hood's many pleasant books. It is composed of letters, written by the various members of a family traveling up the Rhein, and conceived somewhat after the model of Humphrey Clinker. Hood's characters ar a hypochondriae, a wide, a dashing young man, and a maid servant; and it is in exhibiting the oddities and humors of these, rather than in any description of the scenery, that the charm of the book consists. The letters of Martha Penny, the servant, are the gems of the volume. Her spelling and grammar ar so felicitous in thêir infelicities, as to amount to a kind of genius; and the character is one of the best which Hood ever delineated." [Graham's. 552k von Hillern: Lippincott, 1873.] "treats a great deal more of various forms of profligacy than one cares to see in a book intended for the family circle. He who leads the twofold life is Heinrich von Ottmar, who, when on his good behavior, calls himself Heinrich, but when, as is very often the case, he abandons himself to evil ways, translates his name into the more appropriate french, and as Henri imperils the virtue of every woman near him. In general, the german novelist is notorious for stuffing a suit of clothes with some moral quality, and calling the product a human being, but here we hav the clothes — the richest purple dress - stuffed with all sorts of immoralities, and the result is a bad and tedious representation of a bad life." [Nation. 2542

ULRICH, by IDA (HAHN) HAHN: London, 1885. 2544 UNDER THE STORK'S NEST =

No. 997.

VAIN FOREBODINGS [by E. Os-WALD: Lippincott, 1885.] "is a domestic tale, quite void of sensationalism or unclean passion of any kind, but which steadily maintains a real if placid interest. The writer excels in descriptiv power, and we hav not lately encountered anything more genuinly delightful than the series of sweet pictures of country life to be found in this book. 'Vain forebodings' is a capital summer book - and a good book to keep when summer is over." [The American.] -"It is a pleasant story, but containing a somewhat surprising point: for the story is of a benevolent physician, who first cured of insanity a youth upon whom this disaster had fallen, after he had long been predisposed to it, and then allowed his dauter to marry the patient, telling him that his forebodings of the sanity as his doom ar folly and his scruples about marrying unnecessary since all he needs to be safe is to exercise due mental self-control." [Overland. 2545

VALENTINE THE COUNTESS [by "CARL DETLEF," i. e., Klara Bauer (†, 188-): Phil'a, Porter, 1874.] "is a story of remarkable power. heroin, a young girl of extraordinary beauty and intellectual charms, meets a löver, a young man who reciprocates and seems worthy of her affections. . . . After a time she is induced to marry a very wealthy but weak-minded nobleman, to whom she proves a tender and faithful wife. . . . She is one of the loveliest women in fiction, tho her look is always sad, and the reader's admiration for her is faithful. general effect of the story is melancholy. but it is intensely interesting." [Boston " Lit. World." 2546

VILLA ON RHINE = No. 2368.

VILLAGE ASTRONOMER = London, 1851. 2547

VINETA = No. 1003.

VILLAGE COQUETTE (The) [by F: Spielhagen: Chapman, 1875.] "is a curious study of nature. The beautiful, almost soulless Bertha is brot to something like human steadfastness and feeling by the savage disciplin which may be used to subdue an animal. The cruel wound, which, at the bidding of a wise woman, the lover whom she is ready to deceive inflicts upon her, works in a strange way on her limited nature, and she is vanguished by that which would hav roused a being of hier faculties into irreconcilable hostility. The plot is wel worked out, and it is founded upon what may be a real, tho A rare phase of nature." [Spect. 2548 VILLAGE TALES, by AUSERCE No. 2842.

VIOLETTA. [by Ussum Zogs von

MANTEUFFEL : Lippincott, 1886.] "The story runs smoothly, and there is the agreeable union of homeliness and military glitter which makes the atmosphere of most novels of upper-class german life. The one unusual situation is the Baroness von Treffenbach's flight from her husband, and the unusualness is not in the fact, but in the underlying reasons. The woman, who had been a great singer, was neither inconstant nor unloving, but the moment came when the monotony of assured rank and respectability pressed on her so heavily that she had to go. [Compare 'Klaus Bewer.'] There is much to be said in behalf of a woman in such a case, but the author has little more charity for the Baroness than has the world, which passes a superficial yet inexorable judgment on the deed. The younger Treffenbach is very wel characterized, but a prig of 30 years' standing is not to be reformed in a day. Even during the honeymoon he probably drew from his pocket a MS. nicely calculated properly to repress the too volatil and light-hearted Violetta." 2549 [Nation.

VISIT TO THE LOCKUP, by E. ECKSTEIN, in Masterpieces of German 2550 Fiction.

VULTURE MAIDEN (The) = No. 1005.

WALDFRIED. [by Berthold Aver-BACH (†, 1882): N.-Y., Holt, 1880.] "The more familiar the reader is with Germany, the more entertaining wil he find this novel: it has not life enuf to force itself upon those who hav not a tolerably keen interest in that country; indeed, such wil find it almost unreadable; and it demands a respectable knoledge of all which has been going on in Germany during the last 25 and especially during the last 10 years, to be fully enjoyed. . . . To our thinking Waldfried is the best of the long novels. It is infinitly more natural than the Villa Eden, [No. 2368] or On the Heights, [No. 881] but it can hardly be brôt into fair comparison with them. That many should find it intolerably dul is not surprising, for many readers require for their entertainment more than a disconnected assemblage of incidents; õthers, however, wil read it with some pleasure, not with the keen enjoyment one gets from the few masterpieces of fiction, but with the calm satisfaction one has in reading about matters which turn out as one would hav them." Atlantic. 2552

WALT & WULT, or the Twins ["Flegeljahre," 1805) by JEAN PAUL F: Richter: Boston, 1845, 2 v. 2553

WANDA = No. 1006.

WAS SHE HIS WIFE? London, Eden, 1891 = No. 2451.

WEDDING UNDER GROUND, in Brother Jonathan, 20 aug., 1842. 2554 WELLFIELDS (The) = No. 1010.

WHAT THE SPRING BROUGHT — No. 1011.

WHITE ROSE (The), in Canadian Monthly, Jan., 1874.

WHY DID HE NOT DIE? [by ADELHEID VON VOLCKHAUSEN: Lippincott, 1871.] "has the same virtues and the same defects as its predecessors. It is sprightly and entertaining, full of all sorts of generous sentiments, and pervaded by that gentle, half-timid radicalism, which contents itself with aiming innocuous blos at safe objects; at german protestant orthodoxy; at the hypocrisy of the 'rigidly righteous;' at the excesses of the agitators of the Woman Question; and at the arrogance of an aristocracy which yet must not resign too many of its pretensions if it would please its fair opponents. We recommend the book to everybody

WHEN ALL WAS YOUNG. [by CECIL CLARK: London Stock, 1885] "is a very innocent and tender little love story. A lövelorn damsel, dwelling in Saxon Switzerland, encloses in a tin canister a despairing letter to her löver, entreating him to come bac to her. This canister she sends floating down the Elbe, and it is fished up by some English children. Thêir widoed mother determins to trace the writer, and bring about a reconciliation between the lövers. In carrying out this purpos, she accidentally falls in with an old friend and admirer, who co-operates with her so ardently and effectually, that not one, but two happy marriages ar brôt about by the old canister." [Westmin, 558 p in search of amusing reading." [Nation. 2556

WHY FRAU FROHMANN RAISED HER PRICES. [by Anthony Trollope (†, 1882): London, Isbister, 1882.] "The old hostess of the Brunnenthal, anxious to entertain the old customers of the Peacock at the old rates, is driven 'by the cheapness of money,' to raise her prices. The perplexities and mortifications of good Frau Frohmann, who is tormented by her advisers, by her old-world honesty, and by the march of time, ar very wel handled, while the woodland setting of the Tirolese inn makes a pretty picture. 'The Lady of Launay' is a wel-told little domestic tale of the struggles of an old lady to prevent the union, on higgrounds of family polity, of her son and an adopted dauter whom she dearly loves." [Athenæum. 2557

WIFE-HUNTER (The), by Karo-LINE (VON GREINER) PICHLER: in Omnibus, vol. III., N.-Y., 1844. 2558

WIFE TO ORDER = No. 1016. WILD ROSE OF GROSS-STAUFFEN (The), [by NATALY VON ECHSTRUTH: N.-Y., Worthington, 1891.] "is one of those novels, made up of an unsophisticated heroin, a too-sophisticated hero, a wicked princess, an injured duchess, hard-hearted court ladies, and court gentlemen of all degrees of worthlessness. All virtuous persons ar rewarded, and all the bad perish miserably. There is even an element of novelty in this book, in the transformation of the hero by various afflictions into a pattern of virtue. But all such books hav for their major premis a social order in which the regard of a prince is the hiest prize a man can win, and in which a woman's sole profession is to be married." [Commonwealth. 2559

WILHELM MEISTER = No. 1017. WILL (The) = No. 1018.

WON [Hamburg] = No. 563.

WOODCUTTER (The) by C. (v. G.) PICHLER, in Arthur's Mag., Jan., 1845. 2560

WOODLAND TALES [by Julius STINDE: London, Whittaker, 1887.7 "ar 6 quiet stories. Dr. Stinde here shos himself to hav the imagination of a poet; the romantic element which runs throu the whole volume is made distinctly prominent; and the treatment is always delicate and discerning. 'Aunt Juliana' we hav unfolded before us the heart history of a gentlewoman who is loved by the count, altho he marries another, and who, loving him in return, altho she pities his weakness, 'found her happiness in making the happiness of others.' 'His Stupid Wife' is the story of a marital misunderstanding, and how it was remedied; 'Brother Johannes' relates the fate of a monk falsely suspected of crime and sustained by the affection of a woman who strives to save him by declaring herself guilty; 'Three Times Ten Years' is the story of an artist fallen from his youthful ideals by pride and thirst for wealth, but won bac to the road of truth throu love; in 'Bello' is depicted the life of a noble mind outlawed by conventional prejudices, and driven to destruction; and 'Princess Goldenhair' is a dainty idyl of youth and vouthful dreams." [Boston "Lit. World." 256 i

YOUNG WIDOW OF BREMEN, in Albion, 22 Sept., 1832. 2562
YOUNGEST BROTHER, by E. WICHERT: Chicago, Laird, 1891, 2563

INDEX TO AUTHORS.*

A NONYMOUS, Λ lcestis (582), Alice Graeme (1044), Anthony Fairfax (1056), Autonio di Carara (973), Banning & Blessing (1078), Basil St. John (1086), Beautiful Edith (1089), Beauty of Amalfi (603), Bertie (6t), Blanche Seymour (1108), Blythe House (1111), Boscobel (10), Breton Maiden (616), Chateau Lescure (635), Chateau Morville (636), Cinderella (1149).Coquette (2361), Culmshire Folk (1179), David Armstrong (1190), Democracy (228), Dingy house (1205), Divided (1210), Dr. Hermione (1211),Duke's Marriage (2021), Elsie (1242), Kallen Angel (1261), First Temptation (2890); For Better for Worse (1276), Forester of Altenheim (2395), Four Crotchets (1284), Four Schoolfellows (1286), Garof Eden (1296), Gemini (37), Horrid Girl (1372), Hurst & Hanger (1378), Ideala (1379a), In Exile (2432), It Might Have Been (1395), Lady Hetty (1443), Likes and Dislikes (486 h), Lil (1473), Lost Battle (2114), Lost Inheritance (1483), Lost Reputation (1485), Love or Pride (803). Madame Lucas (2128), Madelaine's Fault (2130), Man's a Man for a' That (493), Max Wild (2471),Modern Greek Heroine (1583),Money (2474), Monksford (1588), Morning Gray (1592), My Cousin Maurice (501q), My Guardian (1599), My Insect Queen (1600), My Marriage (1604), My Queen (1607), My Trivial Life (1608), Near to Happiness (2187), Nora (2477), Northam Cloisters (1626), Not for the World (2478), Only a Girl (2195), Our Little Λ un (1655). Overmatched (1658), Pen (1673), Polly (1691), Princess Amelie (903), Pure-souled Liar (349), Queen (A) (2501), Rare Pale Margaret (1722), Rebel Rose (1726), Red Cross (916), Regent Rosalind (1730), Repentance of Paul Wentworth (1731), . Rubina (362), St. Agnes (1752), Shadrach Bay (1766), Sister (1790), Story of Colette (2267), Straight Anstey, F., 1305, 1661 On (2270), Strathrowan Sunshine (1817).Shadow (1822), Queen (1828), Taken by Siege (379), Tales of Euro- Armstrong, W:, 980 pean Life (538p), Three Arnold, E. L., 2728 Geoffreys, (1847), Three "Arr, E. H.," 94

Sisters (541p),'Twixt Wife & Fatherland (546), Under the Ban (2297), Village Astronomer (2547), What You Will (1907), White Slave (2703), Will Denbigh (1920), Winna (1921), Wolf at the Door (0405). Women's Husbands (0408), Young Mistley (1938)Abbott, L., 217. About, E., 1980, 2053, 773, 2143, 2175, 2188, 2238, 983, 2266, 2272, 2287, 2288, 2294, 2307 Adams, M ... 51 F 2228 Aidé, H., 1389, 1618, 1676, Alcott L .. M., 90 t, 239, 286, 74, 846, 327, 360, 367, 0409 Aldrich, T: B., 898, 247, 353, 520, 144, 145 "Alexander, Mrs.," 1029, 1177, 456, 1350, 734, 1480, 1586, 1720, 1913, 1934, 2464 Alger, Horatio, 95 Alldridge, L., 1127, 1712, Allen, Grant, 417, 540, 1683 ----, Phœbe, 1636 Altieri, O. (C.), 628, 754, 2075, 2239 [747 h Andersen, H. C., 882, 2583,

Apel, J: A:, 693 and Arbouville, 2227, 2281, 2301 Sylvan Archer, E. M. (T.), 1314, 1876

*PART I., Novels of American Country Life (Numbers 1-178), II., Novels of American City Life (Nos. 179-0413), III., International Novels (Nos. 401-564), price: $.50 each; IV., Romantic Novels (Nos. 579-1024), $1.00; V., British Novels (1025-1941), $2.00; VI., Novels descriptive of Life in France (Nos. 1943-2322), $1.00; — of Germany (Nos. 2323-2563), $1.00; — of Italy (Nos. 2565-2609), $.25; — of Russia (Nos. 2610-2705), $.50; — of Norway (Nos. 2706-30), $.25.

"Auer, Adelheid," 2440 Auerbach, B., 881, 524, 2328, 2342, 2347, 2351, 2357, 2360, 2367, 2375, 2391, 2396, 2412, 2441, 2442, 2448, 2455, 2458, 2469, 2475, 2509 t, 2499, 2552 Aulney, Léonie, 2190 Austen, J., 1246, 1515, 1627, 1679, 1697 Austin, J. (G.), 21, 89 "Ayrton, S. C." [M. F. CHAPMAN] 1762 BLUN-ACHELOR'S DER (A), by W: E: Norris: (New-York, H: Holt & Company, 8°, 50 cents.) 1076 Baker, J. A., 1129 ----, W: M., 214 Baldwin, Jo. G., 33 k Balzae, H., 583, 1944, 1946, 1961, 1964, 1976, 1982, 1986, 1991, 1993, 2005, 2007, 2008, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2024, 2027, 2028, 2050, 2065, 2072, 2104, 2124, 2126, 2165, 2174, 2201, 2206, 2208, 2212 d, 2223, 2226, 2253, 2260, 2289, 2299, 2300 Bardeen, C. W., 127 Barker, Bernard, 1240 Barr, A. E. (H.), 1103, 615, 1186, 761, 1534, 1805 Barrett, Frank, Barrie, J. M., 1475 m, 1920 p Barrili, 2573, 2576, 2597, 2608 Barry, ALFRED, 862 Bartlett, Th., 264 Bartol, M., 271Bates, A., 68, 843a, 337, 112, 339 Baylor, F. C., 509 Beaconsfield, earl of, 1159, 682, 730, 801, 999, 1895 1782, 1804 Beale, A ... Bean, H .. M., 0403 2155 Béchard, F:, Becker, A:, 2533 Beecher, H: W., 99 Bell, J. F., 1695

Bellamy, C: Jo., —, E:, 232, 138 -, E. W. (C.), 253, 292 Bélot, Adolphe, 2137 Belt, H. P., 841 Benedict, F. L., 88, 322, 117 Bentley, T:, 1264 [2105, 2315 Bergsoe, 899 Bernard, C: de, 2031, 2103. Bernhard, M., 2429 r. 2506 Bersier, 819, 495, 2302 Berthet, L. E. B., 818, 2252 Besant, W., 1058, 1093, 1143, 1424, 1769, 1021, 1853, 1872; and Ja. Rice, 1047, 1315, 1587, 1663, 1725, 1765, 1779, 1820, 1872, 1923 T 2598 Beverly, M., 1589 Bewicke, A. E. N., 1523, 2026 Biart, Lucien, Biernatzki, 2420 p Bigot, M. (H.), 287, 886, 533, 536, 2035, 2157 Biller, E., 2292Bishop, W: H:, 274 Blaze, R. (S.), 1948 Björnsen, B., 427, 2707, 2710, 2712, 2713, 2716, 2718, 2720, 2723, 2729 Black, C., 1652, 1825 -, Ma. Moyes, 1384 —, W:, 1090, 1187, 1285, 1324, 1383, 1388, 1430, 1448, 1488, 807, 1505, 813, 829, 1674, 1700, 905, 1777, 1807, 1815, 1816, 1015, 1846, 1914 Blackmore, R: D., 584, 642, 661, 1176, 684, 1435, 798, 814, 833, 953 Blackwell, A. B., 276 Blagden, Isa, 406 d Blaze "de Bury," 1948 Blind, Mathilde, "Bonner, Sherwood," Bourget, Paul, 1951, 2117, 2203, 2276, 2303 Bowles, Emily, 2074 Boy-Ed, Ida, 2485 tBoyesen, H. H., 504, 2715 Boyle, F., 695, 1275 Brachvogel, A. E., 2407 d

Braddon, M., E., 1373, 755, 1418, 777, 1060, 982, 986 Bradley, M. E. (N.), 24 r Bradshaw, — (), 1738 Bramston, M., 1244, 1742 Brentano, C., 2429 k Brock, F. E. G. (B.), 1527 Brodie, Carrick, 735 T 1002 Bronte, C., 762, 519, 1892, -, Emily, 1022 Brooks, [C: W:] S. 1059 Broughton, Rhoda, 420. 1156, 1406, 1611, 1630, 1727, 1768 Brown, Alice, —, H .. D., 161 —, W:P., 364 Bruce, E. M., 158 Brush, C. (C.), 215, 60 Buchanan, H. (J.), 668, 1710 ---, "Rachel," 227 ----, Ro., 1287, 835 Bulfinch, S. G., 740 Bulgarin, Thaddeus, 2647 Bulow, A. von, 2497 Bulwer, E:, Lytton. Bunner, H: C., 313 Bunnett, F .. E .., 2454 Burnett, F. [E.] (H.), 1216, 450, [1258], 1339, 793, 75, 1553, 900, 1716, 1758, 1831, 383 Burnham, C. L. (R.), 86 t, 226, 97, 325, 176 Burrowes, Rose, 1489 Burton, W., 127, 22 m Butler, R., 1404 Butt, B. M., 1197, 681, 1559, 2023, 2064 —, Geraldine, 1802 Butterworth, H., 394 Buxton, — (L.), 593 ⊺387 Bynner, E. F., 581, 98, 897, "Byr, Ro.," 2527 Byrrne, E. F., 1248, 1348 yable, G: W., 614, 234, 720, 808, 874, 964 Cadell, J. (), 1379 [1030 Caddy, Florence Caine, T: Hall, 672, 940 Cameron, EMILY (SHARP), 1470 171 Campbell, H .. (S.), 48, 358, Capes, J: MOORE, 501 Carew, Rachel, 539 Carey, R. N., 1067, 1080, 1251, 1278, 1355, 1491, 1533 a. 1614, 1629, 1648, 1714, 1737a, 1766, 1903, 1933 Carleton, W:, 1019 Carpenter, E. B., 141 Carr, Alaric, 545 h ---, Alice (STRETTEL), 1522 Carrington, K .., 193 [114 m Cary, Alice, 15 m, 41, 80 p, Cate, E. J .., 377 Catherine II., 2646 Catherwood, M., (II.), 221, 126, 924 Cavazza, E., 2574 m Célières, P., 2262 Cervantes, 676 Chamberlain, N. H., 196 Champney, E .. [J.] (W.), 424 Chaplin, H. W., 23 Cherbuliez, V:, 653, 768, 499, 2082, 2085, 2090, 2158, 2219, 2234, 2241, 2242 Chesebro, Caroline, 34, 114 Chesney, G: T., 1702 Chetwynd, J. B. (D.), 1757 Childar, Cath., 492 k, 1223 CHILDREN OF THE EARTH, by Annie R. MACFARLANE: (New-York, H: Holt & Co., cloth, $1., flexible cloth, 50 cents.) 213 Claffin, M .. B., 122h Clark, M .. , 1393 r Clarke, Cecil, 558 p, 1248 Clayton, C., 1078, 1236 Cleland, Ro., 1079, 1393, 388 Clement, C. (E.), 439 Clifford, L. (L.), 1576, 1839 Clive, K .. , 2374 Cobb, S. D., 47 ----, Sylvanus, 775 ---, T :, 1642 Collins, M. [COOK], 1390

---, Wilkie, 601, 671, 1255, 1359, 1461, 1619, 1023 "Colombi, Marchesa," 2585, 2607 Comyn, L. N., 439 h, 1066 CONFESSIONS OF HAR-RY LORREQUER (The), LEVER: (Boston, Little, Brown æ Co., 2 vols. 8°, illustrated by Phiz. \$5.) 727 VANSITTART CONSUELO, by GEORGE SAND, (Philadelphia, T. B. Peterson & Bros., 12°, \$1.25, paper, \$.75). 650 "Conway, H.," 1265 Cook, [E:] Dutton, 1669, 1785 Cooke, Rose (Terry), 54 r, 225, 140, 142, 148, 954 "Coolidge, Susan," 251, 73 Combs, A. (S.), 712 Cooper, Ja. F., 466 t, 785, 893 ----, K .. (S.), 1342 ---, T:, 689 Coppée, Fr., 2063, 2071, 2276 Corelli, Marie, 541 Corkran, Alice [ABIGAIL], 1100, 1024, 2144 Cottin, S. (R.), 680 Coulson, J. G. A., 507 COUNT OF MONTE-CRISTO. $\mathbf{b}\mathbf{v}$ DUMAS. (Philadelphia, T. B. Peterson & Bros., paper \$1.00, cloth, \$1.50) - SAME, by Dumas: (4 vols. 12 mo. cloth, gilt top, \$6.00, Boston. Little. Brown & Co.) 654 Cox, Maria A., 122 Coxon, E., 1085 Cozzens, F: S., 141 p "Oraddock, C: E.," 678, 56, 59, 906, 1012 Cradock, HARRIET (LIS-TER), 1414 Craik, D. M. (M.), 1117, 1145, 1382, 1356, 1410, 1481, 1460, 1467, 1502, 1605, 1623, 1868, 1929, 1939

Craven, H: THORNTON, 879 ----, P. (La. F.), 440, 700 Crawford, Fr. M., 185, 643, 675, 724, 843, 894, 922, 933, 1829, 543, 2595, 2601, 2602 Crawfurd, O., 1935 Crommelin, M., 1106, 1405, 1649, 1713 Cross, M. B., 1852 Cudlip, A. (T.), 1178, 1198, Cummins, M. S., 781, 301 Cunningham, H: S., 1354, 1459, 1909 Curtis, Car. G., 255, 209 ---, G: W:, 117 k, 348, 389 "Czeika," 331 alin, Talmage, 📂 Villari. Damon, Sophia M., 104 "Danforth, P.," 505 Daniel. — (), 1252, 1272 Daudet, Alphonse, 774, 919, 2025, 2047, 2073, 2079, 2092, 2100, 2110, 2185, 2191, 2286, 2243, 2254 -, Ernest, 1957 "Daugé, II:," 243 [1328 Davidson, HUGH COLEMAN, Davies, E. W., 875 Davis, R. [B.] (H.) 279, 288 ----, Ro. S., 192 Day, ---, 1141, 1291, 1746 Deane, M .. , 1708 Debans, Camille, 1983 DeFoe, I)., 920 DeForest, J: W:, 270, 284, 342, 365 Deland, Ma., 63, 366 Deléon, ----, 1995, 2297 DeLiefde, Jacob, 732 Delpit, Albert, 2271 Deming. Philander, 2, 160 DEMOCRACY: (New-York H: Holt & Co., cloth, $1., paper, 30 cents.) 228 Dempster, C. L. (H.), 553, 1924, 2067, 2189 Denison, M. (A.), 811 Derby, G: H., 142 h Desart, earl of, 1869, 1475

Desleys, C., 2077 "Detlef, Carl," 413, 2546, 2621, 2626, 2659, 2676. Devereux, G: H., 133 Dewall, J: van, 723, 2467 Diaz, Abbey (M.), 0404 Dickens, C:, 309, 722, 792, 831, 865. 2176, 972, 1656, 1191 Dillwyn, E. A., 1125 Dingelstedt, Franz, 2330 Dobson, W:, 1144 Dodge, M .. (M.), 157 Dorr, J. C. (R.), 30w, 70f, 687 Dostoiefski, 2619, 2639, 2640, 2642, 2695 Doudney, S., 1908, 1911 Douglas, A. M., 256, 333, 174 ——,G:, 1122, 1728 — [Davies], C. J., 1787 Downey, E., 1387 Droz, G., 1958, 1962p, 1967, 2022, 2140, 2198, 2249 Drury, Anna Harriet, 751 "Duchess" (The), F Hungerford [.654 Duff, H. A. 556 Dumas, Alex., 2037, 1997, —, —, Jr., 1954, 1989, 2095, 2213, 2280 Dunning, C., 426, 371, 165 Dunsmuir, A., 🌠 Oliphant. Dupuy, E. A., 585, 745 Earl, H. P., 1363 Eaton, F .., 119 Ebers G .., 820 Ecilaw, Ary, 923 Eckstein, Ernst, 1018, 2326, 2344, 2490, 2550 Eden, Eleanor, 1231, 1263 ---, Emily, 1770 Edgeworth, M., 1092, 1137 Edler, K: E., 598 Edwards, —— (Cox), 1682 -, A. B., 1081, 1330, 776, 2058 ---, Annie, 412, 414, 418, 423, 662, 459, 1310, 475, 485, 1554, 1591, 1650, 1654, 895, 1689, 1690, 1824, 557, 1936

---, H: S., 163 ----, M. B., 452k, 1119, 1121, 436, 688, 1437, 802, 969, 1915, 2473 Eggleston, E:, 15, 30, 40, 52, 92, 131 —, G: C., 79 Eichendorff, Jo. von, 838 Elioart, E .. (), 1422, 1504, 1601, 1797 "Elbon, B.," 1101 "Eliot, G: "1027, 1185, 1269. 1402, 1544, 1547, 926, 1750, 1780 Elliott, H: R., 197 ---, S .. B., 368 Ellis, S .. (S.), 1688 Emerson, M .. S., 588 Emery, S. A., 159 Énault, L: 640, 2222 Engel, J: J., 821 English, T: D., 759 Erckmann-Chatrian, 619, 649, 809, 887, 960, 1966, 1975, 2036, 2046, 2127, 2142, 2224, 2295, 2408"Erroll, H:," 1025, 550 Erskine, Mrs., 1526, 1937 Eschstruth, von, 2381, 2559 Essing, 2377 Evans, Albert E., 1704 —, Augusta J., 931 Ewing, J. H. (G.), 1181, 1397, 1399, 1477, 1792, 1812 Fabre, F., 1942 s Falconer, H .., 957 Fawcett, Edgar, 181, 184, 240, 259, 272, 273, 307, 329, 385 Farina, 2578, 2591, 2604 Fendall, Percy, 532 Fenn, G: M., 1476, 1890 "Fern, Fanny," 129 Ferrier, M., 1529 Fetherstonhaugh, (CARLETON), 1279, 1429, Feuillet, Octave, 606, 1947, 1958 a, 2107, 2151, 2170, 2194, 2221, 2232, 2246, 2269, 2308

Féval, Paul, 869 Feydeau, Ernest, 599, 2029, 2248Field, C. (W.), 46 Fielding, H:, 1417 s, 1855 k "Fife, M. B.," M. M. Black. FIRST VIOLIN, by JESSIE FOTHERGILL: (New-York H: Holt & Co., cloth, $1., paper, 30 cents.) 698 FIVE HUNDRED DOL-LARS ANDOTHER STORIES. by H. W. CHAPLIN (12 mo. cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents, Boston, Little, Brown & Co.) 33 Flagg, W: J., 39 Flaubert, Gustave, 932, 2122 "Fleming, G:," 411, 478, 1000 "Flemming, Harford," 207 Fleuriot, Z. M. A., 2111 Fogazzaro, Antonio, 2572 Foote, M..., 766, 783, 786 Forde, Gertrude, 438, 511 "Forrester, Mrs., 1545 Foster, H. (W.), 651 Fothergill, Car., 434, 1249, 1896 -, Jessie, 1039, 698, 1292, 1341, 1436, 1454, 1506, 1516, 1646, 1677, 1703, 1010 "Foxton, E.," 267 France, A., 2009 Francillon, R. E., 641, 787, 965, 996, 2450 François, Luise von, 2449 Franzos, K: E., 702, 765 Freytag, Gustav, 799, 2369 Friis, J. A., 780 ຯ agnebin, — (), 2060 Galetti, Ma., 416 k. 426 k Gallenga, A. [C. N.], 2570 Gambier, J. W:, 968 "Garrett, E: " 1061, 1132, 1266, 1469, 1632 Garshinski, V., 2654 Gaskell, E. C. (S.) 1175, 1532, 1565, 1590, 1602, 1735, 1147, 1749, 970, 1926 Gasparin, V. (B.), 1979 624, Gautier, Théophile, 2134, 2205, 2276 Gellie, M. E., 1809 Gerard [Longard], Dorothea, 519 r, 883, 1440, 915 — [Laszowska], E., 937 ----, "E. D.," 605, 914, 1773, 1009 Gerstäcker, F:, 557 m, 1016 Gibbon, C:, 1128, 1220, 1317, 1511, 1906 Gibson, W: H., 111 Gifford, M .. A.., 1432 "Gift, Theo.," 1206, 487. 1509, 1536, 1696, 554 Gilbert, W:, 1212 Ginisty, —, Girardin, D. (G.), 2145, 2264, 2312 —, [M. A.] J., 2017 Giseke, Ro, 2509 Glümer, C. von, 2403, 2436, 2476 Godfrey, -(), 1881 Goethe, 1017, 2378. Gogol, 2622, 2623, 2625, 2634, 2658, 2668 Goldsmith, O., 1001 Goncourt, E. de, 2102, 2321 -, E. & J. de, 1992, 2054, 2258Goodwin, H. B., 704 "Gordon, Julien," 375 Gore, C. G. F. (), 2164 Gourard, -.. 2040 Gozlan, Léon, 2169 Graeme, Elliot, 506 Graham, S., 1316 "Grant, G." 1321 ----, M. M., 427 k, 592, 537 ---, Ro., 449 Gray, E. M., 440 k Green, A. K., 378 Greene, Louise LILIAS (PLUNKET), 1026 Greenough, F .. (B.), 187 "Gréville, H:," 1971, 2003 2045, 2049, 2153, 2209, 2275, 2662, 2669, 2672, 2673, 2681, 2685, 2688, 2692, 2705 "Grey, M.," 917, 1877 Griffith, C., 1624 Grigorovich, D., 2624 Guernsey, L. E., 314 Guizot, E. C. P., 2217, 2291, 2319 "Gyp," 2150 Habberton, J:, 282 Hackländer, F: W:, 772, 2358, 2366, 2389, 2394, 2483 Hagen, A:, 870 Haggard, H: R., 764, 939 Hahn, Ida (II.), 2387. 2544 Hale, E: E., 746, 748. 815, 318, 395 Halévy, L., 401, 2010, 2119 Haller, Gustave, 2098 Halliday, H. C. 1333 Hamerton, E. (G.). 461, 2083 ---, P. G., 1335, 466, 824, 1904 "Hamilton, Gail," 32 ----, K. W., 120 Hamley, E: B., 1445 ---. W: G., 989Hamlin, M. (S.), 343 Harder, L:, 2384 Hardman, F:, 736 Hardy, A. S., 891, 173, 1977 ——, I. D., 1308 ---, T:, 1200, 1268, 1270, 1331, 1453, 1538, 1660, 1732, 918, 991, 1875, 1931 Harland, H:, 261, 483, 319, Hoffmann, H., 0411 -, "Marion," 2 q, 91 f, 257, 278 Harris, E. M., 1097, 1250, 1466 —, J. C., 708 -, M. (C.), 340 Harrison, Agnes, 310, 2240 ---, C. (C.), 186, 265 ---, Joanna, 1628 Hart, FANNY (WHEELER), 1289, 1887, 1919 -, Mabel, 546 p

2616, 2631, 2632, 2651, 2656, Harte, [Fr.] B., 590, 621, 663, 665, 701, 733, 750, 788, 806, 832, 839, 139, 949, 1008 Hartley, M. (L.), 1146, 1371, 1687 "Hartner, Eva," 2500, 2517 Harwood, I., 1425, 1724 Hauff, W:, 2086, 2216, 2286 Hawthorne, J., 1622 ---, N., 610, 743, 817, 934 Hay J:, 201 ---, M •• (C.), 1625, 1806 Hazlett, H .., 1313 Hearn, Lafcadio, 638 "Heimburg, W.," 993, 2359 a, 2372, 2409, 2413, 2426, 2437, 2451, 2457, 2486, 2492, 2518, 2522 "Helm, C.," 2420, 2497 h Helmore, MA. C., 1498 Henderson, J:, 406, 518 Henkel, F., 845 Hentz, C. L. (W.), 659, 791 Hering, [ACTON], Jeanie 460 Hervieu, Paul, 2033 Heyse, Paul, 669, 707, 752, 482, 2340, 2356, 2362, 2380, 2434, 2507, 2524, 2529, 2541, 2568, 2587, 2593, 2596, 2600, 2609 Higginson, T: W., Hillern, W., (B.) v., 737, 741, 1005, 2853, 2542 HODGES, SYDNEY, 1615 Höfer, B., 2482 Hoey, F. S. (Johnson) (STEWART), 1492 2588HOHENSTEINS (The), by SPIELHAGEN: (New-York, H: Holt & Co., paper, 50 cents.) 738 Holden, E: G., 245 Holland J. G., 191, 602, 86 Holmes, M .. J .. (H), 30 h, 154 t, 283 29, 43, 91 ---, O. W., Holt, J: S., 179 Hood, T:, 552 k Hooper, L. H. (J.), 551, 2693 Hope, A. J. B., 1116, 1818

---, Cecil, 1764 —, L., 1593 —, S., F Hodges. Hopffen, Hans, 2400, 2537 Hopkins, [J..] E., 1744 ----, M :, 564 ---, T :, 1631 Hoppin, A :, 123, 162 Hoppus, A. M., 699, 1560 Horn, G:, 655 -, W : O. von, 2407 Hornblower, Mrs., Hotahehko, N. H., 2678 Howard, B. W., 597, 416, 725, 1008, 544, 2485 Howe, E. W., 806, 857, 146 Howell, C., 1182 Howells, W: D., 4, 189, 5, 14, 24, 453, 263, 471, 69, 315, 90, 336, 346, 117 p, 357. 156, 0407 Hubbell, M. (S.), 136 Hughes, T:, 1854, 1855 Hugo, V:, 790, 867, 871 Hullah, M. E., 2488 Humphrey, F .. A. (P.), 211 Hungerford, Ma. (HAMIL-TON) (ARGLES), 1087, 1118, 1260, 1435, 1882, 1494, 1510, 1531, 1572, 1585, 1694, 1745 Hunt. M. (R.), 1462, 1768 a, 1832, 1837, 1842 Hunter, H., 1595 Inchbald, E. (S.). 940, 1781 Ingelow, J., 1217, 1411, 1759 Ingersleben, E. von, 2456 [ackson, H .. M. (F.) (H.), 8, 84, 910, 184, 177, 483, 1807, 1343 James. G: P. R., 967 ---, H:, 410, 200, 415, 431, 432, 447, 454, 474, 489, 514, . 515, 516, 517, 904, 522, 525, $28, 398, 1859 Janson, K., 2727 Janvier, T: A., 216 10406 Jeaffreson, J: C., 1638 a, Jenkin, H. C. (J.), 680, 1793, Knowles, R: B. S., 1312

2220 Jephson, P. P., 1057 Jewett, S. O., 7, 16, 17, 20, 67, 81, 82, 101, 328, 374, 153, 172 ---, s. w., Johnson, E. W., 0410 —, H •• (K.), 121, 354 -, V. W., 455, 467 h, 502, 545, 390, 549 Johnston, H:, 1147 Jokai, M., 847 Jolly, E., 1184, 1672 Jones, C: H:, 22Judd, Sylvester, 80, 125 Julliot, François de, 2189 "Juncker, E.", 2461, 2465 Junior, T: C., 1496 zarr, Alphonse, 1945, 2282 Katsch, A. E., Kavanagh, Julia, 403, 419, 1099, 438, 476, 1709, 1718, 527, 580, 538, 548, 1968, 2038, 2131, 2186, 2250 Keary, A., 1136, 1152, 1225, 1401 Keatinge, - (POTTINGER), 1368 Keenan, H: F,, Keith, L., 1823, 1871 Kendall, M., 1821 Kennedy, J: P., 152 Kent, James, 942 ---, W:C:, 978 Kepler, A., 1574 Kettle, R. M., 852, 1791 Kielland, A. L., 2714, 2726, 2730 King, G., 848 ---, R: A., 1163, 1665, 1902 Kingsley, H:, 1801, 1387, 1723 Kinkel, J: G., 2385 Kipp, Leonard, 670, 861 Kipling, R., 1472 Kippen, J. M., 1796 Kirk, E. [W.] (O.), 168, 290, 77, 85, 852, 370, 373, 884 Kirkland, Jo., 302, 178 559, 561, 2089, 2123, 2193, Kock, [C:] P. de, 1952, Linton, E. (L.), 1686, 1850

1964 p, 2057, 2109, 2163, 2176, 2257 Körner, Th., 2472, 2530 Kokhanovsky, 2680 Korolenko, V., 2618, 2644, 2655, 2697 La Brète, J: de, 2268 Laffan, A. A. (A.), 1507 Lamartine, A. de, 697, 121, 911, 2263 Lane, L. M., 1300, 2373 Lang, Andrew, 470 -, L. B. (A.), 1207 Larned, A., 168 F96 Lathrop, G: P., 405, 28, 57, Latimer, M .. E .. (W.), 110 Law, J:, 1150 Lawless, Emily, 1140, 1513, Lawlor, D. S., 1984 Lee, D. K., 84 k -, "Holme," 1055 a, 1084, 1096, 1281, 1353, 1493, 1568, 1693, 1814, 1827, 1838, 1841, 1890 a --- [JENNER], K .., 1385 ---, Ma., 231, 235 —, M. K. [C.] (J.), 351 ----, "Vernon," 885 Le Fanu, J. S., 1046 Lenzen, M., 2479 Le Peur, J., 1865 Lermontof, M. [Y.], 2641 LES MISERABLES, by Hugo (5 vols. 12 may gilt top. $7.50, Boston, & #### Brown & Co.) 790 Lester, A. S. E., 1610 Lesueur, D., 2152 Lever. C:, 437 h, 453 k, 509 p, 1115, 727. 796, 1784, 979 Levy, A., 498 p, 1741 Lewald, F., 955, 2832, 2834, 2430, 2447 Lie, Jonas, 2709, 2711, 2719, 2722 Lillie, Lucy C., 445, 1705 Lincoln, J. T. (G.), 828 Lindau, P., 2424, 2413, 2415 -, R., 2827 Linskill, M.., 1102, 1829

Lippard, G:, 350 Liston, G., 2423 Litchfield, G. D., 330, 480, 109 Locker, A., 1826 Lockhart, L. W. M., 1224. 1259, 1548 Logan, A. R. (M.), 213 Longfellow, H: W., 66, 467t Majendie, Ma. [E.], 715, Longstreet, A: B., 37 d Longueuil, O. (G.), 407, 586, 1949 912, 2070, 2178, Loti, P., 2231, 2233 Lowell, Fr., 137 —, Ro. [T. S.], 190, 863 Lubomirski, J., 2690 Lucy, H: W., 1306 Lunt, G:, 27 "Luska, Sidney," 🎏 II: Harland "Lyall, Edna," 1070, 1199, 1229, 479, 1901, 2717 "Lyndon," 308 Lytton, baron, 606 f, 674, 685, 896 m, 973, 1427, 889, 963 MeCarthy, J., 1185, 1558, 1596, 1898 McClelland, M. G., 10 p, 277, 872, 345 Macdonald, F., 1274 MacDonald, G:, 1040, 1192, 1218, 1328, 1366, 1514, 828, 1533, 1668, 1721, 1737, 929, 1889, 1918 T 1707 Macdonell, A. (HARRISON), McDowell, L., 1232 MacEwen, C., 1795 a Macfarland, Ma. R., 873, 2463 Macfarlane, A. R., 213 Mackarness, MATILDA A .. (P.), 1860 McLean [Greene], S. P., 12 MacLeod, Donald, 612 Macleod, N., 1808 > MacMahon, E., 1345 Macquoid, K .. S., 415, 1241, 443, 451, 804, 1549, 1667, 1786, 1857, 2001, 2014, 2032, 2084, 2115, 2181, 2211 'Madoc, Fayr," 1521, 1834

Magruder, Julia, 180 "Maine, E. S.," 1050, 1053 Mair, A. E. A. (S.), 1349 Maistre, Xavier de, 2087, 2590 Maitland, A. C., 1930 ---, E:, 1360 —, Ja. A., 399, 2724 512, 1209, 2202, 2580 "Malet, Lucas," 1154, 1165, 1578, 1897, 2113 Mallock, W: H., 1616, 1638 Malot. Hector, 868, 921, 2091, 2173, 2261, 2322 Mann, - (), 1662 ---, M .. E., 1644 T 1539 Manning, M. A. [R.], Manteuffel, U. von, 1004, 2549 Manzoni, A., 608 Marguerite of Navarre, 703 Marie, Jeanne, 2504 Markewich, B., 2661 "Marlitt, E.," 717, 779, 795, 877, 888, 936, 2335, 2337, 2365, 2435, 2488, 2513 Marryat, F., 1606, 1680 Marshall, E. (MARTIN), 1048, 1468, 1579 ----, F:, 2439 Martin, — (), 1867 -, A. (A.), 335 -, M .. E .. (LeBreton). 1051, 1112, 1327, 1879 Martineau, Harriet, 1196 Mason, M. M. 492 Mathews, C., 209 Maupassant, G. de. 1998, 2192, 2212, 2276 Maxwell, C., 961 May, G. M. (C.), 1055, 1189, 1283, 1463, 1546 "--- Sophie," 236, 227 Meade [Smith], L. T., 1370, 1421, 1634 Meinhardt, A., 2402 Mels, A: [i. e., MARTIN Сони], 2338, 2359 Melville, J: G. Whyte, 928 Meredith, G:, 580, 1088, 1201, 1239, 1245, 1254, 691, 1645, 1651, 1734, 985, 1894 Mérimée, 628 d, 648, 2276 Merriman, H, S., Metcalf, W. H., 150 Meyers, Ro. C. von, 316 Miller, "Joaquin," 705 Minto, W:, 1174 Mitchell, D. G., 233 ----, S. W., 690, 266, 359 Mitford, M. R., 1657 Molesworth, M. L. (S.), 706, 1338, 494, 1612, 1778, 1835 Monkhouse, W. C., Monro, A. M., 1118 ---, Th. R., 1169 T 988 Montgomery, Fl., 1580, 1851, Monti, L:, 789 Montresor, C. A., 849 Moore, V. P., 242 ---, F. F., 531 ----, G:, 1226, 1584 —, M., 1071 Morley, S., 1036, 1520, 1848 Morse, L. G., 210 Mügge, Th., 2316 g "Mühlbach, L ..," 2521 Müller, F. M., 714 ---, O:, 2355, 2371 Muir, A., 1441 Murger, H., 2245Murray, D: C., 1069, 1582, 1899 [2044, 2156 -, E. C. G., 1114, 2006, ---, II., 2159, 2383 Musgrave, H., 1380 Musset, Alfred de, 2177, 2276 Tathusius, M. (S.) von, 2370 Nerval, G. de, 2274 Nesbitt, E. G., 1594 Newby, —, 1158, 771 Newman, М.. WORTH, 1403, 1457 Nichols, M .. S. G., 1870 Niemann, A.: 2339 Nieritz, G., 2352. 2495 NINETY-THREE, by HU-GO (1 vol. 12 mo. gilt top, $1.50, Boston. Little, Brown & Co.) Noble, A. L., 446, 164 —, Lucretia. 124 Noel, A., 1659 Nordhoff, C:, 11 Norris, W: E:, 1031, 1076, 1077, 480, 463, 491, 1512, 1518, 1535, 1551, 1561, 1571, 1597, 1620, 1789, 1836, 2721 NOTRE DAME, by Hugo, (2 vols. 12 mo. cloth, gilt top, $3.00, Boston, Little, · Brown & Co.) 871 Oberholtzer, S. L., 58 Oelschläger, H., 2522 Ogden, Ruth, 49 O'Hanlon, Alice, 1878, 552 Ohnet, G:, 1955, 2016, 2078. 2097, 2106, 2207, 2251, 2683, 2803 OLIPHANT, MISS, 1891 Oliphant, L., 409, 620, 380 —, M. O. (W.), 462 p. 467, 744, 1035, 1063, 1065, 1124, 1133, 1168, 1172, 1180, 1193, 1215, 1230, 1235, 1322, 1336, 1340, 1357, 1391, 1396, 1400, 1407, 1419, 1426, 1434, 1489, 1442, 1444, 1450, 1458, 1474, 1557. 1569, 1609, 1618, 1683, 1639, 1641, 1663 v. 1678, 1686, 1692, 1699, 1743, 1756, Philleo, C. W., 391 1767, 1789, 1798, 1799, 1800, Phillips, A. C., 1194 1803, 1813, 1844, 1925, 1927, 1940, 1941, 2048 2586 Omey, M. A., 444, 45, 1420, Phillpotts, E., 1247 O'Meara, K., 488, 758, 860, Picard, G: H:, 842, 508 2015. 2810 ON THE HEIGHTS, by PIDDINGTON, ROSE, 710 AUERBACH: (New-York, Pierce, G. A., 0418 H: Holt & Co., translated Pike, M. H. (G.), 6 r paper, translated by Bunnett. 30 cents.) 881 "Optic, Oliver," 2 m O'Reilly, E. G. (), 1148 Oriofsky, R., 2660 "Orne, P.," 187 Ortmann, R., 2346 Oswald, E., 2545

867 "Ouida," 591, 604, 609, 682, 709, 1374, 468, 884, 890, 907, 959, 966, 971, 990, 994, 1006, 2603 "Owen, A.," 1484 Dage, H., 1447 -, T: N., 749 Palmer, M. (T.), Parkman, Fr., 167 Parr. L. (T.), 579, 1222, 1319, 1376, 1415, 805, 528 Parsons. G. (H.), 1883 Paschkof, L., 2657 Patrick, M .., 1566 [1840 Paul, Ma. A. (C.), 1221, 1299, Paxton, M. W., 1912 Payn. Ja., 1087, 1131, 1262, 1277, 1320, 1347, 1464, 1486, 1530, 1550, 1874 Peard. F .. M ... 428 h. 431 d. 1045, 1162, 1167, 1861, 810, 510, 1843, 1014, 1874, 1922, 2120, 2237, 2293, 2354 Pendleton. Edmund. 218, 396 Perks, — (). 1298 Perrier, A., 1318 Perry. Bliss, 203 -, Nora, 250 1497, 1501, 1508, 1537, 1542, Phelps [Ward], E. S. 205, 254, 58, 304, 83, 108, 185 Philips, F. C., 1495, 1763 —, Barnet, 585 -, Melville, 229 Pichler, K., 2460, 2558, 2560 by Stern, 2 vols., $2.; Pinkerton, T: A., 1052, 1413, 1540 Polko, Elise, 2462 Pollard, E. F., 2066 Pool, M. L., 155, 166 Porter, A. E. (), 19 -, J., 978 Pouvillon, Emile, 1985

490, 853, 1020 「872 "Prescott, Dorothy," 344. Pressensé, E. (D.) de, Preston, H. W., 194, 262, 61, 298, 175 Prévost d'Exiles, 816 Price, Alice, 1748, 1916 -, E. C., 1041, 1161, 1803, 1481, 1577, 1729, 1884, 2048, 2265 Prime, W: C., 102 Primrose, E. D., 1282 Probyn, M., 1643 Prothero. R. E., 497 Pryce, R:, 1423 Pushkin. A. S., 625, 908, 2665, 2675 Putlitz, G. zu, 2398 "Putnam, Eleanor," 105 Quincy, E., 170 m Rabusson 2431 Rabusson, H., 2125 Radcliffe, A. (W.), 756, 858, 925, 943 Rae, W: Fraser. 498 Rahm, Ida, 817 "Raimund. Golo," 864, 2410, 2520, 2422 Randolph, — (), 1917 ----, E.. 1647 Raven, M. (B.), 2539 Raymond, G: Lansing, $20 Read, E., 115 Reade, C:, 639, 646, 647, 749, 1334, 1487, 811, 896, 1706, 1829 a, 1018, 582 T 1157 Reeves, H .. B. (M.), 1142, —, M. C. L., 115, 472, 794 "Reichenbach, M. von," 2876 "Reid, Christian," 224, 238, 458, 464, 70, 147 —, [T:] Mayne, 800 Reuter, Fritz, 2516 Reybaud, H. E. F .. (A.), 718, 811, 1978, 2062, 2116, 2120, 2278, 2296 Reynolds, J., 114 d Richards, Ja. B., 902 Poynter, E. F., 449 t, 686, -, L. E. (H.), 118

Richardson, S:, 645 Richter, J. P. F., 821, 2393, 2553 Riddell, C. E. L. (C.), 1267, 1302, 1352, 1367, 1555, 1701, 1771, 1819 Riddle, A. G., 183 Rideing, W: H:, 296 Ring, Max, 2535 "Rita," 1164, 667, 694, 462, 854, 1778 a, 2571 Ritchie, A., 1110, 1273, 1563, 500, 876, 534, 555 Roach, E. M., 1202 Roberts, C. A., 1517 ----, Ma., 596, 637, 696, 1358, 1502, 812, 880, 1830, 1873, 1978, 2012, 2273, 2592 ----, Morley, 1386 Robinson, F. M., 1564 ---, F: W:, 1170. 1309, 1932 ---. R. E., 393 Roche, M. R., 637 f Rochefort. H: [de], 2133Rodenberg, J., 2417 Roe, A. S., 61 f, 71 v, 159 m ——, E: P., 332, 0112 Ropes, H. A., 220 Roquette, O., 2536 "Rothenfels, E. von," 2379 Round, W. M. F., 1, 130 Rowson, S. (H.), 634 Ruffini, G. [D.], 428, 435, 484, 797 Sanborn, E. W., 1 Sanborn, E. W., 113 s Sand, G:, 650, 711, 723, 782, 836, 850, 859, 945, 950, 977, 1950, 1956, 1963, 1981, 1994, 2013, 2059, 2080, 2108, 2138, 2149, 2160, 2172, 2180, 2230, 2255, 2256, 2283, 2306, 2316 Sandeau, Jules, 631, 742, 935, 2069, 2132, 2135, 2168 Sardou, V., 1970 Sartoris, A. (K.), 837, 892, 558 [2304] Savage, M. J., Smythies, — (), 1028 1075 Solly, H:, 1449 ---, M. W., Scheffel, Jo. V: von, Sollugub. 679 Soulié, F., 2002, 2184, 2309 Schmid, C. von, 2392, 2484, 2508 Schobert, H., 2493 Schreiner, O., 956 Schubin, Ossip, 441, 716, 513, 2345, 2364, 2288, 2481, 2523 Schücking, Levin, 2388 t, 2405, 2429 SCHULTZ, J., 2267 Scott, M., 984 -, Sir Wa., 589, 617, 726, 728, 757, 878, 930 Scribe, Eugène, 2197 Scudder. M. L., 408 "Sealsfield, C:," 291 Searing, A. E. (P.), Sedgwick, S. R., 169 Seemüller, A .. M. (C.), 241 Serao, M., 2576 k Sergeant, Adeline, 421, 1610, 1621, 1774 Serrao, Th., 2569 Sewell, E .. M., 1882 Shand, Al. I., 941, 1033 Shaw, F. L., 1135, 1153, 465, 2061 Sheppard, E. S., 633, 656 Sherwood, M. E. (W.), 526, 386 Shipley, M. E., 1295 Shorthouse, J: H:, 657, 767, 947, 1788, 975 "Sidney, Ma.," 338 Sigma, 1783 Sigourney, L. (H.), 77 s Silberstein, A:, 2514 Simpson, M. C. MAIR, 1304, 1479, 560 Simms, W: G., 822 Smart, H., 1062, 1094, 1866 Smith, Alex., 1042 ---, Alice (J.), 1928 -, J. P., 0402 -, M .. P. (W.), 204, 42, 64 ---. Seba, 170 ---, Shirley, 1753 –, W. H., 🕼 WHITE

Southworth, E. D. E. (N.), 618, 664 Souvestre, Émile, 1962, 1972, 1974, 2084, 2042, 2076, 2081, 2096, 2099, 2112, 2141, 2147, 2210, 2214, 2215, 2290, 2314, 2512, 2247, 2279, 2284 Speight, T: W., 1083 "Spen, Kay," 1863 Spender, E., 1862, 1880 -, Lily (H.), 457 Spielhagen, F:, 611, 738, 2846 k, 2421, 2498, 2503. 2519, 2533, 2548 Spindler, K:, 2200, 2480 Spofford, H. [E.] (P.), 268, 827, 382 Sprague, M.A., 25 Stael, A. L. G. (N.), 431 p, 2000, 2004, 2111 "Stahl, P. J.," 825 Stanley, J., 1188 ---, Mary, 1864 Stephens, A .. S. (W.), 607, 692Stevenson, E: I.. -, Ro. L., 834, 901 Stifter, A., 2325, 2494 Stilling, J: H: J., 2438 Stimson, F: J., 844 Stinde, J., 424 k. 2349, 2406. 2561 "Stirling, A.," 195 Stockton, F. R: 5 h, 275, 71, 132,962Stoddard, E. [D.] (B), 321, 892, 976 _, W : O.. Stone, E., 467 p, 1377 Storm, Th. [W.]. 747, 2527 Story, Ja. P., 429 —, W: W., 2577 Stowe, H. [E.] (B.), 678, 294, 840, 323, 107, 106, 113, 341, 116, 400, 995 "Strahan, E:," 503 -, L. G. (S.), 2101 Strathesk, J:, 1105 Streckfuss, A., 629, 909, 2534 Stretton, Hesba, 1091, 437, 1670, 1849

2615, 2689

—, J. CECILIA, 1517, (?), 1711,(?), 1885 Stuart, Esmé, 2161, 2324 Sturgis, Julian, 402, 1155, 1204, 1408, 1412, 1598 Sudermann, H., 2368 Sue, Eugène, 826, 856, 2055. 2154, 2162, 2183, 2229, 2277 Sullivan, T: R., 361 SUZETTE, by M .. S. TIER-H: NAN: (New-York, Holt & Co., $1.25.) 151 Swan, A. S., 1038 Swett, Sophie, 13 Synge, W: F., 1640, 1856 mador [Stephenson], Eliza. 613 1109, 1288, 1456, 1543, 1755, 1772, 1910 Talmeyr, Maurice, 2121, "Talvi," 448, 2425 "Tardieu, J. A.", 2166 Tautphœus, J. (M.) von, 593. 666, 473, 521 Taylor, Bayard, 6. 44, 280, 65, 958 –, E 🐽 1717 -, I. A., 1886 Tchekof, 2666 Tchernychewsky, 2701 Teal, A. (G.). 281 Tellet, Roy, 1227 Temme, H., 2331 Temple, G: 1451 Thackeray, A. I ... Ritchie. -, W: M., 1032, 1160, 781, 477, 1490, 1617, 1675, 998 Theuriet, André, 1958, 1969, 1988, 2051. 2052, 2056, 2068, 2136, 2225, 2298, 2313, 2317, Thomas, B., 519 k, 1881, 1893 Thompson, Maurice, 50, 154 ---, Ray. 356 Thoreson, A. M. (K.), 2725 Thornton, M. J., 280 THREE MUSKETEERS, by DUMAS (2 vols. 12 mo. cloth, extra, gilt top, $3.00, Boston, Little, Brown & Co.) 981 Tieck, L:, 2526 Tiernan. M .. S. (N.), 739, 760, 151 Tillier, Claude, 855 Tincker, M. A., 622, 54, 944, 992, 2566 Tinseau, Léon de. 2179 Tolstoi, 1007. 2611, 2620. 2627, 2630, 2638, 2645, 2649, 2667, 2679, 2682, 2694 Tourgée, A. W., 206, 247 Townsend, V. W., 289 Trafton [Knox], A., 285 Treton. Philip, 2568 t Trollope, A., 1043, 1049, 1072, 1082, 1095, 1095, 1098, 1130, 1138, 1151, 1171, 1213, 1214, 1229, 1253, 1157, 1288, 1394, 1409, 1428, 1488, 1446, 1455, 1500, 1524, 1556, 1637, 1653, 1684, 1685, 1698, 1719, 1760, 1794, 1845, 1888, 1900, 2414, 2458, 2557 -, F .. E. (T.), 587, 1054, 1068, 1107, 486, 1499, 1508, 1833, 2510 -, T: A., 1298, 481, 2567, 2574, 2575, 2579, 2581, 2589, 2594, 2605 Trotter, A. M., 422 Trowbridge, J : T., 10 s, 18, 31, 81 h, 246, 800, 93, 100 Tucker, G: F., 117 m Tunstall, N. W., 326 Tur, Eugenia, 968 Turgénief, Ivan, 844, 652. 769, 851, 948, 932, 2171, 2610, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2617, 2628, 2629, 2633, 2635, 2635, 2687. 2648, 2648, 2650, 2652, 2653, 2663, 2664, 2670, 2674, 2677, 2684, 2686, 2687, 2691, 2696, 2698, 2699, 2700, 2702 Twain, M:, 182 Twells, J. H., 951 Tyler, M. L., 1482 Tytler [Greene], M. E. F., 1326, 1861 --- [Liddell], C. C. F., 1417, 1575

–, S...," 425 u, 1126, 718, 1375, 778, 1478, 1754, 1761, 1905 Tzikos, P., 2599 chard, Mario, 2182 Underwood, Fr. H:, 305, 1198 Tachette, E., 2259 Vase, Gillan, 542 Veitch, S. F. F., 1898 Velev, Ma., 1184, 1280, 1297, 1581 Vely, E., 2588 Verga, G., 2582 Verney, F... 1271, 1465 Vicary, J: F., 2706 Vigny, A. de, 1987 VILLAGE PHOTO. GRAPHS, by Augusta LARNED: (New-York, H: Holt & Co., 12°, $1.75) 168 Villari, L. (W.) (M.), 628, 469, 2382, 2584 Volckhausen, A. von, 2556 Voltaire, 2320 Vosmaer, C., 2565 77 alford, L. B. (C.), 1074, 1173, 1203, 1351, 1364, 1541, 1567, 1671, 1751, 1810 Walker, A. L., 1365, 1869 Wallace, E., 1104 Walpole, Horace, 630 "Wanderer," 1811 Ward. Artemus, 1192 k ----, M. (A.), 1552, 1786 Warfield, C. A ... (W.), 627 Warner, A. B., 260 ____, C: D., 293, 381 -, Susan, 46 r, 117 s, 222, 312, 363, 0401 Watts, W. H., 2487 Webb, C : H :, 931 Weber, A., 1064, 1685 Wedmore, F:, 1795, 547, 2204 Weed, Ella, 248 Weitzel, S. W., 219, 283 Wellmer, A., 2868 "Werner, E.," 594, 600, 688, 729, 770, 913, 1008, 1011, 2829, 2883, 2889 q, 2848,

INDEX TO AUTHORS OF WORKS NOTICED IN DESCRIPTIVE LISTS OF NOVELS.

2416, 2427, 2428, 2429, Willammer, 2418, 2511

Westall, W:, 866
Will Wharton, G: F., 397
Wheelwright, J: T., 212
Whitaker, E:, 1663
White, R: G., 452
Whiting, S., 1740
Whitney, A. D. (T.), 5 k, Wir 30 m, 36 p, 199, 244, 258, Wit 269, 384, 355, 149, 529
Wichert, E., 2419, 2563
Wildenbruch, E. von, 2401
Wildermuth, O., 2466
Wildermuth, O., 2466

2429, Wilkins, M. E., 80 w, 55 Willcox, O. B., 136 k Willets, S. B., 830 Williams, H. M., 628 d Williamson, F. (), 1290, 1392 [299 255, "Winchester, Carroll, "Winter, J: S.," 1228, 1801 Winterfeld, A. von, 2470 Winthrop, Th., 209, 62 Witt, H. (G) de, 2041, 2146 —, P. (G.) de, 2196, 2199 Wood, E. (P.), 1139, 1234, 1416, 1471, 1573, 1775 Woolley, C. (P.), 88, 76

Woolson, C. F., 188, 26, 35, 252, 128

Wylde, K.., 1879 b

Yardley, J.. (W.), 295, 876

Yates, E., 1120, 1452

Yonge, C.. M.., 1166, 1183, 1208, 677, 1844, 1346, 1811

Yorke, C., 1128

Zola, Émile, 784, 1943, 1959, 1990, 1996, 2038, 2088, 2093, 2094, 2118, 2148, 2167, 2289 a

Zschokke, [J:] H:, 927, 2341, 2343, 2390 m, 2415, 2428 a. 2444

TRAVEL. A Series of Narratives of Personal Visits to places famous for Natural Beauty and Historical Association. This publication is not an easy one to describe and is wholly beyond criticism. It is made up from the contents of Travel, an interesting and unique semi-monthly periodical published by W: M. Griswold, which consists of select narratives of personal visits to famous places. These selections, indexed in a thoroughly scientific manner, compose the two volumes before us. They are a museum of miscellanea, interesting to the traveler who is endowed with intellectual curi-The only drawback on their use en route is their miscellaneous character, a drawback which disappears when the journey is done and the well seasoned traveler, at home by his family fireplace, wishes to refresh his memories, renew his experiences, or to add to his own personal discoveries. Readers of both classes will find this publication; especially as bound in a permanent form, an invaluable aid in bringing to their notice the best, freshest, and most interesting illustrations which have been published on the field of travel, whether at home or abroad.—[The Independent, 18 Dec. 1890.

A serial of which two volumes have been published, composed of reprints, either in full or abridged, of papers which have appeared in a variety of periodicals and books. The personal element gives a special flavor to this serial, and the editor, who is also the publisher, has a keen scent for the interesting, as well as a good faculty for leaving out the superfluous. The English Lakes, Vallombrosa, the Engadine, Lake George, Quebec, the Black Forest, the Pyrenees, Heidelberg, the White Mountains, are among the subjects treated. The editor has annotated the text judiciously and sparingly.—[The Atlantic Monthly, March, 1891.

LIST OF NUMBERS ISSUED.

Riviera, Lago-Maggiore, Montafon, Franconian-Switzerland, Wengern Alp, English Lakes, Ardennes, Neckar, Rouen to Mctz (by Oscar Browning), Quebec (by H: James), Vallombrosa, Lakes George and Champlain (by H: James), Leuk, Tirol, Holland, Killarney, Dauphiné, Salzkammergut, Brienz and Thun, Harz (by H: Blackburn), Hyères (by Grant Allen), Scotch Highlands, Black Forest, Pyrenees, Tarasp, Ravenna, Mosel, Engelberg, Venice (by E. (L.) Linton), Monaco (by Grant Allen), Zermatt, Mountains near Nice, Spanish Travel, Bay of Naples (by E. (L.) Linton), Vogesen, Sabine Mountains, Arcachon, Devonshire, Lake of Zurich, Eastern Pyrenees, Heidelberg, Etretat, Schaffloch, Badenweiler, Sicily, Bavarian Highlands, Wiesen, Oybin, Val Maggia, Pegnitz Valley, Uriage, Eifel, Albenga, Weimar (by "Geo. Eliot"), Lake Leman, Bohemian Forest, Heiden, Environs of Dresden, Environs of Florence, Lakes of Savoie, Locarno to Rhone, Thüringen, Headwaters of Rhein, Riesengebirge, White Mountains (by Grant Allen), Normandie and Brétagne, Varese, Herculesbad, Fontainebleau, Channel Islands, Odenwald, Mont Dore, Stelvio, Cap d'Antibes (by Allen), Urbino, Along the Seine, Birkenfield and Idar, Along the Eastern Apennines (by Theo. Bacon), Niagara, Rheinland, Heidelberg to Nürnberg (by Taylor), etc.

Price, post paid, in light gray cloth, $2.25 per [small 8vo.] volume. In sheets, $2.00 per vol. of 30 numbers. Each number sold separately at 10 cents a copy.—Address:

W: M. Griswold, 25 Craigie St., Cambridge, Mass.

